BEEVES—The arrivals to-day were 161 cars at Communipaw, 84 cars at One-hundredth-st., and 32 cars at Weehawken; or 4,393 beeves, against 323 cars, or 5,136 beeves last Monday; and making for the week 8,734 against 8,944 the previous week. The markets opened brisk yesterday, and cattle sold fairly this a. m., but were a little heavy as the day advanced, and closed weaker. The quality was hardly up to last Monday's average, but, all things considered, we think the prices ruled a shade stronger, the extreme range for native cattle being 11½@13¾c., against 10½@14c. the corresponding week last year. A few cars of heavy cattle, average 2 cwt., sold at 12@12½c. The Texans were fair to good, with prices ranging at 9@11½c., mostly at 10½c.; 2 cars, Cherokee, average 5½ cwt., sold at 9c.; 16 cars Texans, 5½@5¾ cwt., sold at 10½c.; 4 cars still-fed, averaging 6 cwt., sold at 11½c.

Our Sumner Co., Kansas, correspondent writes June 7, that the number of herds of Texans entering that State for the week ending at that date were 34 or 35,901 head, against 31 herds or 35,215 for same week last year, and 37 herds or 36,943 head in corresponding week in 1871, making total up to June 7 this year, 100 herds or 129,829, against 89 herds or 93,014 same date last year, and 161 herds or 146,793 head corresponding term in 1871. The following interesting item is taken from The Chicago Live Stock Reporter of June 13:

The following are the receipts and shipments of beef cattle at the Union Stock Yards during the week ending to-day, also last week, and for two weeks ending June 13 of the the present and four preceding years, together with the extreme range of prices paid for native cattle at each period:

Looking at the above table of the actual receipts of beef cattle in this market, for the corresponding two weeks of the past five years, we can hardly characterize our present trade as unfavorable or dull. Within a period of five or rather four years, we have doubled receipts; and as the figures of the past few weeks show, in regard to shipments and sales, the trade of this market. Satisfactory as this apparent development of our trade may be, yet the fact is patent every day that we could have better markets with a smaller supply. The increase is too rapid and too great to admit of a healthy confidence either among buyers or sellers; they both alike feel that in this wholesale style of buying and selling there is too much of risk of uncertainty to make things pleasant, and as the season progresses, unless we are not improving, there is no "let-up" in the supply, but a steady and rather serious decline in its quality. We are beginning to think that the "tops" of Western herds are come, and that hereafter Eastern shippers must be content with the next qualities. This, however, is but a repetition of the experience of former years, and as such may be endured, though it would helpful if it were not so. Already we find that the demand for Eastern marketing is decreasing in proportion with the falling off in the quality of our receipts. Any market from the Mississippi to the Atlantic seaboard can command a full supply of second, third-class, and common cattle, and they will therefore be independent of this or any other particular point. We would like Western shippers to anticipate the future a little just at this time, inasmuch as it seems probable that in a few weeks at the outside this as well as other markets will be deluged with grass and inferior cattle, for which it may be difficult to find any outlet except at ruinous prices.

The trade of the past week certainly leads us to the above conclusion. Since Monday Eastern shippers have shipped fewer cattle, and have wanted less. Yesterday the supply was large and the market dull. Butchers' cattle, both native and foreign, are in large supply, but the probable fact that in a few weeks at the outside this as well as other markets will be deluged with grass and inferior cattle, for which it may be difficult to find any outlet except at ruinous prices.

The trade of the past week certainly leads us to the above conclusion. Since Monday Eastern shippers have shipped fewer cattle, and have wanted less. Yesterday the supply was large and the market dull. Butchers' cattle, both native and foreign, are in large supply, but the demand has been restricted and prices lower. Small fat pony steers sell more readily and at better prices than heavier or poorer qualities, but the supply of smooth, even lots is small.
