THE COURTS.

TRYING TO ESTABLISH HIS IDENTITY.

Theophilus Youngs, a master mechanic, who had acquired a large fortune in this city and in Boston, suddenly disappeared in 1875, and for some time his wife and family could learn nothing from him. Three years ago his wife, Mrs. Mary L. C. Youngs, applied to the Surrogate of this county for letters of administration on her husband's estate, asserting and offering to prove that he had been drowned in Boston Harbor in 1876. She sought to get possession of his estate, which she estimated to be worth $200,000, and which was in the hands of her husband's brother, Henry Youngs. The latter contested the right of Mrs. Youngs to take out the letters, and attempted to show that his brother was still living. A great deal of evidence has since been taken in the case.

Recently the announcement was made to the counsel of Mrs. Youngs that the other side had found Mr. Youngs, and that he would be produced in court. Edward F. Underhill was appointed referee to take testimony as to his identity. A sensation was produced by the appearance in court yesterday of the man claiming to be the lost individual. He is about forty years of age, with a Roman nose, light eyes and hair, and thin face, looking on the whole remarkably like the photographs of the genuine Theophilus Youngs that have been offered in evidence. The counsel of Mrs. Youngs asked her to take a good look at the man, and say whether he was Mr. Youngs. Standing up and staring hard in his face, she said loudly and emphatically, "That is not my husband."

Henry Youngs went on the stand to tell the manner in which he discovered his brother. He said that in the early part of August, 1880, he received a letter signed "Theophilus Youngs," in which the writer said that he would meet the witness at his lawyer's office August 9. He met him there at that time, and identified him as his lost brother. There could be no mistake, the witness was confident. Sophia Youngs, a sister, gave similar testimony as to the identification of their brother. The testimony will be continued to-day. The alleged Theophilus Youngs seemed unwilling to speak about the time when he has been away. E. G. Drake represents the brother; C. E. Minor, the widow or wife.

CIVIL NOTES.

Charles Dean, who sued Mrs. Theresa P. Bell, the wife of a San Francisco millionaire, to recover $7,500 for alleged services as an escort, received a verdict for $1,200 from the jury in the Supreme Court, before Justice Dwight, yesterday.

While coming from a lodge meeting on the top floor of the German Savings Bank Building in Fourth-ave., one night in 1878, Morris J. Bennett accidentally fell over the balustrade to the floor below, a distance of fifty feet. His injuries were severe and he sued the bank for $20,000. It was claimed in defence that the stairs were safe and that the accident was the fault of Mr. Bennett. The jury, before Justice Brooklyn, in the Supreme Court, yesterday, gave a verdict for the bank. L. S. Rutherford appeared for the plaintiff; Sigismund Kaufmann and L. Sanders for the defense.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The Chief of the Bureau of Statistics presents in his quarterly report for the last three months of the year ended June 30, 1880, a detailed statement showing the immigration into the United States, both by ports at which immigrants landed and by countries whence they came. The total number of immigrants arrived during the year was 457,257. There arrived from Europe, 347,747; Asia, 5,839; Africa, 21; America, 101,681; Pacific Islands, 954; all others, 1,015—total, 457,257.

Secretary Thompson to-day officially designated next Tuesday as the date for the naval review at Hampton Roads. The various exercises and drills will last two or three days.

It is said at the Treasury Department that large quantities of cotton seed oil have been for a long time shipped from the United States to Italy and other European countries, but especially to Italy, for mixing with olive oil, and in some instances cotton seed oil has been refined, and then labelled and sold as olive oil. To prevent this adulteration a project is before the Italian Chamber of Deputies to impose a high duty upon cotton seed oil. Just what the duty is to be cannot now be ascertained.

The Census Bureau has issued its first bulletin of the results of the recent census. It gives the population of Delaware by enumeration districts. The total for the state is 146,654, of which 9,472 persons are foreign-born and 26,436 colored. The population by counties is as follows: Kent, 32,877; Newcastle, 77,746; Sussex, 36,031. The city of Wilmington has a population of 42,499.

Rear-Admiral A. H. Wyman, commanding the North Atlantic Fleet, is keeping the officers and crews of the vessels now in the Roads fully occupied, and is getting them in readiness for the coming review. There being some doubt, however, whether all the ships intended for participation in the Naval Review at Fortress Monroe can be put in complete readiness by the 26th instant, the Secretary of the Navy has decided to defer the review to some time thereafter to be fixed by him.

General Drum, the Adjutant-General, decides that as an officer of the Army usually retains his residence at the place whence he was appointed to the military service, the son of an officer who, as a legal resident, notwithstanding the fact that he is absent on Government duty, can be legally nominated for admission to West Point.
