Owen W. Brennan, and Archibald Bliss. The delegation from the Henry Smith Association consisted of James Lee, President, S. W. Le Compte, and four others. In addition to these there were Shepherd Knapp, A. D. Barber, and several others. The party went no farther than Albany last night, but will leave that city at 8 a. m. to-day for Amsterdam. An invitation will be extended to Speaker Husted in his capacity as Grand Deputy Senior Warden of Masons of New-York, to accompany the Masonic delegation and assist in the services. Senator Jacobs, who belongs to Benevolent Lodge, has also been invited to accompany the delegation. The Masonic lodges of Amsterdam will participate in the funeral ceremonies, which will be held at 1 p. m. at the Methodist Church in Amsterdam.

The Board of Pilot Commissioners adopted resolutions yesterday expressing regret at the death of Mr. Smith, and a "desire to bear testimony to the high appreciation of his many commendable virtues as shown in the Board's official communication with him." The offices of the Department were closed at noon. At a meeting of the Dock Commissioners yesterday opening resolutions were adopted upon the death of Mr. Smith, and out of respect to his memory the regular meeting of the Board was postponed for a week.

WALL-ST. TOPICS.

OPPOSITION TO THE QUICKSILVER STOCK CONVERSIONS.

The stock market was quiet at the opening yesterday, but prices soon began to advance, and at the close of business were generally at the highest point of the day. Quicksilver mining stock advanced 2 per cent, owing to the action of the directors on Wednesday. In connection with the resolution providing for the change of common into preferred stock, the following letter was sent yesterday to the members of the new Executive Committee:

To DANIEL DREW, EUGENE N. ROBINSON, A. B. BAYLIS, J. H. BANKER, and JAMES D. SMITH, Executive Committee of the Quicksilver Mining Company.

GENTLEMEN: We are informed by our clients, holding 6,300 shares of the preferred stock of your company, that a resolution was lately referred by your Board of Directors to your Committee, authorizing you, in your discretion, to allow the holders of the common stock to pay into the treasury of your Company 5 per cent, and after such payments being made, to place such common stock in all respects on an equality with the preferred stock. As any such action by your Committee will work a manifest injustice and injury to our clients, we hereby notify to you that, in the event of your adoption of such resolution, we shall hold you individually and personally responsible for the injuries sustained by them thereby, and that we will forthwith institute proceedings for such injuries and damages. Yours, &c.,

BIRDSALL & FRIEND.

New-York, Feb. 26, 1874.

The Stock Exchange Committee on Admissions yesterday readmitted Geo. Bird Grinnell to membership, in accordance with the recommendation of the Governing Committee. This result has been looked upon as certain since the favorable action of the Governing Committee. The greater part of the session of the Governing Committee yesterday afternoon was occupied by an old arbitration case, which has been before them at their last two or three meetings. It was understood that the sub-Committee on the "forgeries case" reported their action since the last meeting and their reasons for taking it. No conclusions were reached by the Committee, and their proceedings were therefore not made public.

BROOKLYN TAX-OFFICE DEFAULTS.

NEARLY HALF A MILLION MISSING UNDER BADEAU'S ADMINISTRATION.

It appears that the $25,000 which Mr. Badeau is alleged to have stolen from the City of Brooklyn is only a portion of what was abstracted while he was Tax Collector. An additional discrepancy of $3,000 was discovered yesterday; and according to a statement made to a TRIBUNE reporter, by one of the members of the Board of Audit, the expert, Mr. Seaman, has discovered that nearly $300,000 was missing during the ex-Collector's term of office. The case of Mr. Badeau seems to be clearly understood by the prosecution. At a certain date he made his return to the City Treasurer; but his statement of the amount received and deposited in one of the banks shows a large discrepancy from the actual amount. The books in the Tax Collector's office, as well as the bank-books, show the exact amount deposited, while the statement of the Tax Collector to the City Treasurer shows how much the former turned over to the city. The discrepancies between these amounts is precisely the sum which corresponds to the defalt paid by those who have submitted their receipted bills to the scrutiny of the accountant, Mr. Seaman. The discrepancies, moreover, have been traced to Mr. Badeau's private account. It is claimed that he must have known how much money he deposited on a certain day, and by referring to his bank book he would certainly have known that his statement of that deposit to the City Treasurer was incorrect. The question is asked: If there was no intention to defraud the city, why were the amounts erased in the books of the Tax Office? It is stated that A. S. Wheeler, who had very intimate relations with Mr. Badeau in the Tax Office, can explain satisfactorily how that officer came by much of his real estate. He was one of Mr. Badeau's bondsmen, and it was rumored yesterday that a warrant had been issued for his arrest and that the necessary legal documents were being prepared by the proper officers. On inquiry a reporter ascertained that the rumor was entirely unfounded, as there was no possible charge upon which Mr. Wheeler could be held to answer for transactions in which he was simply a purchaser.

The developments in the Tax Office have apparently aroused grave suspicions in regard to all public officials, and tax-payers are beginning to scan their bills more closely and make inquiries. The following letter was sent to Mayor Hunter yesterday:

DEAR SIR: A great number of people are called upon to pay their taxes the second time under somewhat the following circumstances: In some way they get their tax bills, which do not cover their property, but the property next to theirs, and pay it; and the property paid on is canceled, not their own, and after a while it is found out, and they have to pay it over, with cost of advertising and sale. There is no way, says the Receiver of Taxes, to get it back; the real owner of the property is called upon to pay again.

Does the money go into the Treasury, or is it gobbled? Would it not be well to establish a bureau of inquiry for all aggrieved parties to make known their utterances? Yours truly, R. G. BUTLER.

The Mayor has opened in his office a complaint book, in which there may be entered records of cases similar to that of Mr. Butler, so that proper inquiries can be made concerning them.

A CO-OPERATIVE CIGAR MANUFACTORY.

The members of the New-York Coöperative Cigar Manufacturing Company held a meeting yesterday at No. 198 Second-st., and received several large subscriptions to the stock of the Company. The fitting up of the manufactory at No. 19 East Houston-st. was reported to be proceeding steadily, and no doubt was expressed in relation to the beginning of operations next Monday. The Coöperative Cigar Manufacturing Company is an organization composed of 300 working cigarmakers, who, in consequence of the recent strikes, have resolved to form an association whereby they may be able to secure to themselves the profits of their labor without being compelled to surrender the greater bulk of it to capitalists. The Company is composed of stockholders, no one member of which is to hold more than 20 shares, worth $500, nor less than one share, worth $25. The holder of the 20 shares will have no more power in a meeting of shareholders than the owner of one, each having the right to only one vote. The Company has opened an account with the Bowery National Bank, in which it has already deposited, since Feb. 21, $30,740 60. In addition to this, the Association has purchased with cash all the working tools and appliances belonging recently to the firm of T. J. Raynor & Co., of No. 69 Maiden-lane, with which they are now fitting up a large establishment at West Houston and Mercer-sts. Here they intend at present to occupy the second, third, and fourth floors and basement. As the Company has already on hand, paid for, a stock of tobacco worth $10,000, there is nothing to delay the work beyond the fitting up of the premises. Before Monday next, the members have every reason to believe, their capital in bank will have increased to $80,000, as the payments for subscriptions to stock in the Company are being rapidly made. Arrangements are in progress to secure the whole of the upper part of the premises, consisting of five stories, by May 1, at which time the Company expects to have conveniences for the employment of several hundred persons in the various branches of the business. Even now, with the limited accommodations, the Company will have over 100 men at work by Monday. An application has been made to the Legislature for an act of incorporation, and the charter is expected daily. Joseph Svanderlik is the President of the Company, and Joseph Slavik Secretary and Treasurer. Everything required in the carrying on of the business is to be purchased with cash; consequently all markets will be open to the Association. With these advantages, the members expect to be able to turn out better work and a superior class of goods at a cheaper rate than has heretofore been charged, and yet enable every working member of the Association to receive a fair remuneration for his labor.

A BILLIARD INJUNCTION SUIT.

The patent suit of Mathew Delaney against Michael Phelan and Hugh W. Colleuder was called up for hearing in the United States Circuit Court, before Judge Woodruff, yesterday. Mr. Delaney alleges that the defendants were infringing his patent for billiard cushions of Nov. 28, 1869, which claims the insertion of strained wires in billiard cushions as giving beneficial advantages in the matter of elasticity over cushions not having such appliance. The defense offered the patents taken for cushions by Levi Decker in 1866, and by the defendant Collender in 1871. After argument, Judge Woodruff rendered decision in favor of the Delaney patent, and granted an injunction against the defendants, and an order for damages for their infringements of the complainant's patent.

THE COURTS.

THE TRIAL OF JAMES C. KING.

THREE JURORS OBTAINED—INSANITY THE GROUND OF DEFENSE.

The murder of Anthony F. O'Neill, for which James C. King was brought before the bar yesterday, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, before Judge Brady, was committed on Nov. 18, 1872, and grew out of a divorce suit instituted by his wife, Anna T. King. King and his wife, during a Summer residence in the country, had been visited by O'Neill. Two divorce suits were instituted, one by King and the other by his wife, for cruel usage. It was in the latter suit that a hearing before the referee, ex-Judge Sutherland, at No. 42 Pine-st., had been had on the day of the murder, and testimony showing King's cruelty to his wife had been elicited. As O'Neill left the office, and was on his way down stairs, King shot at him three times, without warning, one of the wounds proving fatal.

District-Attorney Phelps and Assistant District-Attorney Lyons conducted the case for the people. William A. Beach, John O. Mott and A. H. Hummell appeared for the prisoner. The court room at no time during the day was crowded. The prisoner sat beside his counsel, watching each juror as he was called up for examination, and occasionally offering suggestions to his counsel. The number of names in the panel was 100, and about 80 answers were received; but only three men entered the jury-box. Seven were peremptorily challenged by the prosecution and six by the defense. The plea of the defense was foreshadowed by the questions asked by Mr. Beach. They were asked if they had reflected upon the question of the defense of insanity; if they were prejudiced against such a defense, and whether they would give to the evidence in such a case the same impartial consideration as to the evidence for the prosecution.

The first man called was John Rhody, who was peremptorily challenged by the District-Attorney. During his examination the question arose as to whether the jurors should be sworn as they were accepted, or whether the changes in the jury law rendered it unnecessary to put them on oath until a complete jury was obtained. The Court decided that they might be sworn as accepted. Solomon Warner thought he had no impression or opinion upon the homicide, but the prosecution challenged him peremptorily. George P. Dege, a druggist, proved satisfactory to both sides, and was sworn in as the first juror. Henry M. Smith said he had formed an impression as to the defense of insanity and did not believe cases of insanity were so frequent. He was peremptorily challenged by the defense. Max Friburg was excused on account of his opinions. William Dooling thought the defense of insanity was set up too often, and though he thought he could give a just verdict, he was set aside by the prosecution. Milton T. Lash was challenged by the District-Attorney. Josiah C. Cady was suspicious of the defense of insanity, and was set aside by the defense. John Denny was also peremptorily challenged by the defense for his scruples regarding capital punishment, though he would give an honest verdict. Henry C. Glover, a traveling agent of No. 10 Ann-st., was sworn in as the second juryman.

Chauncey A. Frees, a maker of artificial limbs of No. 682 Broadway, took his seat as the third juryman.

Charles H. W. Wegrum, Fernando C. Gleason, Dedrich Ahrens, Matthew Morgan, Charles H. Scott, Edward F. Milier, James W. Beil, and Herman Cohen were successively excused for previous opinions or conscientious scruples about imposing the death penalty. Henry S. Terbell and William Hardy were peremptorily challenged by the defense, and Adam F. Gunn was challenged peremptorily by the prosecution.

CIVIL NOTES.

A suit has been begun in the United States District Court against M. J. McKeon and M. K. McKeon to recover $20,000 on the bond of M. K. McKeon, who was a paymaster in the army.

Judge Tappen has reserved his decision in the matter of an application which was made to him to continue the injunction restraining Sheriff Williams from selling the property of the Long Island Club.

The hearing of evidence in favor of the will of Frederick Rollwagen was begun yesterday in the Surrogate's Court before Surrogate Hutchings. The testimony offered against the will has been to the effect that Mr. Rollwagen could not articulate distinctly, but the drift of the testimony as given yesterday was that he could speak so as to be understood. Upon another disputed point—the marriage of the deceased to the legatee, Magdalena Rollwagen—the Rev. J. F. Busche, who performed the ceremony, testified to the fact. The certificate of marriage which was sent to the Health Department was also produced. The case will be continued this morning.

CRIMINAL NOTES.

At the Yorkville Police Court yesterday Michael Boylan, charged with being an accomplice in the wounding of the boy Wm. J. O'Connor on Monday night, was committed to await the result of O'Connor's injuries.

For some time past a gang of thieves has caused considerable annoyance to the residents of Harlem. On Wednesday night Officer McAulay arrested one of them named Thomas Kersey, age 11. He was committed for trial yesterday at the Harlem Police Court. He has given the names of his confederates, and it is hoped that the gang will be broken up.

In the Court of General Sessions yesterday before Recorder Hackett several prisoners pleaded guilty. Louis Shait, alias Charles Burnett, for grand larceny, received a sentence of five years in State Prison. Alexander W. Reid, Alfred Brown, Robert Henry, and George Farly, for attempts at burglary in the third degree, received sentences of 2½ years each in State Prison. Nicoli Zucarello, for carrying concealed weapons, was sent to the Penitentiary for 30 days.

In the Jefferson Market Police Court, yesterday, John Collins and Charles Jones were remanded on a charge of obtaining goods under false pretenses.....As Capt. Williams of the Eighth Precinct was riding down town on the rear platform of a Seventh-ave. car, a suspicious looking fellow got on, and after riding a few blocks, began jostling against the Captain. On arriving at Houston-st., Capt. Williams got off, followed by the stranger, who inquired the time. The Captain told him to go about his business, when the man put his hand in his pocket as if to draw a revolver, on seeing which the Captain knocked him down and subsequently had him brought to the Station-house, where, on being searched, a slung-shot was found in his pocket. The Police Justice committed him without bail.

HORSE and CARRIAGE MARKET

NEW-YORK, Thursday, Feb. 26, 1874.

The reappearance of midwinter on the very threshold of Spring has put a sudden stop to the activity which for the last fortnight has been steadily developing in the local horse trade. With the present snow blockade in our streets, the trial of fine pleasure stock and consequent transactions are naturally out of the question, and even the demand for business horses is at present limited to current wants of the city railroad and stage lines. There were no noteworthy sales by auction to-day, and there was very little life in any other department under this head.
