ANTIMONY IN UTAH.

FACTS PRESENTED BY PROFESSOR J. S. NEWBERRY BEFORE THE ACADEMY OF SCIENCES.

Some interesting facts in regard to antimony were presented at the meeting of the Academy of Sciences held at No. 12 West Twenty-first-st., Monday night, by Professor J. S. Newberry, who has recently returned from an exploration of the antimony mines of Southern Utah. Mines were discovered about twenty years ago in Utah by a Mr. Savage, but then working was forbidden by Brigham Young, who feared an influx of Gentiles into the Territory, and in consequence, the few exploring parties constantly feared a repetition of the Mountain Meadow massacre. After Young's death, however, the elders of the Mormon church encouraged the development of the mines. After Colorado had been thoroughly explored, it was found that there was great wealth in the mineral lands of Utah—great deposits of iron that would sometime be a source of public wealth, copper, coal and some silver. It is only for a year that antimony has been known to exist in Southern Utah.

Professor Newberry received some specimens from a Mr. Loomis, with a letter asking what the strange ore was and what it was worth. When it was learned that there were extensive deposits of a really valuable metal, miners were brought down from Salt Lake City, and the ore, after being transported 100 miles by wagon, was shipped to San Francisco and New-York. Previously, antimony had been supplied from Spain, Algeria, portions of the European Continent, and lately mostly from Borneo and Ceylon. A new demand has arisen for antimony from England, where it is said to be used in the manufacture of shells as well as of bullets, and it was reported that the British Government wished to secure 3,000 tons. The supply from Borneo was rumored to be failing. In southern Utah mines, near Green River, the ore was found in masses of crystals as large as the arm and a foot or more in length. The quantity could only be conjectured, but a thousand tons were gathered from the surface at once. Two tunnels were then sunk and it was worked like coal, although there was much waste, as the fine fibrous particles were easily detached by handling and in transportation.

The ore strikes over thousands of acres. Its value is unknown, but it is more valuable than any other in this country, except the vast mines recently discovered in Sonora, about thirty miles from the Gulf. This is supposed to be the largest deposit in the world. The veins are from four to twenty feet thick, and have been penetrated to a distance of forty feet, whereas in the other mines the thickness of the veins is measured in inches. If the products of this mine were readily offered for sale the market would be worse flooded at once, but the same plan will probably be adopted as is followed by the Rothschilds in the Spanish mercury mines, also the ore will be used in such small quantities that the price can be maintained nearly the same. If the mineral becomes cheaper, it will probably be employed elsewhere than in cartridges, the arts, opening, pigments and medicine, and there will be an increased demand. A body of water probably once stood over the territory occupied by the Utah mine, which was so heavily charged with antimony that it was precipitated, and in addition to its economic importance these mines are exceptionally remarkable geologically.

CHARGES AGAINST A SCHOOL TEACHER.

At the meeting Monday evening of the Hoboken School Board the charges brought against Miss Cunningham, the principal of School No. 3, were discussed. She is charged with using abusive language to her pupils, and with treating them improperly in other ways. A TRIBUNE reporter was told by Mr. Kiernan, the member who preferred the charge, that an affidavit would be sworn out by Miss Mary Barnum charging Miss Cunningham with abusive language and with other offenses. Mrs. Barnum, the young woman's mother, said that her daughter had been badly abused by the school teacher, and that on one occasion Miss Cunningham had attempted to force her to drink wine and water, but on its refusal to smoke a cigar. Miss Cunningham, it is said, has been twice suspended from her duties by Dr. Hoskins. At the meeting Monday night the president of the School Board, Mr. Stanton, opposed her dismissal.
