THURSDAY, April 20—P. M.

The principal features of to-day's stock market have been the heaviness of the stocks of the coal railroads, and the break of 75 per cent in the price of "Reno Second Preferred" on the sale of 100 shares that were sold out "under the rule" for account of a broker who, having bought the shares yesterday at 105, was to-day unable to receive and pay for them. There are reported circumstances concerning this transaction upon which we forbear to comment until they are more completely verified; but sufficient is known to justify a question as to the value of the Stock Committee's indorsement, by which all stocks are admitted to the list called at the Exchange. For a long time past there have been intimations that favoritism, if nothing worse, is frequently shown in the admission of securities to the call; and we hear that these very Reno shares were indorsed by the Committee against the earnest protest of the minority. Reno shares for a long time have been quoted and apparently traded in at about 105; but suddenly when a broker buys 100, and possibly the only 100 ever actually sold, the price drops 75 per cent before finding another purchaser. The pertinent question is, has the property any value that justified the Committee in placing the stock upon the Exchange? Whatever the Committee may think of the value of their own indorsement, the public have heretofore been led to believe that the placing of a stock upon the list was at least a sort of guarantee that it represented some real value, which might indeed be fluctuating, but not to so great an extent as the experience of to-day has shown in the case of Reno Second Preferred, which didn't seem to be very much preferred this afternoon. The stocks of the coal railroads, in sympathy with the decline in Reading at Philadelphia to 85 per cent, made a downward surge, N. J. Central selling at 96⅝ and Delaware, Lackawanna and Western at 109, subsequently rallying to 98⅜ and 111 on reports from Philadelphia that Reading was up to 90, but closing feverish at 97½ and 110 respectively. The business in these stocks was much larger than usual, and the decline was no doubt assisted by sales of short stock. We were in error in stating in this morning's TRIBUNE that the transfer books of New-Jersey Central would reopen on the 21st inst. It was so stated in the advertisement of the Company announcing the dividend payable to-day (20th), but it seems that, instead of opening as advertised, the books will remain closed until May 6 for the election of directors. The remainder of the market, after opening a fraction lower than the closing prices of yesterday and improving ¼ to ½ per cent, became heavy, and so remained, closing very generally at the lowest prices of the day. The trading to-day, however, has developed nothing but a broker's market. Lake Shore, Michigan Central and Erie vibrating up and down, according to the momentary views of the "scalpers." The day before the close there were indications of a rally and a firm wind-up; but the sudden development of weakness in Western Union, which had previously been strong all day, and its decline from 67⅜ to 66¾, demoralized the whole list. Pacific Mail was bought and sold to a small extent at 19¾@20⅛@19½. Michigan Central was unusually active at 52@52½@50⅞@51⅞. Erie was rather quiet at 15½@15⅛. Lake Shore has been comparatively steady at 55@55¼@54½. The larger number of stocks upon the active list show declines from yesterday's closing prices ranging from ⅛ to 3 per cent, viz.: Pacific Mail, ⅛; Illinois Central and Michigan Central, each ¼; N. Y. Central, Missouri Pacific, and St. Paul, each ⅜; Erie, North-West Preferred, Rock Island, St. Paul Preferred, and Western Union, each ½; North-West Common and Ohio and Mississippi, each ⅝; Lake Shore, 1; C., C., C. and I., 2; N. J. Central, 2½, and Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, 3 per cent. Petroleum advanced ¼ per cent, and other stocks closed the same as on Wednesday. The general market closed weak and feverish. The Bank during the week made the handsome gain of £394,000 bullion, the proportion of reserve to total liabilities, which was last week 46⅜ per cent, being now 47⅞. Loans cost 1, 1½, 2, and 2½ per cent for carrying, to flat on the borrowing side. The steamer Gallert for Europe took out $256,696 in specie, of which $80,000 was gold bars, and the remainder silver.
