LEGAL INTELLIGENCE.

LEGAL ADVICE DEARLY BOUGHT.

"The politicians dance, but the city has to pay the fiddler," remarked a prosperous merchant when he was shown the bills presented to the Board of Apportionment and Assessment at yesterday's meeting by lawyers for their services in defending Police Commissioners in the proceedings against them during the past year. These proceedings arose out of the factional quarrel as to whether Tammany or anti-Tammany Inspectors of Elections should be appointed by the Police Board last Autumn and also in the attempts of the Mayor to remove Commissioners Wheeler and Nichols. The bills in the case of Commissioner Smith have not yet been presented but those in the other cases amount to $42,257 64, which the city is asked to pay. In the Inspectors of Elections matter the bills amount to $19,531 26, distributed among the lawyers as follows: Messrs Field, Dorsheimer, Bacon & Deyo, $10,000; Elihu Root, $5,031 26; George Bliss, $1,000; George Ticknor Curtis, $1,000, and E. W. Stoughton, $2,500. In the attempted removal of Commissioner Wheeler, he was defended by Elihu Root and George Bliss. The former puts in a bill for $2,619 96; the latter a bill for $1,000. The city is asked to pay the lawyers $19,106 42 for the privilege of helping Commissioner Nichols to retain his seat. Of this sum Townsend & Weed ask $11,467 47 with an item of $500 for advising Commissioners French and Wheeler to recognize Sidney P. Nichols as Police Commissioner when he was about to claim his seat, under the decision of Justice Westbrook that he was entitled to it. Vanderpoel, Green & Coming put in a bill for $2,522 55, and the disbursements are reckoned at $5,116 40.

Several of the lawyers interested appeared before the Board to explain their bills. George Ticknor Curtis said that he had been consulted by Commissioner Nichols' attorney as to his case for which he charged $500, but this charge was paid by a friend of Commissioner Nichols and therefore was not included in his bill. His charge of $1,000 was made in the matter of the Police Inspectors for a consultation with a committee of Tammany Hall who called upon him for that purpose. No action was taken upon the bills yesterday, but they were ordered to be printed.

CHARGED WITH FORGERY.

W. R. Gunniss, of the firm of Gunniss, Barritt & Hogan, auctioneers, in Philadelphia, appeared in the Yorkville Police Court yesterday to prosecute a young man named Frederick W. Cooper for forgery. Cooper was employed by the firm as its agent in this city. Among others from whom he obtained goods to be sold by his employers was Thomas M. McGuire, straw hat manufacturer, of Corona, L. I. The Philadelphia firm paid its creditors by checks sent by mail through Cooper. The last three sent to McGuire were retained by Cooper, who succeeded in getting them cashed, it is alleged, by forging McGuire's indorsement. Only one of the checks was put in evidence. It was for $32 49 and was drawn on the First National Bank of Philadelphia to the order of T. M. McGuire. The three forged checks amounted to about $150.
