NEW-YORK BOYS IN WESTERN HOMES.

SQUALOR AND DESTITUTION EXCHANGED FOR HONEST LABOR AND ABUNDANCE—FIRST EXPERIENCE IN THEIR NEW LIFE—EMPLOYERS AND EMPLOYED EQUALLY SATISFIED.

The sixth party of destitute children, sent from New-York to Western homes by Mr. Whitelaw Reid, started on March 23 in charge of Mr. James P. Brace, an agent of the Children's Aid Society. A few of the number went to join friends who were already settled at different places, but most of the children went to Burlington, Kansas, where homes were procured for them in the families of neighboring farmers, under the approval and control of a local committee. Particulars of the enthusiastic reception of the children and of their distribution among the farmers of Burlington and vicinity, were published in THE TRIBUNE of April 14. Some account is given below of the disposition of each child of the party. Many have written since reaching their new homes; in such cases the first impressions of the young emigrants are given in their own language.

TESTIMONY OF THE BOYS.

WHERE THE CHILDREN HAVE FOUND HOMES—LETTERS FROM THEM AND FROM THEIR EMPLOYERS.

ASHLEY, SYDNEY, age fourteen, a native of Natick, Mass., where he had worked in a store for $1 a week. He came to this city two months before starting for the West, hoping to obtain work, but had not succeeded in making a living. He is with William Cavern, Burlington, Kansas, and very favorable reports have been received concerning him.

BENFIELD, FRANCIS, age twenty, was the oldest boy in the party. He was born in London, but had been in this country four years. His father died three years ago, and since that time he had supported himself in various ways. He was familiar with farm work, and expected to obtain good wages. He is with James Wilhite, Emporia, Kansas.

BLAKESLEE, IRVING W., age thirteen, was born in Plainville, Conn. His father died two years ago, and after going to school some time Irving worked in a paper-bag factory and in a store. His mother wished him to be sent West, where she thought he would have a better chance of success in life. He is with J. P. Riley, Waverly, Kansas.

CAKE-BREAD, WILLIAM, age sixteen, is an American. When quite young his father was taken sick, and he was sent to Illinois, where he worked on a farm. Upon his father's recovery he returned to Brooklyn. He had worked in a copper store for $4 50 per week. He is with Hiram Edmunds, Light House, Ogle County, Ill.

CAMPBELL, CORNELIUS, age seventeen, is a native of this city. His father is living, but the boy had supported himself for five years before going West. He went to an uncle living at Aurora, Ill., who is a large builder.

CLARK, ROBERT, age twelve, is the child of a piano-tuner in Brooklyn. He had worked in a buckle factory a few months. His mother is dead, and his father though his prospects would be better in the West than here. He is with W. M. Davidson, Burlington, Kansas.

CLARK, JAMES, age ten, is a brother of the above. He is with W. H. Wood, Burlington, Kansas.

CLINCH, JAMES, age twelve, was the son of a barber who died some years ago, since which time James lived with an aunt. An uncle is a farmer in Illinois and had written the lad that he would give him a home. He is with his uncle, Michael Cinco, La Salle, Ill.

CONTANT, GEORGE E., age eighteen, is a native of Mount Kisco, Westchester County; his father, who was a carpenter, is dead. The boy had lived on a farm, had worked in a lawyer's office, and had tried to get himself to be a short-hand reporter. He regretted his lack of education, which unfitted him for anything except manual labor. He is with J. W. Irey, Waverly, Kansas, and is doing well.

CURRIE, WILLIAM, age sixteen, is the son of a shoemaker, who died when he was only five. Since then he lived with his mother in Bridgeport, and for the past year partly supported himself by driving an express wagon. He is with Henry E. Bouton, Key West, Kansas.

DAVENPORT, ALLEN, age seventeen, was born at Red Bank, N. J. His father died when he was young, and ten years ago he removed with his mother to Minnesota. Last year he returned to Red Bank, hoping to secure some money to which he thought the family entitled. He had his efforts and went to work, earning enough money to support himself, and pay part of his expenses back to Beaver Falls, Minn., where he rejoined his mother.

EXHOUS, GEORGE WILLIAM, age eighteen, was born at Yarmouth, N. S., and came to this country while very young. He had been working in a brass factory, but preferred the country, and his brother, who went to Iowa in Mr. Reid's party of March 3, 1879, had secured him a place to work at $12 50 a month, at Earlville, Iowa.

GRAHAM, JAMES E., age fourteen, is a native of this city. His mother became blind when he was very small, and he had been cared for in a charitable institution, and afterward sent to a farm in the country. His mother sent for him some time ago and he worked in a paper factory, but he preferred the country and farm life. He is with James Jacobs, Strawn, Coffey County, Kan. He writes, April 15: "I write to tell you that Kansas is the best place for a boy. I like it very much. I have lots of horse-back riding. The prairies is the place for me. I don't intend to leave till I am a man, and shall shun New-York forever. I think this unknown friend is Jacob A. Stor." Mr. Jacobs writes: "My boy seems to be well satisfied with his new home, and takes up readily with farm life. So far he has been a good boy. He has had quite a variety of work to do. He attends church with the family and has been a moral boy. He don't use any bad language that I know of, and I think will turn out a good man. We have a wife and three children of our own, all well advanced in common studies.

HEDDING, JOHN, age sixteen, lived with his widowed mother in Brooklyn. He had worked in a cork factory. He is with Mr. Thomas, Ida, Republic County, Kan. He writes, April 24: "I like it very well here so far; but I am sorry to say that it is very bad weather out here. It spoilt all the crops. The farmers cannot raise anything this Summer. I am going to herd cattle, as I have nothing else to do."

HILLIARD, PETER, age fifteen. His father drove a coal cart before his death, ten months ago; since then Peter had worked in several places and lived as best he could. He is with William Marriott Waverly, Kan. He writes, April 8: "I have a good home. The school is about two blocks away and the church about three-quarters of a mile. Mr. Marriott says that when I am twenty-one he will give me a span of horses. He has already bought me a suit of clothes. I think I like Kansas better than New York. I will be going to school all next Winter. I have a colt and a pig. I fetch the cattle out every morning and fetch them in at night. I had two young jack rabbits, but the cat eat them. We have plenty of prairie fires and chickens and wild ducks, and there's a creek a little way from the house, and I'm going to fish sometime, and there's a two-barrelled shot-gun hanging up and I'm going to use it when I learn how to shoot." Mr. Marriot writes: "I like my little New-York boy very much, and I think he will grow to be a good man. I will make him a a good home if I am spared. He will have a good chance to go to school the coming Winter. I think I can make a good farmer out of him. He is very willing to do anything I ask him to do. I trust he will grow up to be a God fearing man."

HINMAN, WILLIAM, age fifteen, is a native of Philadelphia. His parents died eight years ago, and he supported himself blacking boots and selling newspapers in Philadelphia and New-York. He is with J. L. Nasset, Strawn, Coffey County, Kansas. He writes, April 13: "I am getting along very well. Mr. Nasset is a nice man and I known that I can get along with him. They gave me a calf, and I go to school. They have eighteen cows to milk and I milk three of them."

HOFFMAN, THEODORE, age sixteen, an orphan, had worked in a butcher shop, and had blacked boots. He had often known what it was to be hungry and without food. He is with Thomas E. Goesuch, Waverly, Kansas.

HORTON, JOHN, age twelve, has lived at Syracuse with his parents, until his father died, some three months ago. He was told of an opportunity to go to the West, and money was given him with which to come to this city for the purpose. He is with W. H. Wolgamuth, Hartford, Kan. He writes, April 12: "I am very well satisfied with my new home. I have learned to ride horse-back and to water them, and am learning to milk. Mr. Wolgamuth gave me three pigs for my own. They think a good deal of me. I have a nice peanut bed planted for myself. I go to Sunday-school in town and get a nice paper. Thank you many thousand times for your kindness to me and others."

JOHNSON, JOHN COOMBS, age fourteen, had been employed by a street railroad company in Brooklyn, by a circus company, and more recently as a messenger at the rooms of the Children's Aid Society, whose officers spoke highly of his industry and integrity. He is with Mr. Lindsley, Waverly, Kan., and writes, April 8: "I am getting along well in my new home. We have all our ploughing done and I am harrowing. We have three horses, six colts, four cows, five pigs and lots of chickens. I go to church on horseback every Sunday. There are three boys living close to me and we have plenty of fun with the country boys. I like it out here very well." He writes again, April 24: "I am very thankful to you for getting me such a nice home. If all the boys had such nice homes as all of us got, they would be thankful. They are all such nice people out here I would rather be here than to be in New-York, selling newspapers and in bad company. I want you to tell the boys in the Lodging House what good homes us boys got, and perhaps that will encourage some more boys to come West and make men of themselves. Mr. Lindsay is going to write for a girl. It would make a good home for her." Mr. Lindsay writes: "I am very well pleased with my boy. I have not heard him swear or use bad language. He is smart and trusty with a team, and is a great lover of my favorite animal, the horse. So well are we pleased with Johnny that I have persuaded my wife to let me write and see if you can send her a girl. If you can send us a good smart girl of ten or twelve years, we will try and make a good home for her and send her to school."

JONES, GEORGE W., age twelve, is an orphan son of American parents. He is with C. N. Custar, Burlington, Kansas, who writes: "George is a good boy, and likes his home. I think enough of him, and will do the best by him that I can."

MASON, ROCKWELL, age nine, had been an inmate of Mr. Cowley's Shepperd's Fold. His widowed mother had been anxious for several years to send him West. He is a bright-eyed, smart-looking boy. He is with Francis H. Wilson, Ellsworth, Kansas, who writes, April 12: "The little fellow came to me safe, and is rapidly adapting himself to his new life. He is a smart, active and very intelligent boy, and one that I think a great deal of. He is very affectionate, and of a lovable disposition, making us love him even if we didn't want to. He is now going to school, and I intend to keep him there for the next three years after which he will be old enough to understand the ins and outs of farm life. I find he is perfectly truthful and honest—two good foundation stones on which to build his future. If he does not make a man it will be my fault. Two of my neighbors have been to see me about getting boys."

MONTEITH, HENRY, age fourteen, had been earning his own living in various ways in this city for a long time, and had lived at the Rivington Street Lodging House. When an infant he was in charge of the Sisters of Mercy. He is with James L. White, Waverly, Kansas. Mr. White writes, April 8th: "Our young friend is well and seems to be satisfied with me, and ready and willing to learn the farmer's way of living. I hope he may prove to be a good boy, and that I may be able to raise him so that he may be a good and useful man. I take him to church every Sunday. We have a splendid Sunday-school. I think that will be a benefit to him. He will have a good chance to go to school." James writes: "I like my home first-rate, and am glad to get it. I hope all the boys got as good homes as I did. Tell the boys in the Lodging House that it is not true what the boys said—that we should be treated like slaves. We are treated like our own sons."

ODELL, MAGGIE, age seventeen, went to Chicago to join her family, who were sent West by the assistance of the Children's Aid Society, and have prospered there.

PALMER, FREDERICK, age thirteen, was born at Poughkeepsie, where he lived until two and a half years ago. His mother died at that time and his father put him on a farm, where he remained until four months ago when he came to New-York hoping to find work. In this he failed, having earned no money except by selling newspapers. He is with J. A. Cavern, Burlington, Kan.

RICHARDS, WILLIAM H., age sixteen, was born in New-York. He was sent to Edwardsville, Iowa, three or four years ago, where he worked on the farm of Nelson Capron. He became sick and returned to New-York. He afterward went to Texas with his father and brother, but came back to New-York because he wanted to see his mother. Mr. Capron sent for him to return to Iowa.

ROE, WILLIAM, age twelve, was sent from the Brooklyn Home for Destitute Children. He is with Albert Dod Knox, Knox City, Mo.

ROETH, GEORGE, age twelve, a bright-eyed German boy, had always lived in New-York. Since his father's death, nearly two years ago, he had lived with his mother, and had been employed in polishing buttons. He is with W. P. Martin, LeRoy, Coffey Co., Kan., and writes April 26: "I am well satisfied with my home. Mr. and Mrs. Martin are very kind to me. I am learning to work and to take care of stock. I attend church, and am going to Sunday-school as soon as it begins. I like to live in the country better than in the city. Mr. Martin is going to try and find a place for my little brother. I am going to try and do right and please them." Mr. Martin writes: "My boy is perfectly contented with his new life and says he could not be induced to return to the city. I find him intelligent and willing. He appears to be anxious to learn to work, and I believe him to be honest. At his age his will is a little restraint. So far I have no reason to complain of him, and we will endeavor to make a useful man of him."

ROGERS, THOMAS, age eight, was sent from the Brooklyn Home for Destitute Children. He lived with Terrance Clark, Strawn, Coffey County, Kan. Mr. Clark writes, April 11: "Thomas is a very pleasant boy, and is quite smart for one of his age. He is perfectly satisfied with me. We have no children, and he fills the place of our own little boy, who died last June, in some degree. If he makes as good a man as he is a boy I shall always be proud of him; I shall try to do my part to make a good citizen of him." Thomas writes: "I am well. I like my home and mamma first-rate. I like to live in the country better than in the city. We live on a nice creek. Sometimes I can fish. I have a nice little calf, a pig, and a dog. George lives two miles from me."

ROGERS, GEORGE, age six, a brother of the above, and with the same movement history. He is with Peter H. E. Meyers, Strawn, Kansas, who writes, April 18: "George appears to be very well satisfied with his new home, and is a very smart little boy for his age. I think he will make a good citizen."

SCHNIFFNER, CARL, age fifteen, was born in Germany, and worked his way to this country in a sailing vessel last Winter. He finds it and gold, in and farming as they are carried on in his native place. He is with L. B. Seelscher, Burlington, Kansas. He writes, April 18, in German: "I am humbly indebted to you for the trouble which you have taken with me. Mr. Seelscher is as good a man as one could give me. I am very satisfied to be with him. I have not too hard work, very good treatment. The programme of the day is as follows: Every morning at 6 o'clock I go out to feed five horses, one ox, and twenty-six pigs. Then I have to drink the cows which I have to milk upon the prairie. Then I go to breakfast. After breakfast, until 12 o'clock, I am to attend. Then another, then to the field. Then I feed the animals again. So it goes every day. I commend myself to the other gentlemen, and thank you for the trouble you have taken with me."

SOTHERAN, THOMAS, age twelve, is an orphan. He lived on a farm in Connecticut for two years, and had earned $3 per week in a cotton factory until he was 9, and he was thrown out of work. He liked farm work and wanted to return to it. He is with J. N. Martin, Burlington, Kansas, who writes, April 11: "So far the lad seems perfectly satisfied, and with some exceptions is a very good boy. He, as one would naturally expect, is very backward, and the boy raised here, would be in his 2nd month; but I am satisfied he does not mean it that way. He is pleasant and good natured, does his work well, on the whole, well. I hope, repay us for our care and attention. He is not particularly industrious, but may become more so. He seems to take a great liking to stock, and, although we have no little ones, does not seem to get lon some or a muscick. Two of the boys came with him are near us, and are getting along very well. I intended him to school in Winter and to church and Sunday-school, and will use my efforts to make a good and useful man of him. If he only proves trustworthy he will be quite a comfort to us." Thomas writes, April 18: "I am very pleased in my new home. Mr. and Mrs. Martin are very good to me; they do all they can to make me. Mr. Martin is the best man ever I saw in all my life. Thank you very much for getting me so good a home."

STAPLES, THOMAS, age sixteen, had lived with a sister since the death of his mother, five years ago. He had earned $1 a week in a paper factory. He is with George W. Clark, at Le Roy, Kansas.

SWEENEY, TERRANCE, age fifteen, supported himself in this city at the death of his father, five years ago. For three months before leaving New-York he had been a newsboy. He is with Albert Jones, Ottumwa, Kansas.

TEMPLE, MINNIE, age seventeen, an American girl, is a half orphan, and had been an inmate of the Girls' Lodging House for some time. She is with Mrs. Theodore Cross, Burlington, Kansas.

TIFFANY, EDWARD, age fifteen, lived in Kentucky, where he was born, and for three years worked on a farm. His parents removed to New-Orleans, where they died of yellow fever. The boy went there to find them, and, learning they were dead, secreted himself on a steamer which brought him to New-York. He is with Henry Ball, Spring Station, Kentucky.

WILEY, WILLIAM HENRY, age twelve, lived in Jersey City with his widowed mother. He had worked in a cigar store, and had taken care of horses for an express company. He is with B. J. Kelly, Waverly, Kan. He has not taken the trouble to write, but the reports received are not favorable, and the local committee have been requested to see what can be done with him. John C. Johnson, in his letter of April 24, says: "We have got one boy here very bad. He smokes and chews and swears and acts badly. In a letter that he was going to send to his mother he said that he had to go twenty miles after the cows."

YOUNGBLOOD, WILLIAM, age fourteen, had been for ten years an inmate of the House for the Friendless. He is with James W. Cox, Waverly, Kan.

WRIGHT, WILLIAM R., age twelve, was born at Springfield, Mo. His father died five years ago, and he came with his mother to her former home in Brooklyn. He returned to Missouri, where his uncle, William Wallen, owns a large farm at Verona. William writes, giving an account of the tearing hurricane which passed only a few miles from his new home, and concludes: "I like my home and am happy and comfortable." His uncle writes, April 29: "My nephew, Willie, is a quick, active boy and seems to enjoy himself here very much. I find him very truthful, and think as he grows older he will become industrious and prove an honor to those who have aided him in his youth."

CHARLES—An infant, one year old. He was deserted by his parents, and had been in the care of the Children's Aid Society, in the children's nursery, for four or five months. He is with S. P. Pepper, Burlington, Kansas. Mrs. Pepper writes, April 20: "We like him real well. He is very self-willed and determined, but we will try and bring him up in a religious way. He is the pet of our whole family. Every little while he will come and say to me, 'nice mamma; don't I like you?' I have wanted a baby for a long time, and have cured four. We intended to take a larger boy, but I saw this one and took a fancy to him. Three of the other boys are in the neighborhood and have good places. James Clark lives half a mile east of us; Sydney Ashley half a mile west, and Frederick Palmer two miles southeast."

OUTBREAK OF THE NAVAJOES FEARED.

DENVER, Col., June 3.—A special dispatch to The Tribune from Santa Fé says that a special dispatch from Los Vegas states that M. A. Otero, president of the New-Mexico and Southern Railroad, has received what is considered trustworthy information that the Navajoes and the Utes had a great pow-wow near Terra Amilly, New-Mexico, and it is understood that the resolve of the council was to make war in common against the whites. If true, this is very important information, and troops should be sent at once to a point near the Navajoes' reservation and into the Ute country. Although Colonel Buell, with four companies of the 15th Cavalry and some other troops, is marching to Fort Wingate, which is in the Navajo reservation, still his force is entirely too small to prevent an outbreak. The Navajoes are rich in horses, cattle and sheep, and could place at least 600 men in the field.

THE NAVAL CADETS AT SEA.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 3.—The iron-clad Nantucket, the sloop-of-war Dale, the steamer Mayflower and the steam launches of the Naval Academy took the cadets, midshipmen and engineers out upon Chesapeake Bay, this morning, where the cadets were exercised with the engines of the Nantucket, and were drilled in seamanship. The Nantucket practised with her 15-inch columbiads while in the bay. The Board of Visitors on the steamer Phlox accompanied the squadron.

THE STEWART WILL CASE.

WOODSTOCK, Vt., June 3.—The suit of Alexander Stewart against ex-Judge Hilton, of New-York, for alleged non-fulfilment of a contract in consideration of abandoning proceedings to break the will of the late Alexander T. Stewart has been transferred to the United States District Court.

MINES AND MINING.

FRIDAY, June 4—P. M.

There was less regularity in the movements of prices for mining shares to-day than there was yesterday. Some stocks made further advances, while others suffered a material reaction from yesterday's best figures. The business at the American Mining Board shows steady improvement. To-day it amounted to 17,100 shares, against 8,300 shares yesterday. Of the stocks dealt in at that board and not at the old board, we note sales of Crowell at 20@15¢20, Glynn Dale at 80@75 against 90 yesterday, Silver Nugget at 1.40@1.25 against 1.30, Cosette at 15 against 15½, Bye-and-Bye at 1.40 against 1.30, and Columbia Consolidated at 4½. Hukill sold at the American Board at 2¼@2⅛, while at the old board it sold no higher than 2.10. Chrysolite declined to 18¼ at the American Board and to 19 at the old board. Among the "fancies" at the old board Calaveras had a bad attack of "white feather" and fell from 82 to 65, closing at 68. On the other hand, Great Eastern, which opened at 63@69 against 68 yesterday, rapidly rose to 68 with large transactions. Moose rose to 84 and closed at 83. Buckeye yielded to 38@39. Lacrosse fell from 39 to 33, and Gold Placer from 67 to 65. Amie was steady at 1.25@1.20, and Climax was steady at about 2.45@2.50. South Hite was notably strong, rising from 1.90 to 2.15@2.10. There was more than the usual business done in Silver Cliff at 3.95@4. Little Chief sold at 9¾@9⅞, and Leadville Consolidated at 1.10. The market closed active, but irregular and unsettled.

Since the American Mining Stock Exchange has become a fixed fact, and business regularly transacted by the board, the members of the New-York Stock Exchange, which at first evidently manifested fear of the outcome, has assumed a more definite shape. The committee appointed to negotiate the affairs of the New-York Mining Exchange, which appears to be under the special guardianship of the New-York Stock Exchange, have placed in control of the affairs of that mining board several of the most prominent and well known members of the parent Exchange.

It is said that certain enthusiastic members of the latter Exchange have predicted that the American Exchange would hardly survive 30 days. The general patronage bestowed upon the New-York Mining Exchange by the New-York Board since the opening of the new board is particularly refreshing at this time, considering the apathy with which its transactions were a short time ago regarded by the better class of members of the New-York Stock Exchange, and shows the animus of that body in the late election of officers. The feeling among the members and officers of the American Mining Stock Exchange and the officers of the Mining Trust Company appears to be one of the utmost confidence, and in spite of the disposition in certain quarters to speak depreciingly of the Exchange, a quiet smile of satisfaction appears on the face of almost every official connected with the new organization, whenever the failure of the enterprise is suggested. As stated in THE TRIBUNE of yesterday, the absence from town of a number of the most prominent promoters of the new organization, together with the illness of the chairman of the Board, has to a certain extent dampened the feelings of "the boys" on the floor, but the old heads say: "Don't get excited, but take things coolly. We fully understand our business, and know exactly what we are about. Stocks purchased at the old board will not be received as a security for loans by any bank or trust company in New-York City. Stocks purchased by its members on the American Mining Stock Exchange are a security for loans at the Mining Trust Company, and operators will soon realize the importance of this fact. Many of the largest transactions on the old board are in a class of stocks which have not been listed upon the American Board, and probably never can be. They are of too speculative a character. Our members have not yet become fairly acquainted with each other, and as a consequence, business is not as active as it would be were they better known to each other. Of one thing the public may be sure, that the promoters and managers of this institution fully understood themselves, and the wants of the Eastern public, before they began operations. They started out with the determination to make the enterprise a success, and they intend to carry out their purpose in spite of jealous opposition."

Fifty-four bars of silver bullion, representing in value $65,074 29, were received in this city yesterday by express from the mines.

The Standard Consolidated Mining Company have declared their regular monthly dividend of 75 cents per share, payable May 12 at the Agency of the Nevada Bank, No. 62 Wall-st. Transfer books close on the 5th inst., and open the 13th.

The superintendent of the Great Eastern (Black Hills) shipped yesterday to the New-York office a gold brick worth $6,000, the product of a fifteen-days run. The tunnel on the Flora Belle claim is in 140 feet.

The superintendent of the Dunderberg Mining Company reported, under date of May 29, that 100 tons of crushed ore were shipped from the mine during May, representing in value about $8,000. Contracts for driving the various drifts and levels are soon to be relet. The winze from the third level was in solid ore, and winze from "A" level was carrying a 10-inch vein of mineral composed of lead, iron and zinc. The stopes continued to yield well, and the new machinery was working satisfactorily. The daily output was being gradually increased.

During the week ending May 24 work in the South Bulwer has made usual progress. The main shaft was down 572 feet, 22 feet below the 550-foot level. As soon as the depth of 575 feet is attained work will be resumed on the east crosscut 550-foot level. The general formation at the face of the drift was rapidly changing, and a heavy inflow of water seemed to indicate a nearness to the Miller ledge. The South drift on the 350 foot level was in forty-six feet, the ore cut being of good quality.

The superintendent of the Crowell, reporting under date of June 2, says: "We are milling about eight tons per day with our five-stamp mill, with an average result of $6 50 per ton. With a mill four times the capacity we will have no difficulty in making this a paying mine. We have the ore in the shape of a vein of talcose slate running from three to twenty feet in width, upon which we are now sinking a working shaft 5x10 in the clear, which is down fifty-five feet in free ore, underlaid by rich sulphurets. This latter we are sinking for. The placer workings, as you know, have yielded nuggets weighing from 100 to 200 cwts."

The Julian mill is now crushing about 50 tons of ore per day. The main shaft has been sunk to a depth of 562 feet. The superintendent recommends that the present force of miners employed be doubled, and that drills be used, in order to cut through the hard low-grade ore which now impedes the work of development.

The Red Elephant shipped, June 3, eighteen tons of ore assaying ninety-two ounces per ton, representing in value about $1,267.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Caribou Consolidated Mining Company, held Thursday, the capital stock was increased from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000. The following comprise the new Board of Directors: James P. Metcalf, H. H. Hollister, R. G. Dun, C. J. Osborne and J. N. Ewell.

The following dispatch from Manager Keyes, of the Iron Silver, was received yesterday. "Mine unmolested, working men on surface. Have but few men underground."

Manager Daly, of the Little Chief, telegraphed yesterday: "Situation unchanged; we are shipping about 30 tons daily. Strikers still defiant, and trouble our men greatly."

Manager Daly, telegraphing from Chrysolite yesterday, says: "Everything proceeding quietly. Shipped to smelter 63 tons. Still working under guard; not molested."

The new hoisting works of the Fortuna mine (California) commenced running May 25. The mine has been thoroughly cleared of water, and crosscutting to the vein will soon commence. About $30,000 was taken out of the Fortuna above the 100-foot level by the old management. The present owners propose to systematically develop the property for all it is worth.
