MINES AND MINING.

THURSDAY, Dec. 30—P. M.

Mining stocks to-day generally were dull and their prices were irregular. Of the Leadville shares, South Hite proved to be the favorite and its price rose from 42, after sales at 37 cents, to 48 cents. Amie advanced from 51 to 56 cents, but later sold at 53 cents, and finally closed, as yesterday, at 54 cents. Little Chief was weak at 80 cents. Leadville Consolidated sold at 50 cents, and Chrysolite was barely steady at 6⅞. The Comstock shares were steady within fluctuations of from 2 to 5 cents. Green Mountain sold at $4 90 buyers' sixty days. Rising Sun at $1 65@$1 70, and Moose was firm at $1 20. Hukill again was weak and declined 10 cents to $1 40. Boston Consolidated continues weak and fell from 72 to 68 cents. Of the low-priced stocks Durango recovered from 10 to 11 cents, Copper Knob was about steady at 9 cents, and Silver Nugget at 13 cents; Great Eastern was 1 cent lower at 25 cents, Calaveras unchanged at 21 cents, and Gold Placer declined to 38 cents. The markets closed dull and without feature.

Bullion valued at $17,900 28 was received in this city yesterday from the mines.

Twenty-five tons of ore were shipped from the Chrysolite mine on December 29.

The superintendent of the Green Mountain mine telegraphs as follows, under date of December 28: "We have just struck the main ore body in Tunnel No. 5. Ore prospecting well. Developments encouraging. Mill working splendidly."

Advices received at the office of the Colorado Central Consolidated Mining Company from its superintendent at Georgetown, under date of December 29, state that the damage by the fire does not exceed $5,000, and that it does not interfere with the developments in progress.

As will be seen by reference to our advertising columns, General G. H. La Grange retires from the firm of Watson, La Grange & Gibson, which will hereafter be known as Watson & Gibson. Messrs. Watson and Gibson are well known in financial circles, and have built up an enviable reputation in the negotiation of mining and investment securities.

A dispatch dated December 29, from the superintendent of the Gold Stripe Company, says: "The Lawrence Ledge opening finely. The lower Goodwin tunnel may strike ore body any day. Main Goodwin tunnel in fine ore. Mill running all right."

In a recent interview between a reporter of The Virginia Chronicle (Nevada) and Superintendent Boyle, of the Alta mine, the latter stated, in reply to a suggestion that the vertical lift of the mine should have been sunk to the 2,050 level, so that the main pumps could have handed the water, that it would require five or six months' time to sink the main shaft to that level—about 500 feet below where it is now—and that if such a programme had been announced at any time after the diamond drill struck ore there would have been good reason for complaint, and the cry would have been that the object was to squeeze six months' assessments out of the stockholders and freeze them out by delay. The superintendent further remarked that he had told the managers of the mine, for three or four weeks previous, that he was a little afraid of flooding; but that it was considered well worth the risk of running a crosscut rather than incur the delay and expense of sinking the main shaft to the 2,050 level.
