WOOL MARKET.

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—The low prices for Wool are causing more demand for the article, and manufacturers are inclined to increase their stock, but some of the heavy holders are not free sellers, as they are confident that the future will develop a better market. Prices are still more or less irregular, being governed by the fact whether the purchaser pays cash or gives for time payments, the former being, of course, much in favor of the former. The sales have been at 45@50c. for Medium, Extra, and Double Extra Ohio and Pennsylvania, prompt cash purchasings from 45@47c., and Wisconsin and Michigan at 42@45c. ⅌ lb. In Combing and Delaine Fleeces nothing of any consequence has been done, but prices cannot be quoted over 50@52½c., although an occasional small lot sells at a higher figure; the leading delaine mills now running have a supply for present wants, and are disposed to bear the present market. Canada Combing is quiet, and prices are nominally 35@37½c. ⅌ lb. Superfine and Extra Pelled have been selling at 35@50c., and California at 15@34c. for Fall and Spring, according to quality.
