TUESDAY, July 3—P. M.

The business on the Stock Exchange to-day, while restricted in volume, presented a firm tone, for reasons apparent to the most casual observer. The day preceding a holiday is never a happy day for the selling by cliques, hence, per force, their stocks were not offered, or, at least, not pushed for sale. At the same time there was a very general liquidation of the speculation for the short accounts, partly by persons who are closing up in order to take their Summer vacation, and by others because prices appeared to be so strong. The result of all this is quite likely to be seen in continued small transactions and a drooping of prices, with a resumption of business after Independence Day. Certain it is that the out-look for the coming six months presents no feature favorable for a successful "bull" campaign in stocks, and if any is attempted it must meet the same end that has overtaken all its predecessors since the panic of 1873. Pluck and capital can advance prices, but the public, appreciating the position of affairs, will not become buyers. During the first half of this year there has been less of cutting of rates between the railroads than for any equal period for the past two years, yet the forthcoming statement of the Lake Shore Railroad will show less than ¾ of 1 per cent. earned in the time, and this without taking into account the loss incurred from the Ashtabula accident. Suppose it declares and pays a dividend of ¾ of 1 per cent for six months, what new buyer wants its stock at 48½ or 38½? Central and Hudson is suffering from a greater competition than ever before, on a restricted bulk of merchandise to be moved, and notwithstanding the agreement to apportion the West-bound business from New-York (alone) between it, the Erie, Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio Company, the compact permits the old discrimination in favor of business from Philadelphia and Baltimore to all Western points. The desperate position of the railroads is illustrated by the compact itself. Central & Hudson, with its four tracks from Albany to Rochester, consents to Erie's portion of the business from New-York being equal to its own, to wit, 33 per cent. This fact, although not appreciated by stock speculators, is a subject of general conversation between merchants. Going further West, we strike such roads as Rock Island, St. Paul and Northwestern, whose earnings are now suffering, and must continue to suffer for three months longer, from a lack of business—more than can be regained with an abundant crop in a whole year.

The coal shares, notwithstanding the recent sharp advance, present no attractions to outsiders; the official advice to hold on or buy more, being feeble now, as compared with what it was when "THE TRIBUNE was leading a bear raid" upon them at 60 to 100 per cent. higher prices. Neither is the credit of the companies likely to be bettered among conservative folk, by an inculcation of the idea that either one of them has mortgaged its property to secure money wherewith to speculate on the Stock Exchange.

Yet the Stock Market to-day has been unusually firm, and prices, except for the coal shares, generally show a fractional advance over those of last night. It is worthy of note that the price of Wabash to-day—3½@4@3⅞—includes the assessment of $2 per share paid, which makes the total assessment paid up $6 per share. The remainder of the list receives sufficient comment in the following table, showing the

THE BRITISH GRAIN TRADE.

LONDON, July 3.—The Mark Lane Express in its weekly review of the British Corn Trade says: "The reports of the growing wheat plant are, generally speaking, favorable, but an early harvest seems impossible in spite of the improvement which has taken place in the weather, having regard to the fact that the plant has come into our scene ten days later than the average time. The reports from the Northern and Midland counties are to the effect that although sunshine has done much to promote the development of cereal crops, there are still some districts where the bad effects of the severe Spring are to be plainly seen in the thinness and spry character of the wheat plant. Advices as to the acreage of Spring corn are somewhat contradictory, but on the whole the prospect of a satisfactory yield of barley and oats is dubious, the former plant having, in certain localities, been much thinned by the wire worm. Haymaking has been interrupted by rain; but in these districts where cutting had not commenced, farmers will reap the advantage in a heavier crop. Taking into consideration the uncertainty of the weather, it appears probable that the harvest of 1877 will not prove so unsuspicious as that of 1876, so far as the yield is concerned, but it is very doubtful whether it will be equally satisfactory in point of quality. The article was last year very fine. The quantity of English wheat remaining in farmers' hands is very trifling, and the firmer tone which has characterized the trade, both at Mark Lane and in country markets, has further strengthened holders' views. Imports into London continue liberal, owing, chiefly, to the extensive exportation which has been going on from Northern Russia, the arrivals up to Friday, amounting to nearly 500,000 quarters. In the face of these, a fairly brisk demand has co n experienced, at an improvement of one shilling per quarter on the week, and the st ady tone with which the advance has been maintained, seems to indicate that the turning point has been reached, and prices may be expected to improve. If Russian supplies shrink, this is more likely, as the very depleted stocks of English in farmers' hands, will necessitate an increased drain upon foreign supplies for the next two or three months, and with the visible supply in America less than half what it was at this time last year, there appears to be little probability of any important outward movement from that country. At the present rate of importation our wants are being supplied, and for the moment the weather remains the most important factor in the trade.
