THURSDAY, July 26—P. M.

In view of the fact that prior to the occurrence of existing troubles stocks had been unreasonably "bulled" above their present or prospective values, to-day's market has proved to be a wonder of skillful manipulations. But what was to be attempted was partially foreshadowed by the opening London quotations, which are received here about 9:45 a.m., and which to-day showed an advance since yesterday of about three per cent in the prices of Central and Hudson and Illinois Central stocks. Every one acquainted with the London market for these stocks, particularly for Central and Hudson, will understand how this might there be accomplished, by a judicious distribution of orders for 10 share lots, the whole not covering more than 100 shares of each stock. In our own market, in order to produce the same result, it was necessary to distribute orders to buy to the extent of 200 or 300 shares in each stock, to be executed immediately on the opening, and this was done. The result was that the first prices were fully ½ per cent above yesterday's closing rates. This rise was followed by a further advance of 1@4 per cent. Of course in such a market the "shorts" yield their judgment to the inexorable facts of figures, and hasten to retire with as small a loss as possible. Their action adds fuel to the fire kindled by the "bulls" in their eagerness to buy.

Prominent in the day's operation, and therefore requiring special notice, was Western Union. This stock opened at 62½, and steadily advanced to 65, and then after a reaction to 64⅛, just before the close sold at 65@64⅞@66¾, with transactions of only 5,800 shares between the two last-named figures. Later, in the street, the stock was dealt in up to 68 and bid. For the want of a better reason for this great advance, the street has jumped to a conclusion that the old talk of a consolidation between the Western Union and the Atlantic and Pacific Companies is to be renewed. If this should be true, it may be a good point not to be short of either stock at present, but real holders will undoubtedly find it for their interest to realize at the moment when the consolidation is asserted to be an assured fact. Western Union is now staggering under about all the capital and debt it can carry. The remark will prove equally true of the entire list. Those investors who do not improve the opportunity afforded by the present wild speculation—which is confined exclusively to Wall-st, professional speculators—to part with their securities will certainly have time, later, for repentance and regret.

The day's business rolled up an aggregate of 179,000 shares, in which all the speculative stocks were fairly represented.
