WEDNESDAY, July 12—P. M.

The dullness of the stock market to-day enabled the "bulls" to create an eruption on the face of speculation that at one time threatened to attain the proportions of a full grown carbuncle, but the judicious retirement of the "bears" at an early stage reduced it to a pimple that could be measured by fractions. Lake Shore, which monopolized nearly one-half of the entire business of the day, opened at 55⅝, and after selling at 55⅜, was worked up to 56, at which price some 2,500 shares changed hands, and then the price again declined to 55⅝@55¾. Michigan Central, after being heavy at the opening at 49⅜@49½, brought 50¼, but closed at 49¾. An item of news that is of more importance than are official "semi-annual" reports, as indicating the present and prospective business of these two railroads, should not be overlooked by those operators who propose to force higher prices on the Stock Exchange by "sheer grit" and the use of their own and borrowed capital; to wit: that lake freights from Chicago to Buffalo have been again reduced to a lower point than ever before was touched, i. e., 1¾ cents per bushel for corn. This fact more clearly shows the condition of the transportation business than would volumes of essays and arguments. With such an existing state of affairs, it may be well to remember that while the horse may be led to the water he sometimes refuses to drink. North-Western Common and Preferred were each ¼ per cent higher, but by a manipulation that was so palpable as to afford amusement to those who watched the game. The St. Paul stocks were each ¼ lower, which change was more consistent with the present prospects of a demand for Western products. Erie, Ohio and Mississippi, and the other light-weight fancies, were almost entirely neglected. Of Central and Hudson and Rock Island, there was not a single sale. Delaware, Lackawanna and Western and New-Jersey Central exhibited a firmer tone on a light offering of stock. The former improved ¾ per cent. Western Union opened at 69⅞ and sold up to 70¾, closing at 70⅝. In this stock it was only necessary to sustain the price early in the day to frighten all the "shorts" that were made yesterday into buying, hence the better price. Pacific Mail was steady at 25⅝@25¾@25½@25⅝, without feature. The business of the day was extremely light, amounting to something less than 51,000 shares, and the advances were in Lake Shore ⅛, North-West Common and Preferred and Ohio and Mississippi each ¼; Michigan Central ⅜; Western Union ⅝; Delaware, Lackawanna and Western ¾, and Illinois Central 1 per cent. Erie declined ⅛ and St. Paul ¼ per cent. The market closed feverish at a reaction from the highest prices of the day. The following table shows the
