LITERARY NOTES.

Longfellow's "Hiawatha" and "Evangeline" have been translated into Bohemian, and a second edition of the Bohemian rendering of Shakespeare's "Othello" and "The Merchant of Venice" has been called for.

The unknown manuscript by Saint-Simon, which has been found in the archives of the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs, has the title, "Henry IV., Louis XIII. et Louis XIV.," and is said to contain details and criticisms of great historical interest.

The posthumous works of Frederick the Great—that edition in fifteen octavos which was published at Berlin in French soon after Frederick died, a complete set except for one volume which was missing—were sold at Clinton Hall last Wednesday evening for one cent a volume. There is no royal road.

Hawthorne in the "American Note Books," under date of May 1, 1852, says he expects to see the first proof sheets of "The Blithedale Romance" on May 14, which was twenty-eight years ago yesterday. He wrote the preface on May 1, and modified the conclusion of the story in a way that lengthened the work to 201 pages of MS., instead of 199, as he had left it the day before.

Mr. Curtis, in the forthcoming June Harper, says that the only distinguished man of letters whom he ever knew who read Southey as other people read Wordsworth and Tennyson, was Hawthorne. In that little room in the old manse where Emerson wrote his "Nature," and from which an ancestor of Emerson saw the fight at Concord bridge, there used to be, among some books on hanging shelves, a thick American edition of Southey's poems, and Hawthorne was wont to say he read them with pleasure.

The issue of the new edition of Hildreth's "History of the United States" will add interest to a description which Hawthorne has given in the "American Note Books" of a look he had at the author one day while he was engaged in writing the work. Hawthorne had gone into the Boston Athenæum to look about the institution with an officer, and he thought the hall a noble one and greatly admired the vista of alcoves. "The most remarkable sight, however," he goes on to say, "was Mr. Hildreth, writing his history of the United States. He sits at a table, at the entrance of one of the alcoves, with his books and papers before him, as quiet and absorbed as he would be in the loneliest study; now consulting an authority; now penning a sentence or paragraph, without seeming conscious of anything but his subject. It is very curious thus to have a glimpse of a book in process of creation under one's eye. I know not how many hours he sits there; but while I saw him he was a pattern of diligence and unwandering thought. He had taken himself out of the age, and put himself, I suppose, into that about which he is writing. Being deaf, he finds it much easier to abstract himself. Nevertheless, it is a miracle. He is a thin, middle-aged man, in black, with an intelligent face, rather sensible than scholar-like."

THE CHEVALIER WIKOFF'S
REMINISCENCES OF AN IDLER.
Small 8vo, 604 pages, extra cloth, bevelled boards, with Steel Portrait. $1 75.
Mr. Louis J. Jennings, late editor of The New-York Times, having seen the proof sheets in London, writes from that city to The New-York World:
"A work quite equal to the very best autobiographical sketches which have been written to the world for many years past, and it contains a vast amount of information concerning important events in the American political history of the last thirty or forty years. The history of the United States Bank has never been so well told before. In personal recollections and anecdotes the book is particularly rich, and at the same time there is nothing ill-natured or scandalous in a single page—or if there is I have not happened to come across it. Mr. Wikoff has much to tell concerning the chief public men of many countries, and he has the art of relating his story in a most agreeable and interesting vein, so that the attention of his readers is never likely to flag for a single instant. * * * The book is never dull, and that is more than can be said of most books, long or short."
HELEN CAMPBELL'S NEW NOVEL.
UNTO THE THIRD AND FOURTH GENERATION.
16mo, extra cloth, bevelled boards, with very attractive ink and gold cover design. $1.
This is a book to make a success. Mrs. Campbell is a practised writer, of wit, good sense, and genuine dramatic power. The Rochester (N. Y.) Express says of it:
"It is a powerful tale, handling with rare dexterity and good sense the much-befogged notion of inherited traits, under the most exciting and passion-breeding circumstances."
While The Indianapolis Sentinel says:
"It is cool in tone, showing much reserved power; with not many characters, but those well drawn, and some of them are as shrewd and bright and full of Yankee humor as they well could be. It will undoubtedly make a mark."
Also ready, new editions of the following:
A FOOL'S ERRAND.
BY ONE OF THE FOOLS.
☞ The most successful Novel for more than a quarter of a century. A masterpiece. ☜
"Holds the critic spellbound. . . . English literature contains no similar picture."—[International Review.
"Must be read by everybody who desires to be well informed."—[Portland Advertiser.
"A thrilling book indeed."—[Cincinnati Commercial.
"The most powerful national and social study since 'Uncle Tom's Cabin.'"—[Boston Courier.
"To be read with profound interest for its luminous exposition of historical facts as well as to be admired for its masterly power of picturesque and pathetic description."—[New-York Tribune.
The Springfield Republican says:
"The 'Fool's Errand' sells at the rate of 2,500 a week, being the most popular novel published for many years, and fairly deserving its popularity."
This is true as far as it goes, but falls short of the fact in the number sold per week.

MINES AND MINING.

FRIDAY, May 14—P. M.

The market at the Mining Board to-day opened weak and depressed to an unusual degree. For a few moments appearances indicated that the bottom was about to fall out of both good and poor stocks. Hukill suffered a further decline to 1.85, and other stocks generally yielded in proportion or were not dealt in. On reviewing the day's operations it seems probable that the morning's weakness was due to an organized raid made for the purpose of buying some cheap stocks. The transactions in Hukill (13,500 shares) were unusually large, and after the decline to 185 the price rose to 2.10, at which it closed. Green Mountain was steady at 3.20. Chrysolite opened ⅝ lower at 13⅜, sold at 13¼ and closed at 13½; Leadville was steady at 2, Silver Cliff at 4, Amie at $1 85 ex dividend; Consolidated Virginia sold at $2 90@$3, and California at $2 10; Bulwer was lower at 6@5½, and South Bulwer sold at $1 30@$1 20@$1 25, against $1 25 yesterday. Among the "fancies" Gold Placer declined to 67 and Buckeye to 37—later selling at 44@42. Great Eastern in the early dealing fell to 67, but afterward rallied to 72. Calaveras declined to 83 and closed at 88, against 85 yesterday, and Moose sold at 96. Rappahannock sold at 26@27 and Lacrosse at 30@32. At the Stock Exchange Little Pittsburg sold at 6¾@6½, Climax at 2⅝@2¾, Standard at 28⅝, and Central Arizona at 4¾. The market closed firm at the quotations.

The Little Chief will to-day declare its usual dividend of $100,000, or 50 cents per share, on the capital stock, out of the fourth month's net earnings.

The superintendent of the Dunderberg reports favorable progress the week ending May 7. The vein in the fourth level is steadily improving and showing indications of near approach to solid mineral. The width of the vein in the three levels averaging ten inches and gradually widening. Good stoping ground has been opened in Drift A, the vein running three inches solid ore. Driving on the lower winze has been resumed. The new machinery has arrived at the mine, and will be running by the 1st of June. The stopes are yielding well. Shipped to smelters, eighty tons.

A short time since Mr. John Glenn published a card in California papers forbidding the payment of an assessment to the Glenn Hale Consolidated Mining Company. Mr. Glenn now states that his note of warning appeared through error and misrepresentation.

Superintendent Waldever, of the Spring Valley Hydraulic, writing under date of May 4, says: "Provided a reasonable time is granted, we are sure of as good, if not a better, cleanup than the old Spring Valley ever made."

Rich developments in the Silver Era mine are reported. The ore body is improving as the shaft descends.

On April 30 work on the Golden Earle (Globe District) was advancing favorably. The bottom of the main shaft was on that date in rich grade quartz. The new crosscuts from the 200-foot level were in fine ore, which was daily becoming richer. Most of the mill machinery had arrived at the mine.

The superintendent of the Mack Morris, Arizona reporting under date of April 15, says: "Mr. James, the mining expert, who has just been through the Mack Morris, estimates the value of one block of ore (which is 140 feet in length along the vein by seventy feet in depth) at $372,000. We are taking out rich ore in quantity exceeding all expectations. Our hoisting works will soon be completed, when the daily output will be largely increased. An pushing development work as rapidly as possible. The block above referred to is but a fraction of our known reserves. In the Golden Star a splendid body of rich ore carrying free gold has been struck."

A telegram from President Wickes, of the Alta Montana, under date of May 12 says: "Five days' run, 20-ton smelter, from 63 tons ore, produced 250 bars bullion; value, $7,400. Sixty-eight bars yesterday. Average, $116 67 per ton; daily average, $1,480." The company are erecting a furnace of 40 ton capacity, and expect to produce $100,000 per month as soon as it is completed.

The Crowell reports 100 tons of selected ore on the dumps. The new shaft is down 30 feet, the bottom formation showing signs of sulphurets and the Kimball Hill quartz vein is prospecting well. The south shaft is still in good ore.

The publishing department of The Mining Record has issued a comprehensive map, embracing all the principal mining claims in Parley's Park, Utah.
