THE COURTS.

A SUIT AGAINST WALTER ROCHE.

WRONGFUL CONVERSION OF MONEY CHARGED.

A suit has been brought by Shepherd F. Knapp, as receiver of the Bowling Green Savings Bank property, against Walter Roche for $66,000, alleged to have been unlawfully appropriated by the defendant to his own use. The suit has been pending in the Superior Court since March, and has just been begun. The complaint states that on Nov. 20, 1871, Mr. Knapp was appointed receiver of the Bowling Green Savings Bank by an order of the Supreme Court, in the suit of James Lee against the bank; that on Jan. 16, 1872, the suit was decided in the Supreme Court and judgment was entered, dissolving the corporation; that he was authorized as receiver to bring actions for the protection and recovery of the property of the bank; that Walter Roche, while Vice-President of the bank, wrongfully and unlawfully converted to his own use $66,000, for which judgment is now demanded. Mr. Roche in his defense makes a general denial, urging that he was not Vice-President of the bank up to the time of its alleged dissolution by the judgment of the Supreme Court, but, on the contrary, alleges that he ceased to be such Vice-President in November, 1871.

Reeves C. Selmes, former Secretary of the Bank, Wm. C. Rocleson, broker, and Wm. H. Doughty, Secretary of the Guardian Savings Bank, were the only witnesses examined during the day. In the testimony of the latter an important issue came up. In his cross-examination, Mr. Carter, counsel for Mr. Roche, submitted two checks for $20,000 each, and a small amount of interest added. The witness identified these checks as two drawn by him in his official capacity in favor of the Bowling Green Savings Bank, based on memorandum checks handed him by Mr. Roche against the latter's own private account. He testified that those checks met exactly the amount of two checks for $20,000 each received from the Bowling Green Savings Bank twenty days before, but passed to the private credit of Mr. Roche with interest for the twenty days.

To this testimony the counsel for the plaintiff objected, saying that on a general issue of non-conversion they should not be permitted to come in now and prove that these two checks were in payment of two $20,000 checks received. It was a question whether it was a payment of specific loans, wiping out those absolutely. Judge Speir promised to decide the matter in the morning.

CIVIL NOTES.

The third trial of the Spencer divorce case ended, yesterday, in Brooklyn, and the jury were ordered to render a sealed verdict this morning.

Miss Jeanette H. Hammond, to whom a Brooklyn jury awarded $4,500 at the expense of Wm. M. Dean, has received $3,000 from Mr. Dean as a compromise. Mr. Dean also agrees to pay the costs of the court, while an order of discontinuance has been entered in the Supreme Court.

In the case pending between Edward K. Winship and Caroline F. Winship, counsel for Mrs. Winship applied to Judge Robinson, in the Special Term of the Court of Common Pleas yesterday, for alimony and counsel fees. From the complaint it appears that the marriage occurred in August, 1862, in Philadelphia, and that their only child is now 11 years old. The details of the case are unfit for publication. She alleges him to be worth $400,000 and to have $35,000 annual income. Winship claims that he is a bankrupt, and adds, in respect to Mrs. Winship, that she is intemperate and totally unfit for the custody of her child. Howard Ellis and Hodges & Meeker for Mrs. Winship asked for time to examine and reply to the new affidavits, and were given until Saturday.

In the Kruger Will case, before Surrogate Hutchings, yesterday, in the Surrogate's Court, two witnesses were examined. Mrs. Robinson, who took care of Mrs. Kruger for about five months in the Winter of 1868-69, the period in which the will was written, testified that the testatrix acted in a very strange manner sometimes. She ordered great dinners when no guests had been invited, refused to wear her own clothes on the ground that they belonged to others, could not tell the Old from the New Testament, and did other things which the witness considered evidences of insanity. Jane Martin, who had been employed in the family from 1858 to 1872, testified that Mrs. Kruger was frightened out of her wits about the devil haunted her, and often thought that the house was on fire, and did other things which he thought unaccountable in a sane person.

Richard O'Gorman and F. W. Macnamara asked Judge Robinson, in the Court of Common Pleas yesterday, for a mandamus directing the Controller to pay Daniel Gillespie a balance due him on account of salary as clerk of the Commissioners of Taxes. Gillespie says that on May 9, 1873, the new Board came into existence, and two months afterward he, who had been an old employé, was dismissed without cause, and that during the two months his salary was reduced from $2,000 to $1,500 per year. He not only wants the salary for the two months at $2,000, but he claims that he is still clerk and entitled to that salary up to the present time. Mr. Andrews resisted the motion, claiming that under the statute the moment a successor was appointed the relator was dismissed; that the new Board, on coming into office, notified to all in their employment that they could not fix the salaries as the appropriation was undetermined, and the relator thus remained in office on chance. Decision reserved.

HORSE and CARRIAGE MARKET

NEW-YORK, Wednesday, Feb. 18, 1874.

The demand for most descriptions of horses has been fair to-day, though not remarkably active. Common draft horses of good quality sell well at former rates. In the value of heavy truck horses there is likely to be an advance, as the supply is not very large, and the demand seems to be increasing. Prices for pleasure stock are still lower than they will be later in the season.

The stock offered during the regular semi-weekly sale held at Messrs. Barker & Chase's City Auction Mart and New-York Tattersalls was disposed of as follows:

Description from catalogue.	Hands.	Years.	Price.
Bay mare Lady Harrison, sired by Volunteer, dam by George M. Patchen	15.2	6	$415 00
Black gelding	15.3	6	210 00
Black mare Lady Patchen (George M. Patchen stock)	15.3	6	170 00
Bay gelding (Abdallah stock)	15.1	7	135 00
Gray horse	15.2	8	52 00
Sorrel gelding	15	8	140 00
Brown horse	16	7	187 50
Gray horse	15.3	5	215 00
Black mare	15.2	7	190 00
Pair of chestnut geldings	15.3	5	400 00

The local carriage trade lacks indications of an early Spring movement, and business continues quiet and featureless.
