SATURDAY, Sept. 15.—P. M.

The bank statement this week shows a loss in legal tenders of $1,258,000; a loss in specie of $48,600 and a contraction in loans of $125,800. Deposits have decreased $1,991,700. These figures indicate a further drain upon the banks' resources to the extent of about $500,000 in National bank notes. The total reserve ($63,958,900) is now 30.06 per cent of gross deposits against 30.99 last week. Deduct the specie in full from the deposits and the legal-tender reserve is now 23.24 per cent of the remaining currency deposits against 23.76 last week. The comparative totals, for the two weeks ending the week ending September 16, 1876, are as follows:

The stock speculation during the week ending to-day was much characterized by irregularity and no little feverishness. There is no satisfactory evidence that the leading operators have succeeded in selling any large portion of their stocks. The men who would be "bears" if they dared, seem to wish to hasten the time when their judgment may again guide their operations, but they appear to think that they must help the "bulls" in unloading, and not interfere at every opportunity to prevent the accomplishment of that operation. There is no doubt that everything except a market is ready for the unloading.

It still holds true that the speculation instead of extending grows more and more local, while the flow of stocks into Wall street does not cease. The total transactions for the week are slightly above those of the preceding week, but are void of special features. The subjoined table shows the

It probably was resolved last night that the week should close with a strong stock market. Accordingly care was taken to have the first prices made to-day about one-half per cent higher than the closing rates of yesterday. Subsequently, on a dull market, it was easy to maintain an appearance of a "firm undertone," and even to advance prices still further just before the close. It was reasonable to suppose that the recent drop in the coal shares had invited a moderate short interest, and for that reason, probably, they were selected as the advance pickets to guard the position. At all events they were the only stocks in which the transactions call for special notice. That these stocks should rise, in the face of news that the miners in the whole Lehigh region will be at work next week (this means a production much in excess of consumption, and lower prices for coal, even before the Delaware and Hudson and Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Companies think of arranging the difficulties with their men) presents an anomaly only to be met with on the New-York Stock Exchange. True, it has several times been written that the Delaware and Hudson and Delaware, Lackawanna and Western companies have placed themselves "in an impregnable financial position" by resolving to mortgage their properties further to the extent of $10,000,000 each. If resolutions to borrow money were always effectual there never would be any open bankruptcies. It remains to be seen to what extent the new bonds of these companies can be negotiated, beyond what are taken by present-unsecured creditors. Delaware, Lackawanna and Western rose from 49½ to 53¼@53; Delaware and Hudson from 48½ to 50½@50, and Morris and Essex from 76¼ to 79@78⅞. The remainder of the market is sufficiently described in the following table showing the
