THE COURTS.

PROGRESS OF THE SCANNELL TRIAL.

TESTIMONY OF THE PRISONER'S MOTHER AND SISTER AND OTHER WITNESSES.

The trial of John Scannell was continued yesterday morning before Judge Barrett. George W. Hojer testified to the prisoner's restlessness after the death of his brother Florence; this was especially marked when his brother's name was mentioned; his eyes were wild and bloodshot. Peter Carroll gave testimony concerning the remarkable affection existing between John and Florence Scannell; after the death of Florence, John's manner seemed to change and he lost all interest in his business affairs. Otis J. Wilson testified that John Scannell seemed to forget everything, except the fact of his brother's death; he was once walking with Scannell and they met Donohue; Scannell, when he saw Donohue, said, "Look there," and exhibited very great excitement. The witness said Scannell, in his presence, never uttered threats against Donohue.

Oatman S. Paine, M. D., who is a practicing physician in this city and attached to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, was next called; he had been for some time the physician of the Scannell family; the prisoner's health, so far as he knew, was perfect before the shooting of Florence; after that the witness saw John in Bellevue Hospital, when Florence was under treatment; the prisoner was "perfectly wild" when he was told that Florence would die; he was very pale, although before the shooting of Florence he had a good deal of color; his eyes were wild and rolling; although the witness and other physicians told him that Florence was dying, he persisted in saying his brother was getting well; after the shooting the prisoner wasted away, was nervous, and acted as no sane man would act; the witness recommended that he should be placed in a lunatic asylum, as he judged him to be insane; he gave this advice two or three months before Donohue was shot; Scannell's talking was incoherent; he had monomania; he talked continually of the death of his brother.

William Johnson, the next witness, was formerly Warden of the Tombs, and had charge of John Scannell during part of his imprisonment; Scannell, he said, talked continually of his brother and of Donohue. The Court here took the usual recess of an hour.

At the afternoon session the prisoner was taken to the rear of the room and placed with his back toward the stand while his sister and mother were testifying. Catherine Scannell testified that she noticed a change in her brother John on the day that Florence was shot; when he was brought into the room where Florence was, he took her in his arms, kissed her, and laughed; she never heard him laugh so before; on election day he did not recognize the witness; she took him by the hand and kissed him, but he took no notice of her; one day she found him in the basement, walking up and down and talking to himself; he had bitten his tongue and it was bleeding; when he came to his mother's house he would not remain seated, but would jump up and walk up and down; he lost all affection for the family.

Maurice J. Power, Clerk of the Marine Court, said that in his conversations with Scannell he noticed that Scannell's mind seemed to be unhinged by the shooting and death of his brother. Patrick McGee testified that he also had noticed a change in the manner of Scannell. John Feber, a former keeper in the Tombs, testified that he noticed the inconsistent talking of the prisoner.

Mrs. Bridget Scannell, mother of the prisoner, testified that after the death of her husband, 11 years ago, the burden of the family had been on John Scannell; he was specially affectionate toward his sister, who was an invalid; the witness said, with great emphasis, that there was a very great change in the manner of John after the shooting of Florence; he had such an expression on his face that he frightened her, and he treated her with great coldness; sometimes she would have to speak to him a dozen times before she could get an answer; he was continually muttering to himself; he forgot everything very easily, and seemed to have lost his memory; at one time, when he was standing before the picture of Florence, he was tearing his hair and gnashing his teeth; he then ran violently into the street; the witness had seen him dash his head against the marble mantelpiece; on the day of Florence's funeral he said he wished an earthquake would come and swallow the whole family; on another occasion he threw himself on his mother's bed; he was preparing and muttering; he shook his head and dashed it against the bed; she was afraid of him; he accused her of attempting to kill his children. The witness gave several instances of strange and eccentric actions of Scannell.

The defense proposes to read the testimony of Dr. Echeverria on the former trial, and offered to prove that the witness went to Cuba on business after receiving his fees for attendance on the second trial, but had not returned, and is now in London. Counsel cited "Greenleaf on Evidence" to show the admissibility of the testimony, as there was nothing new to examine the witness about, and the discretion of the Court should be exercised in favorem vitæ by admitting the evidence of the medical expert on the question of insanity, and he appealed to the prosecution to admit it. Assistant District-Attorney Rollins, in reply, said there was no settled law on the subject. The District-Attorney had postponed the trial for the doctor's attendance, and a commission was never asked for. The testimony on both trials was not the same. The doctor's testimony was on hypothetical questions. Moreover, the written testimony of a witness who has gone beyond the seas is not allowed in criminal cases; it is only where the witness is dead that it can be admitted. Mr. Beach replied, and the Court took a recess until 7 p. m.

At the evening session Judge Barrett stated that he was clearly of the opinion that the evidence of Dr. Echeverria was inadmissible. The cases in this State were all on one way in excluding such evidence. There was some conflict of cases in other States. He did not think that the exclusion of this testimony would harm the prisoner. Dr. Echeverria's former testimony had been purely scientific and not based on any physical examination of the prisoner, and any other expert might be able to state the same facts. Mr. Beach excepted to the ruling, and said that Dr. Parsons of the Lunatic Asylum on Blackwell's Island would be called on the defense to give testimony similar to that which had been excluded. He desired an adjournment until Friday and an attachment to compel the attendance of Dr. Shine as a witness. The attachment was granted and the adjournment taken until Friday at 10:30 a. m.

A QUESTION OF JURISDICTION.

EFFECT OF AN IRREGULARITY IN PRACTICE IN THE UNITED STATES COURTS.

In the United States District Court yesterday, Judge Blatchford rendered an important decision respecting the effect of irregularity in practice on the jurisdiction of the Court. In the case of Debos W. Getchell, an involuntary bankrupt, the petition was filed on Feb. 25, 1875. An order to show cause was issued on the same day, and made returnable on March 6, 1875. The petition was verified before a notary public. This was done before the Revised Statutes of the United States, approved June 22, 1874, were promulgated, and when it was not known that their effect was such as to repeal the statute which authorized oaths to be used in proceedings in United States courts to be taken before notaries public. On March 6, 1875, proof of service of the petition and order to show cause on the debtor was presented to the United States District Court in the form of an affidavit made by W. C. Gayler, and sworn to before a notary public. On the same day an order of adjudication was entered, on the default of Getchell to appear, adjudging him a bankrupt. A warrant was then issued, upon which his property was taken, and an assignee was appointed. An assignment was made to him, and, after the usual proceedings under it, a creditor of the bankrupt, who was not shown to have proved his debt, presented to the Court a petition praying that the adjudication in bankruptcy and the proceedings thereunder be vacated on the grounds that the original petition was verified before a notary public; that no deposition of any witnesses to any act of bankruptcy, and no deposition as to any claim of any petitioning creditor, are to be found on the files of the Court. The proof of service of the petition and order to show cause on the debtor was defective, as the venue was not stated therein, and it was sworn to before a notary public.

Judge Blatchford reserved his decision until yesterday, when he denied the petition with costs. He said:

The verification of the petition before a notary public was irregular, but the irregularity did not affect the jurisdiction of the court. It, before the order of adjudication was entered, the irregularity had been brought to the notice of the Court, it could and would have been remedied. The question whether the petition is verified before a proper officer is one of practice and not of jurisdiction. It is competent for the Court to decide that it is verified before a proper officer, and when the Court has so decided, and an order of adjudication has been entered, it is too late for the debtor or for any creditor to raise the question. An order of adjudication is a judgment, and is as effective as any other judgment to cure irregularities in practice which do not touch the jurisdiction of the Court. As to the depositions which are not to be found on file, and which, it is alleged, were never filed, the objection is of the same character with that in regard to the irregularity of the petition. * * * The objection in respect to the absence of the statement of any venue in the affidavit of service of the petition and order to show cause on the debtor, and the objection that such affidavit was sworn to before a notary public, and the objection that such affidavit did not allege that the petition and the order to show cause were served on the debtor by delivering the same to him personally, or by leaving the same at his last place of residence, and that no order for the publication of the same had been entered or obtained, are not tenable. They are not made by the debtor, but by a creditor, who does not bring them to the attention of the Court until nearly six months after an adjudication of bankruptcy has been entered.

E. Sampter for the application, and W. F. Scott opposed.

ARREST FOR CONSPIRACY TO DEFRAUD.

On Oct. 30, 1875, in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, Julius Witkowski, David C. Stewart, Henry Feltersberg, Aaron Brummer, Gen. James S. Negley, Lewis Pick, and James T. Elliott were indicted for conspiring to defraud the Government out of $20,000 on a claim for 4,141 logs, alleged to have been furnished, in October, 1862, to Capt. James St. Clair Morton, an engineer in the army, for the defense of Nashville, Tenn. Witkowski was arrested in this city yesterday by Deputy United States Marshal Newcomb, on a warrant for his removal to Washington to be tried. He was taken before Commissioner Osborn, who committed him to the custody of the Marshal. His counsel, Samuel Beardman, then applied to Judge Blatchford of the United States Circuit Court for his release on bail. The application was granted, and Witkowski gave bail in $10,000 to appear in Washington for trial on Dec. 7. His sureties are his wife and Bartnold Meyer.

CIVIL NOTES.

In the matter of the city against William M. Tweed, Judge Donohue yesterday adjourned the case until Friday at 10 a. m.

F. G. Gedney and Timothy J. Campbell, recently elected Civil Justices, took their oaths of office yesterday, before Judge Donohue, in Supreme Court, Chambers.

In the case of Charles C. Southhart, assignee for Wm. H. Decker, in bankruptcy, against Maurice J. Walsh, in Part I., Supreme Court, before Judge Van Vorst, the jury yesterday returned a sealed verdict for the plaintiff of $4,241 64. Field & Deyo for plaintiff; Scudder & Carter for defendants.

Before Judge Robertson in the Court of Common Pleas yesterday, the case of Ahrens agt. the City for the recovery of $35 for work done on the public streets was decided in favor of the plaintiff. The defense was that as the Common Council had not authorized the work, Ahrens could not recover. Judge Robertson, however, held that as the Commissioner of Public Works had authorized the work and employed the laborers, the city was responsible for the debt. This is a test case, and there are about 200 similar suits.

CRIMINAL NOTES.

At the Essex Market Police Court yesterday Martin Metz of No. 316, F. Kaitsch of No. 509, Henry Henken of No. 500, Martin Pawlinski of No. 502, Patrick Mulver of No. 20, and Martin Mosher of No. 405, Sixth-st., were held in $300 bail each for selling impure milk.

In the Court of General Sessions yesterday, in the case of Ludewig L. Trier, said to be a German baron, charged with embezzling $1,9 0 from his employer, Henry Carlin, an importer of French millinery at No. 23 Union-square, the jury disagreed, standing nine for acquittal and three for conviction.

Charles Wilson, charged with passing a counterfeit $20 bill, purporting to have been issued by the Merchants' National Bank of this city, was discharged yesterday by Commissioner Shields. Elizabeth De Mott, charged with making counterfeit five-cent nickels, was committed to await the action of the Grand Jury. Ella Kinney, a young girl, charged with passing counterfeit five-cent nickels, was also held to await the action of the Grand Jury.
