BUTTER.

Receipts for the week, 21,765 pkgs.; do. last week, 14,663 pkgs.; do. same week last year, 14,188 pkgs. Receipts have been very liberal, but have not contained an ample supply of the choice grades that best buyers are in want of. With the possibility of a large accumulation of the under grades, sellers are offering stock freely and make a price rather than lose a sale. The entire trade look for a low winding up for the baby remnant of the crop of State, and a quick sale for anything below fancy cannot be promised. The following from a recent circular of Messrs. Walter Carr & Co. well expresses the tone of opinion of many other leading distributors of the dairy product:

"We look upon the situation and the prospect as week and demoralized, the end of which no one can safely predict, as its depressing influences are likely to last long; possibly we may be on the eve of a series of years of low and unremunerative prices for Dairy Produce; for it seems to be more in mind, that the dairying interests of this country have been stimulated to a quick and unexampled growth, which has attained a magnitude beyond all conception, and the time must come, if it has not already in part, when a reaction in prices must take place, and show that the world's consumption of Dairy Produce at fancy prices has a limit. We recommend all milk buyers with whom we have any influence, to make their contracts at from 20 to 25 per cent less than they have been doing for some time past. We do not mean to argue that Butter and Cheese will not be wanted in the future as in the past, but we do claim that prices must sooner or later come down, in keeping with other articles of American produce; and we believe that we are now in that transition state which will change Butter and Cheese from articles of luxury to those of necessity, and prices accordingly. The millions of unemployed people all over the world, the paralyzation of manufacturing interests, tendency to lower wages, and smaller incomes with all classes, will of necessity produce more men to turn to the soil to seek a livelihood. Hence the already simple production of all classes of agricultural produce, including Butter and Cheese, must continue to increase rather than diminish, and if this assumption is correct, the deduction is fair that prices will average lower in the future, not only in this country, but all over the civilized world where the products in question are made and consumed."

A Western butter rules easy; 314 firkins were taken for Europe, and we hear of about 500 firkins taken for California, all at low prices, averaging about 18c. A good many sound varies of State are arriving, but they suffer from overholding both in price and classification. Quotations:

The market is strong for high grades of factory, and a very little shading of rates would be likely to induce shippers to operate to a considerable extent. Dealers, however, feel that they can hold the market at least where it is, and many of them look for something better. We quote:

FRESH FRUITS.

The apple market continues steady for prime sound table fruit, but the improved prices will not commensurate for inferior lots. Strawberries and other fruits vary. HOPS.

Receipts for the week, 171 bales; do. last week, 201 bales; same week last year, 557 bales. The market has not recovered from the sluggish condition it settled into some time since. Brewers make frequent visits, but their purchases are in no way of a wholesome character. Many brokers seem to have unshaken confidence in the future of the hop trade, as high rates and dull trade would indicate. There are but few hops going abroad, but even with a light export and a fair home Spring business, the supply is estimated as limited enough to warrant firm views on the part of owners. Total export since Sept. 1, 1874, 24,740 bales. The English market is reported flat; a shade easier, but with no promise to sell. Continental markets firm.

COUNTRY HOP REPORTS.

BARABOO, WIS.—One of our dealers has been making an estimate of the Hops in Wisconsin, Feb. 1, 1875, and found 3,600 to 3,900 bales to be a close approximation. Keeping about 1,200 bales held by growers, the balance are in "second hands," in "blocks" of 50, 75, 100, 300, 400 bales. About the last of January 400 bales were shipped from here to New-York, and these are not included in the above estimate. Recently some shipments have been made to Europe direct—a carload from LaValle by local shippers—and we also learn that a dealer of New-York City purchased 150 bales in this State for that purpose; but how the late decline in New-York will affect the profits of this venture we are unable to determine. Our local dealers seem to have an "abiding faith" in the future, and that every decline must be temporary; yet dealers do not care to "Summer over" any of their present stocks.—[Republic, Feb. 17.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—We continue our quotations nominally at 32½@37½c., gold, but notwithstanding the dull trade and almost an entire absence of demand at ruling rates, holders generally remain firm, and are unwilling to make any concessions to effect sales. The market at New-York is quoted moderately firm, though exportations have ceased for the time. Of what we consider good to choice Californians the stock on hand is light, and we think is mostly confined to this market, as it is believed that the bulk of the crop of '74, which has been held at the different plantations, has now come forward.—[Littlefield, Welsh & Co.'s Circular, Feb. 11.

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y.—Hops evidently reached their highest mark at about 40, and it is not likely that any now in the hands of growers will go beyond that figure unless there should spring up a foreign demand. Our own crop was larger than estimated, and the brewing demand is limited.—[Freeman's Journal, Feb. 18.

MEATS.

The demand for meats at West Washington Market is not regularly active, as Lent cuts off more or less trade. We quote live calves, Pennsylvania and New-Jersey, at 9@10½c.; do. State, 8@10c. At the Harlem Railroad platforms the daily average prices were as follows: Feb. 23, $2 50; Feb. 24, $2; Feb. 25, $2; Feb. 26, $2; Feb. 27, $2 50; Feb. 28, $2 75; March 1, $2 25; average, $2 43 per can of 40 quarts; average last week, $2 33½. As the season has approached a period of uncertain weather prices at the platforms are liable to fluctuate. The higher prices noted have only ruled on the coldest days. The farmer's average price for February was 4c. ₱ quart; cost of freight, 1½c., making 5½c. for February.

POULTRY AND GAME.
