The cable advices were not important, though in the London market British Consols were steady and United States bonds were firm. Erie Common was steady at 12⅜, and Preferred at 18, New-York Central being quoted at 98. There was no change reported in money, and the sum of £25,000 bullion went into the Bank of England on balance to-day. There was nothing in the cable advices or the domestic news to affect gold, but the market, while dull, was a little firmer at 112@112⅛. The short interest yet uncovered is pretty large, and 3 per cent per annum and ¼ per diem was paid for use of coin to deliver. It remains to be seen what the effect of the July coin disbursements will have on the market. These payments begin to-morrow, the Secretary of the Treasury having ordered the prepayment of the same without rebate for that day. The exact amount of interest to be paid is as follows:

THE BRITISH GRAIN TRADE.

LONDON, June 26.—The Mark Lane Express this evening in its usual weekly review of the grain trade says:

The wheat plant is now mostly healthy and promising, and there appears to be reasonable prospect of a moderate if not a fair crop. The acreage is short owing to bad seedtime, which rendered it necessary to sow many fields originally intended for wheat with beans or barley. It appears probable that the season of 1876 will be one of moderate crops of fair quality gathered at a somewhat later period than ordinary. The wheat trade, sustained as it has been for some time by the continental demand and the possibility of political difficulties, has entered upon a phase of quiet owing to the cessation of foreign requirements and the diminished attention Eastern affairs have commanded. At the same time supplies are being rapidly pushed forward from America and Russia, and with an anticipated enormous California crop in the background little probability exists of prices advancing. A drooping tendency became apparent at the beginning of the week, and the fine weather, which has been pretty general throughout the kingdom, has checked the firmness which was upheld by the consumptive demand. The off-coast grain trade has ruled quiet, but a rather better demand has been apparent for cargoes of wheat at a decline of about two shillings per quarter on last week's prices. No improvement has taken place for forward shipment, as the supply off the coast is more than sufficient to meet present requirements, and the fine weather further tends to render buyers careless. Maize and barley offer no new features.
