THE TILTON-BEECHER TRIAL.

thing, so far as appears, was dreamed of; deluding her with the sophistry that she was to be his defender before a council of ministers. "Ah, I have come to you again and again, when sorrow and depression and discomfort weighed upon me, and you have been to me a rest and a cheer. Your soft hands and gentle voice would comfort me. Now you have struck me down to death and ruin. Will you defend me?" Is this statement to her husband all the imagination of Tilton? How could Tilton have thought of an argument of this kind addressed by Mr. Beecher to Mrs. Tilton? Did he invent that letter? Was he apprised by any means of any of the details of the interview between Beecher and Mrs. Tilton, except by the declaration and confession of Mrs. Tilton? How did he know that Beecher had addressed these arguments to her? How did he know that the letter that Beecher got was dictated by him, as Mrs. Tilton declares? How did he know that Beecher in the prostration and humiliation of that occasion—broken, disheartened, crushed as he was when he left the door of Moulton—how did Tilton know that Beecher had said to his wife: "Your letter or statement has ruined me; my life-work is ended." Yet, gentlemen, you are to believe this. You are to believe that that reassertion, so damaging to Beecher, so destructive in its implications upon him and his offense; you are asked to believe that that was written by this lady at the dictation and compulsion of her husband, rather than being the spontaneous outbreak of her regret that the personal influence of Beecher should have led her to the indiscretion of her former note.

The Court then adjourned until this morning at 11 o'clock.

VERACITY OF JOHN J. PRICE.

REPUTATION OF AN ALLEGED WITNESS OF IMPROPER CONDUCT ON MR. BEECHER'S PART—FALSE STATEMENTS DECLARED TO HAVE BEEN MADE BY HIM.

The reputation for veracity of John J. Price, whose name was used in a publication in The New-York Herald, in which it was asserted that Price, with another man, had seen undue familiarity between Mr. Beecher and Mrs. Tilton, has been made a subject of inquiry. Thomas J. Evans, proprietor of the Franklin House, in Fulton-st., Brooklyn, made the following statement yesterday in regard to the report that he had paid Price money for giving him information concerning the burning of his property in Peekskill. "About three months ago," said Mr. Evans, "Price came here and told me that my house, situated on on Lane-st., Peekskill, had been destroyed by fire, and that Vance Decatur, a resident of the place, had asked him to tell me. Price is a total stranger to me, although I am acquainted slightly with his brother, a very industrious, hard-working man residing in Peekskill. I doubted the statement of Price and questioned him very closely, but he answered all my questions in a straightforward manner. What led me to put so much faith in his story was that he said that his mother held a mortgage upon the property adjoining mine. I knew that the owner had it mortgaged, but not know who held the mortgage. Price gave me a full description of the burning of my house, saying that he had been an eye-witness. I asked him if he was a resident of Peekskill. He said he was not—that he was only up there visiting his brother, and expected to return the next day. Price hung around my place all day, and threw out a number of hints that he was out of money. I did not feel disposed to give him any, but allowed him to have all he wished to drink, and told him I was going to Peekskill in the morning, and would take him up if he wished. Toward evening he left the house, and I have not seen him since to my knowledge.

"In the morning," continued Mr. Evans, "I started to Peekskill to see what amount of damage had been done, and I also gave notice to the insurance company that I was going, and would send them word about the loss. When I got there I found no fire had occurred, and I had been deceived by Price."

When asked what he thought the motive of Price was in telling him such a story, Mr. Evans said: "Price is a worthless fellow and drinks. My bar-tender had put him out of the house prior to his telling me. The only reason that I can give for his telling such a story was that he hoped to get some money out of me." Mr. Evans also remarked that he had heard that Price had played the same trick at Mr. Beecher's, and had stated that Mr. Beecher's farm-house had been destroyed by fire. As Mr. Beecher was absent at the time from his Brooklyn home, his son gave Price about $4 for the information.

TUESDAY, June 15—P. M.

The Wall Street markets to-day have been exceedingly dull. Gold has maintained the recovery from the extreme decline of yesterday, the sales having been all at 116¾ and 116⅞. As a cause for the decline of yesterday, it is stated that certain parties were large sellers in anticipation of the heavy disbursements from the Treasury for the called 5.20 bonds; but in view of the facts that these bonds are largely held abroad, and that our exports of products are exceedingly light just at this time, while the negotiation abroad of new loans is almost entirely suspended, there would seem to be slight ground for the creation of a large short interest. We hear it intimated that the "coin" reported as held by the Treasury is much more largely composed of silver than is generally supposed. We have no knowledge as to the fact, but under existing circumstances it is of importance to the mercantile community that the Treasury should in its monthly statement separate the gold "coin" held by it from the silver. The stock market has been dull but firm, Union Pacific taking the lead in a continued advance, selling as high as 74, ex dividend of 1½ per cent, and closing at 75⅜, dividend on. As we remarked yesterday there seems to be a scarcity of this stock among the traders, although to-day's advance has undoubtedly brought out some of the stock recently purchased in the neighborhood of 70, and which, very likely, the buyers have sold to-day with the idea that so rapid an advance would be followed by a reaction, so that they would be able to "get in" again at a lower price; but the eagerness with which the stock was taken, and the firmness with which it closed, would seem to argue to their disappointment. Perhaps much of to-day's strength for the stock was derived from the official reports of the Company's earnings and expenses for the first four months of the current year, which was known upon the street, and which will be found below. The Western stocks recovering from the scare in regard to a further issue of North-Western stocks were firmer, particularly those of St. Paul. Lake Shore also shows a gain upon the price of last night, but upon a very much reduced business, and perhaps its fractional advance may rather be attributed to sympathy with the firmness of the general market than to its own supposed merits. The stock to-day has presented indications of having got into just the same position that it was in at 73@74, when at times it was difficult to obtain a quotation, so little was the trading in it. Erie remains dead at 16¾@17, and awaits further developments before making any material change in the quotation. In the mean time a few shorts liquidate each day and retire to more promising fields for immediate returns. Western Union has taken the lead in the number of shares dealt in to-day, and has been strong from the opening to the close. New-Jersey Central recovered more than its loss of yesterday. The total business of the day amounted to only 102,100 shares of which 22,200 were in Western Union at 74¾@75½@75¼@75⅝, a gain of ⅞ per cent; Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph, 600 shares at 23⅞@23¾, a decline of ¼ per cent; Pacific Mail, 12,800 shares at 33¼@33⅛@33⅜, a gain of ⅛ per cent; Atlantic and Pacific Preferred, 300 shares at 15¼@15½, a gain of 1 per cent; Pacific of Missouri, 200 shares at 49½@49¼, a decline of ¾ per cent; St. Louis and Kansas City Preferred, 300 shares at 38¼, a gain of ¼ per cent; Union Pacific, 13,700 shares at 74½@74⅞@75@74⅞@75⅜@74 (ex div.)@75@75⅜, a gain of 1⅜ per cent; North-Western, 9,400 shares at 37¼@38@37⅜@38@37¾, a gain of ⅜ per cent; Preferred, 1,900 shares at 49@48¾@50¼@49¾@50, a gain of 1⅜ per cent; St. Paul, 7,700 shares, at 31@30⅞@31⅞@31¼@32⅜, a gain of 1⅜ per cent; Preferred, 600 shares, at 55@55¼, a gain of 1¼ per cent; Rock Island, 400 shares, at 102½@102⅝, a gain of ⅝ per cent; Ohio and Mississippi, 2,000 shares, at 23⅝@24@23⅞, a gain of ⅛ per cent; Wabash, 1,000 shares, at 9, a decline of ⅜ per cent; Lake Shore, 21,500 shares, at 63¾@63½@64⅛@63⅞@64⅜, a gain of ⅝ per cent; Erie, 3,900 shares, at 16¾@17@16⅞, no change; Central and Hudson, 500 shares, at 104@103⅞@102¼, ex div., a gain of ½ per cent; Central of New-Jersey, 1,500 shares, at 107½@107@109¾@109¼, a gain of 1½ per cent.
