The citizens who were present, at a cost of much time and trouble, complained bitterly of the indifference of the Committee. POLICE NOTES.

At the Jefferson Market Police Court, John and Edward Haggerty of No. 352 East Tenth-st. were committed yesterday, the former for stealing a box of tea, value $40, from the store of Richard Kinne, No. 16 First-ave....Edward Callaghan, for stabbing James Lynch.

The investigation into the circumstances connected with the death of an unknown man in a new building in Seventy-fourth-st., near Third-ave., on Thursday, proves that it was an act of determined suicide on his part. Nettie Heiser, a little girl, saw him take a drink from a bottle, which was subsequently found to have contained laudanum, and he then hanged himself with a rope which he had recently purchased. The body has been removed to the Morgue, and will remain there for identification.

Commissioner Bosworth listened, yesterday, to 28 complaints against policemen. Separate charges were made against Police Surgeon Samuel H. Orton and Sergeant Peplins of the Third Precinct, for sending to the Tombs a sick person. C. V. Dillon, instead of ordering him to be taken to the hospital. The Surgeon declared positively that he had ordered the man to be sent to the hospital. The Sergeant denied this, and said that the man had on several occasions passed the night in the station-house, and often been seen under the influence of liquor. The condition of the man when he was received at the Tombs, and his death on the following day, were detailed by Dr. Noalla. The case of Roundsman Patrick Murphy of the Twenty-third Precinct, who was charged by Capt. Hedden with arresting a dog fight in the liquor store of Henry Niebuhr, on the Boulevard, near Eighty-seventh-st., was adjourned for one week.

THE MULBERRY-ST. HOMICIDE.

An investigation was held yesterday in the case of Giovanni Patrilla, who was stabbed in the abdomen and mortally wounded, on Feb. 22, by Michael Rosa, a fellow-tenant, at No. 37 Mulberry-st. Nearly all the witnesses were Italians, and all were non-committal. Not even the widow of the deceased, nor her daughter, age 8, would swear that Rosa stabbed the deceased, although the affray took place by day in the back yard of the tenement, and during the protracted struggle for the possession of the knife Patrilla was stabbed in half-a-dozen places. All had witnessed the affray, and yet not one would testify that a blow was struck with the knife. The widow of the deceased acknowledged that her husband was jealous; that he had objected to her speaking to Rosa; that the affray was begun by her husband pushing Rosa away from her and her little boy; that Rosa had asked the boy to give him some buttons from his dress, and she had interposed to prevent it. She denied that Rosa, on that occasion, had taken improper liberties with her, as was charged by Patrilla. The jury rendered a verdict against Rosa, and he was committed to await the action of the Grand Jury. Four of the principal witnesses were sent to the House of Detention.

A MYSTERIOUS BOND ROBBERY.

Henry J. Fogg, proprietor of the fancy-goods store, No. 295 Canal-st., and Mrs. Freeman, keep a boarding-house at No. 38 Beach-st. On Feb. 23 he went away and did not return until yesterday. During his absence Mrs. Freeman found that a secretary in the rear parlor, used as a sleeping apartment by herself and her sister, had been forced open, the lock removed from a trunk, and $4,000 of promissory notes, $2,000 of Pacific Railroad bonds, $2,000 of Illinois State bonds, and $75 in money, carried away. The Illinois bonds and the money belonged to Mrs. Freeman, and the remainder to him. Thinking that he might have taken the property, Mrs. Freeman did not report her loss to the police. When told of the loss, yesterday, he denied all knowledge of the removal of the property. The police are now endeavoring to discover the thief.

A JEWEL THIEF.

Mrs. Martha Holly of No. 111 West Forty-first-st. discovered, Wednesday afternoon, that some one had robbed her apartments of $600 worth of jewelry during the absence of the family in another part of the house. A woman living opposite told Mrs Holly that early in the afternoon she had seen a young man enter the house, and, after a few moments, come out and walk hastily away. The police were informed of the loss, and the lady gave a description of the young man whom she had seen enter the house. After a few hours' investigation, Capt. Burden of the Twenty-ninth Precinct arrested, on a charge of committing the theft, George Zingler of No. 26 Abingdon-square, a cousin of Mrs. Holly's. While being questioned in the Station-house, Zingler was seen to put a piece of paper in his mouth. Officer Hagen sprang forward, and, catching Zingler by the throat, compelled him to spit out the paper. It was found to be a pawn-ticket for a diamond earring, for which he had received $70 from a pawnbroker in Bleecker-st. Zingler then confessed that he had stolen the jewels, and told what he had done with them. A portion of the property, value $400, was found in a box buried in a yard at No. 10 Abingdon-square. Zingler was committed for trial at the General Sessions.

THE STOKES CASE.

CLOSING ARGUMENTS FOR THE DEFENSE—A DEMONSTRATION AGAINST THE PRISONER.

The trial of the legality of the Grand Jury which found the indictment against Stokes was continued yesterday in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, before Judge Cardozo. Mr. Graham said that if this case went before another Grand Jury the Grand Central Hotel would get such a shaking up as it would receive from an earthquake. That was one of Fisk's immoral haunts; there he spent his money and played the part of a profligate. This made it for the interest of that establishment to shut its doors against the escape of every fact that might be serviceable to the prisoner. That is the castle which is to be protected by the prosecution, but if the matter was put into the hands of men who would perform the duties of Grand Jurors fearlessly and impartially, the District-Attorney would hardly dare press the case, even for manslaughter. They would want to know what Fisk was doing at the Grand Central Hotel, whom he went there to see, who made way with his pistol, what reason Stokes had to suppose he would find him there, and other things of that kind which are sought to be concealed by the prosecution.

Mr. McKeon said that allusion had been made to some indictments against politicians which might be affected by a decision against the legality of the Grand Jury, but no lawyer in any of those cases would put in a plea in abatement because in case the Judge decided against him in the plea in abatement the Court would be authorized immediately to give judgment against his client and to send him to the State Prison or the Penitentiary as the case might be. He had seen a Grand Jury, 28 out of 30 members of whom were known to him to be Democrats, and another with Andrew J. Garvey and Mr. Ingersoll upon it. These things could not have been done honestly. He had been refused an opportunity to appear before the Grand Jury in behalf of a client, yet the profligate Fisk was permitted to walk into the Grand Jury room and manipulate the Grand Jury so as to get an indictment against Stokes; these things should be corrected; as the Grand Jury system had been managed the rights of the citizens of New-York were in the hands of one man—the Mayor. "This man," he continued, pointing to Stokes, "I believe to be as innocent as any one of us of the charge brought against him." Here an incredulous laugh, with hisses, burst forth from the audience, and Stokes's cheek blanched. Mr. McKeon turned to the audience and said, "That mob can have but little humanity to hiss at a remark like that."

Judge Cardozo—If this interruption is repeated I will have the court-room cleared of everybody not engaged in the trial of the case.

Mr. McKeon—This prisoner dare not disclose to the public the line of his defense. When Fisk was asked if he was armed, he said, "O, that has nothing to do with it." Suppose it was a question of who should fire first? If Fisk had shot Stokes he would have been bailed within forty-eight hours afterward.

Mr. Graham—He probably would not have been arrested.

In conclusion, Mr. McKeon appealed to the press to suspend judgment in the case until the defense had produced its evidence.

Judge Cardozo—I will take the questions proposed by either side home with me to-night, and determine whether I will submit them to the jury, or whether I will tell them what my view of the case may be, either by giving them a positive direction to find one way or the other, or by submitting certain facts to them, and telling them what my judgment of the law is.

Adjourned to 10½ o'clock this morning.

CROTON WATER SUPPLY.

To the Citizens of New-York: As there is a great scarcity of Croton water in all parts of the city except those which are not much elevated above the rivers, the supply even in the second stories being in many cases only obtained by pumping, and as this scarcity is said to arise from unnecessary waste, a large proportion of the consumers leaving the water running day and night, it seems to be absolutely necessary that some plan should be devised to prevent this waste. If not remedied, it will before long lead to a repetition of such fires as occurred in 1835 and 1845, but on a much larger scale, as the buildings of the present time are larger and more costly, and the stocks of merchandise of immense value. It would seem that the Croton Department is not without blame in this matter, as it is understood that its attention has long since been called to the use of water-meters. If water can be measured as well as gas, there certainly can be no excuse for the neglect of the Department to introduce meters. If their neglect in this respect exposes the lives and property of a million of people to unnecessary danger, how can they justify themselves?

The difficulty of obtaining a sufficient supply of water would, no doubt, be overcome at once if by the introduction of meters reasonable care in the use of the water could be exercised. If the managers of the gas companies should charge a fixed price for the gas used in each building instead of charging for the quantity consumed, the supply would not hold out many nights. The supply of water is of immensely greater importance to the safety and health of the people than that of gas. Let us stop the waste of water at all hazards. We can substitute for gas kerosene, sperm oil, lard oil, candles, &c. What can we use in place of water? All good citizens and insurance companies are deeply interested in the introduction of some plan to keep up the supply of water in the reservoirs of our magnificent water works, which are not excelled, if they are equaled, by any in the world. The public have very generally overlooked this dangerous state of affairs, which is of such great importance to every resident of this city.

THE NEW-YORK LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY,
Nos. 346 and 348 Broadway,
Offers to those desiring Insurance advantages which cannot be surpassed by any other Institution of the kind.
Assets, $19,000,000. Annual Revenue, $7,000,000

If you want Life Insurance, investigate the claims of this Company to your confidence and support, and especially examine the now offered by the New-York Life Insurance Company, which so combines the Tontine principle in the distribution of surplus with Ordinary Life and Endowment Assurance, as to afford to those who survive certain selected periods and then desire to sell their Policies to the Company, the maximum benefit to which their superior vitality and persistence in payment of premium entitle them. The estimated results upon this class of policies appended hereto have been examined, and are indorsed by the distinguished Actuaries, SHEPPARD HOMANS, esq., and E. W. BRYANT, esq., from whose letters the following extracts are made:

"The benefits you propose to extend to those selecting this class of Policy are more varied in their character and advantages, than are afforded by any plan of Insurance now in use by any Company within my knowledge, and are such as cannot fail to render the Tontine Investment Policy a popular, safe, and highly remunerative form of Insurance."

Very truly yours,
SHEPPARD HOMANS, Consulting Actuary.

"I have no hesitation in saying that I think it more probable that the actual results will exceed than fall short of your estimates."

"The various advantages of this form of Policy are well presented in the circular explaining it, and I notice among them several methods of applying the surplus which do not appear to have ever been offered by any other Company."

Yours truly,
EDWIN W. BRYANT, Consulting Actuary.
