

J. O. S. REYNOLDS, Editor. W. L. McDONALD, Business Manager.

The latest report in reference to the Cabinet is to the effect that Mr. Cleveland will make Daniel Manning Secretary of the Treasury, and L. Q. C. Lamar Postmaster General.

It is the general opinion among patent office clerks in Washington that after the 4th of March Mr. Butterworth will step down and out and his position filled by Hon. Robert B. Vance, of North Carolina, the present chairman of the committee on patents in the House.

A BILL to forever prohibit the railroads from granting passes to members of the Legislature, has been presented in the Connecticut Legislature and is now creating quite a stir in that body.

The House of Representatives at Washington has passed a bill reducing the postage on papers from two to one cent per pound. This is a step in the right direction, and we hope it will pass the Senate.

The Texas Legislature has enacted a law compelling the heads of all departments in supplying their departments with clerks to employ at least one-half of them from the fairer sex.

The Illinois deadlock still continues and at this stage of the proceedings it is impossible to say who will be the successful candidate for United States Senator.

Last week was an extraordinary week of accidents in general. A great number of railroad accidents have been recorded by the press and also a number of fires, one of which happened in our neighboring city, Charlotte, N. C.

FRANKLIN J. MOSES, ex-Governor of South Carolina, has just finished a term of three months in the Detroit house of correction for obtaining money under false pretenses.

AN OCEAN distinguished journalist who still owns an interest in a leading paper pictures the prospects of Cleveland in the following language: "The defeat of the Democratic party in the national campaign four years hence and the restoration of the Republican party to power, will, almost in perpetuity, and the capture of the House of Representatives by the Republicans at the election next fall."

Col. D. Wyatt Aiken. The News and Courier pays a very high compliment to one who was born and raised in this town. It nominates for Commissioner of Agriculture, which will probably be made a Cabinet-office, the Hon. D. Wyatt Aiken, of Abbeville.

It is now scarcely ten days before the Republican party will step down and the new Democratic President be installed and take the reins of government and direct its future course. One of the greatest subjects which will be brought to his attention will be the labor question, which is so often used as an argument by high tariff men. Mr. Cleveland in conversation with a prominent Ohio Democrat gives the following views on the subject: "Labor and capital have no antagonistic interests. When capital, represented by overworking warehouses, finds no market for its productions, or only a market yielding loss instead of gain, labor should sympathize with the difficulty and accommodate itself with the adverse circumstances. Capital should reciprocate by sharing its prosperity." To absorb all the benefit of prosperous trade is not more kindly on the part of the one than of the other. It is equally true that to throw the whole burden of business depression and its consequent loss of profits upon the one, while the other, without sympathy, exacts its usual remuneration, is likewise objectionable.

Is the South an Inviting Field? We have before published an extract written by Col. McClure, of the Philadelphia Times, in which he spoke in very encouraging tones of South Carolina. Those of us who live here in South Carolina doubted to some extent whether it was really as encouraging as he represented it to be.

THE News and Courier of Friday has a very interesting and valuable article on youthful criminals, which we publish for the benefit of our readers. In commenting upon this it says: "South Carolina will have accomplished a great deal, when there shall be any sort of reformatory for juvenile offenders. It is true that nearly all these juvenile criminals are colored children, but this is no cause for inaction, and is no safeguard against danger. There is more need, indeed, of stringent measures of reform with the colored children than with white children. It would be difficult to reform colored children, perhaps, under a suspension of sentence, as in Massachusetts, but there would be a chance for them, and some hope for them, if they could be put under proper restrictions in reformatories, instead of being thrust into the penitentiary to become hopelessly debased and depraved. There is another suggestion which is worthy of note, although it is wide of the immediate subject. It is that, in the management of public institutions having the care and custody of women and children, including the insane and the blind, deaf and dumb, the State should allow women to be represented on the Boards of Control, thereby availing itself of woman's superior judgment in household affairs and of her knowledge of the wants of her own sex. In some unhappy instances, it has been found that delicacy, on the part of the female subordinates, has stood in the way of their communicating to the managing board important information necessary to the protection of the inmates. We agree with President Leitch in his remark that to deprive female inmates, suffering either from bodily or mental diseases, of that protection which is insured them by the participation of their own sex in the management of the institution, is an unwise exercise of power which must result in unhappiness, if not great injury."

Governor Scott and His Guns. Senator Hampton in 1882 introduced a bill in the United States Senate for an adjustment of the arms account of this State with the Federal Government. It passed the Senate some time ago, and was taken up on Wednesday in the House of Representatives by Mr. Dibble and it passed that body and is now ready for the signature of the President. It will be remembered that in 1869 Governor Scott made a requisition upon the Secretary of War for ten thousand stand of arms and the same number of accoutrements, with the stated purpose of equipping the State militia for the preservation of peace in this State and for use at the then approaching election. This amount was all that South Carolina was entitled to for the next three years, and the question, as we understand it, was whether the Secretary of War had the power to issue arms to any State that far ahead. These arms instead of being used were sent to the manufacturing company to be improved. This, it seems, was with the intention of placing in the pockets of the thieves a large sum of money, and it seems that these officials were not disappointed, receiving a beautiful share of the money which was pretended to have been spent in improving the arms. The passage of this bill will be quite a benefit to the State, and we are glad that our National Congress has seen fit to render to this State her just dues.

The Washington Monument. Saturday the 21st, was an important day in the history of our country and Washington city was the centre of attraction. For a number of years every one has looked forward to the completion of the great monument which was to be dedicated to the memory of George Washington, the first President of the United States. Near the banks of the Potomac and towering high above every spire, reaching near the clouds, stands the stately obelisk which was on Saturday dedicated to the memory of Washington. Notwithstanding the cold weather, the ground being covered with snow, a great crowd assembled to witness the ceremonies at the monument. The exercises were opened by Senator Sherman, chairman of the Joint Congressional Commission, with some appropriate remarks. After which the address prepared by W. W. Corcoran, first vice-president of the Washington Monument Society was read by Dr. J. C. Welling, president of the Columbia University. This address was a representation of the part taken by the society in the initiation of the subject, and the construction of the monument. After these exercises came the Masonic ceremonies by the Grand Lodge of the District of Columbia, and at their conclusion, the finished structure was formally presented to the United States by Colonel Casey, and accepted by the President in a short written address, concluding with the declaration that this structure was dedicated from this time forth to the immortal name and memory of George Washington.

These exercises at the monument and the crowd repaired to the Capitol building, where the military were received by the President. The exercises in the Hall of Representatives consisted of the reading of the address of Mr. Winthrop, by Representative Long, of Massachusetts, and the address of John W. Daniel, the silver-tongued orator of Virginia. The address of Mr. Winthrop concluded with the following language which seems to us very touching and appropriate: "Our matchless obelisk stands proudly before us to-day, and we hail it with the exultations of a united and glorious nation. It may, or may not, be proof against the cavils of critics, but nothing of human construction is against the casualties of time. The storm of winter and the fury of heat, felt in the councils of the Administration, and he possesses one qualification which no other prominent candidate enjoys. Colonel Aiken is a staunch and consistent advocate of a tariff for revenue only. In this he is as thorough as a fit revenue tariff, and he is eminently well qualified for his understanding of the farmer's wants, needs and difficulties. South Carolina has some claims upon the Democratic party. This State has but one candidate for a Cabinet office, and he is eminently well qualified for the place. The nomination of Colonel Aiken as Commissioner of Agriculture, with a seat in the Cabinet, will fully satisfy the just and reasonable expectations of the Democracy of the Palmetto State. The nomination of Colonel Aiken to this high position would meet the approval of all the people of South Carolina. He would fill the position with honor to himself and the whole country, and we hope to see him placed in the Cabinet if this bill passes.

WASHINGTON, February 21.—Railroad accidents were numerous yesterday. The most serious occurred on the West Shore railroad at Canoyoharia, New York, at 3 o'clock this morning. A heavy passenger train, drawn by three engines, going thirty miles an hour, ran into the rear end of a freight train, which stood on the track with no flagman out. All three engines and several cars were wrecked. One engine and one fireman were killed. Several other persons were injured but none are likely to die. The wreck burned up. The loss is estimated at about $125,000. Two accidents occurred to outward bound passenger trains from Cincinnati this afternoon were one on the Ohio & Mississippi and one on the Bee Line. No person was killed in either, but in each case from twenty to thirty persons received injuries of greater or less degree. Another accident occurred on the Lake Erie and Western railroad, near Bloomington, Ill. Several passenger cars were derailed and a number of people were hurt, but no deaths have so far resulted. There were minor accidents on other railroads.

Evolt of Russian Exiles. LONDON, February 19.—African just received from the government of Irkutsk, in Eastern Siberia, is the effect that a large number of Russian exiles there had revolted, but were subdued after a desperate contest with the authorities. Nine soldiers and thirty exiles were killed and many were wounded on both sides. Great excitement had prevailed, but affairs are now quiet, although a number of unruly ferret swift punishment.

WASHINGTON, February 19.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the committee on inauguration ceremonies to-night, it was decided to send tickets for the inauguration ball to President Arthur, Speaker Carlisle, Secretary Edmunds, James G. Blaine, and members of the diplomatic corps and the ladies of their families. These are all the complimentary tickets that will be issued.

Cut His Throat. CHARLOTTE, N. C., February 21.—Sam Richardson, a colored fireman, ran against Isaiah Bronson, also colored, and broke two eggs in the latter's pocket. Bronson then caught Richardson's throat. Richardson walked across the street to a drug store and fell dead in the doorway. Bronson was arrested. Both had been drinking.

Gas Explosion. An explosion of natural gas occurred at Wellburg, West Virginia, on Saturday morning, wrecking one house and the debris took fire. The weather was intensely cold, and the gas spread rapidly. Five persons were killed outright and two are missing. The killed comprise one entire family. A half dozen other persons are injured, some of them seriously.

The Cold Weather. WASHINGTON, February 20.—The weather has been very cold for several days and is growing colder. The thermometer at 9:30 to-night stood at 10 degrees above zero, with a strong wind. The intense cold threatens to interfere with the dedication program tomorrow, and with the comfort of the spectators.

A fire in Chicago on Tuesday night destroyed the Grannis Block, on the east side. The fire started from a defective gas pipe in the basement of the building. The loss is estimated at $1,000,000.

AYER'S Hair Vigor restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray hair to a natural, rich brown color, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use light or red hair may be darkened, thin hair thickened, and baldness often cured. It checks falling of the hair, and stimulates a weak and sickly growth to vigor. It prevents and cures scurf and dandruff, and keeps the scalp cool and healthy. It is equally useful for the hair of men and women, and is a sure cure for dandruff. Not within my knowledge has the preparation ever failed to give entire satisfaction.
