THE COURTS.

A NEW INDICTMENT FOUND PROMPTLY.

In the Court of General Sessions yesterday, Judge Cowing presiding, when the case of John Sheridan, a saloon keeper, indicted for receiving stolen goods, was called, W. B. Cochran entered a special plea that the grand jury had found the indictment on incompetent evidence. The prisoner is charged with having received property stolen from the residence of Flavius J. Allen, one of the proprietors of the Astor House. Mr. Allen was not examined before the grand jury, and when the special plea was made, Assistant District-Attorney Bell entered a nolle prosequi. The grand jury being then in session, the District-Attorney secured another indictment, and in the afternoon the case was again called. Mr. Cochran then entered a preliminary plea that the nolle entered in the morning was a bar against any conviction in the case. This was denied by the Court. Then counsel interposed a special plea that the grand jury had found the second indictment on insufficient legal evidence, and application for access to the minutes of the grand jury was made. District-Attorney Phelps opposed the motion, but after argument Judge Cowing granted it.

The records were produced, and it appeared that there were no minutes of the evidence. Under these circumstances the witnesses examined before the grand jury were called, sworn and questioned as to the evidence they had given. Judge Cowing held that the indictment was proper'y found, and the case proceeded to trial. Mr. Allen testified to the loss of his property and to the finding of a portion of it in the cellar of the premises occupied by the prisoner. The trial will be continued to-day.
