THE COURTS.

TRYING TO AVOID TAXATION.

The Pacific Mail Steamship Company obtained yesterday from Justice Cullen in the Supreme Court, Chambers, a writ of certiorari to review the action of the Tax Commissioners in assessing the company's property for local purposes. The papers upon which the writ was granted disclose the fact that the company is engaged in the carrying trade on the high seas, that all its vessels ply between New-York and foreign ports, that the principal office of this line of ocean-going steamships is at Clarkstown, a small village situated in the mountains of Rockland County back of Nyack, that notice was duly given to the authorities of this city of the place of the company's principal office, and that a tax for local purposes was to be imposed on the personal property of the corporation at that place, and that notwithstanding this notice the Tax Commissioners of New-York have assessed the value of the Company's property at $4,000,000.

It is further alleged against the legality of the action of the Tax Commissioners, that even if the property could be taxed in New-York and not in Clarkstown, the place of the company's principal office, the assessment is excessive. Moreover, the company is exempted from taxation either in Clarkstown or New-York or elsewhere for the period of fifteen years from June 1, 1881, by virtue of a statute passed at this present session of the Legislature declaring that the capital stock, franchises and earnings of all corporations engaged in the ocean carrying trade between this and foreign ports shall not be taxed for local purposes. Messrs. Lauterbach and Spingarn are the attorneys for the company.

CIVIL NOTES.

A suit for absolute divorce has been begun in Brooklyn by W. J. Rosenburg against his wife, Mrs. Mary Rosenburg. They were married in 1875, and have no children. The suit has been referred to J. P. Troy.

In the matter of the assignment of Joseph Byrne and William Hagan, composing the firm of Joseph Byrne & Co., importers of metals and tin plates at No. 86 Beekman-st., to James Liddy, the following schedule was filed yesterday: Liabilities, $171,653 91; nominal assets, $63,773 06; actual assets, $39,988 77.

Writs of certiorari were granted yesterday to review the assessment of the capital stock and property of the Western Union, American Union and Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph Companies, the Gold and Stock Telegraph Company and Manhattan Quotation Company. The assessments are claimed to be partly illegal and partly excessive. Similar writs have been granted before, but the questions involved have never yet been determined.

Officer Chiardi, of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, recently arrested an Italian boy called Andreas Lupanto, who was picking up cigar stumps in the street. The boy was sent to the Catholic Protectory under a law just passed to protect children from employment in onerous works. Vincenzo Saraceno claimed to be the boy's guardian, and procured a writ of habeas corpus, in obedience to which Andreas appeared yesterday before Justice Cullen in the Supreme Court, Chambers. Saraceno left the court-room to get a drink, when he was arrested on the charge of employing a boy in an improper occupation, and was locked up in the Tombs.

INTEMPERANCE IN TEMPERANCE.

To the Editor of The Tribune.

SIR: In the midst of so much that was good and commendable connected with the recent assemblage of temperance workers at Saratoga, it may not be considered gracious to speak of any feature which fell short of its average high standard of excellence. But I will hope to be pardoned for submitting one criticism, inasmuch as I was a delegate to the Convention, and entered with deep interest into its exercises. Those who were present at the session on Wednesday afternoon will remember that Professor Foster, of the Dominion Alliance of Canada, when speaking to the resolution touching the abolition of strong drink in the civil, military and naval service of the United States Government, pronounced himself against this proposition, and expressed the opinion that its adoption would lay the Convention open to the charge of fanaticism. He thought that the drinking of a glass or two of wine each day would not necessarily incapacitate a man from the faithful discharge of his duties as an officer in any of the above named departments. The expression brought down upon the speaker a demonstration of disapproval which would have been well enough if confined within the bounds of moderation. But when to the groans of condemnation were added the hisses of many I submit that the limits of courtesy and good breeding were transgressed. Consider the circumstances. The day previous this same Professor Foster had made a speech, which was applauded to the echo, showing what noble work the Canadians are doing for temperance. After that speech he and his delegation were by unanimous vote of the Convention welcomed to all the privileges of the body. But lo! in four-and-twenty hours those who had cried "Hosanna!" were shouting "Away with him!" And all because the gentleman was uttering a simple conviction of his honest mind. Understand, I am expressing neither agreement or disagreement with that sentiment.

This is the question: Is this a free country? Do we believe, as temperance workers, in fair play and an open field for debate? Can we sometimes agree to disagree, and tolerate differences of opinion, or must we suppress with a hiss every man who does not pronounce our precise shibboleth? I plead for a spirit of brotherly kindness and charity toward all in this great sphere of philanthropic effort. And I sincerely feel that the Convention at Saratoga owes Professor Foster an apology for its failure to put the seal of its displeasure upon the people who were guilty of this plain discourtesy.

I never heard a hiss in a public assembly without being reminded of a meeting in the old Broadway Tabernacle, about twenty-five years ago, held for the promotion of the Abolition movement. Henry Ward Beecher, during the course of his speech being greeted with that sound, related the following story: A blacksmith once took a piece of iron and set to work to make a broad-axe. He heated it red-hot and hammered away until he had spoiled the pattern. Then he tried to make a common axe, but failed in that endeavor. Then he essayed a hatchet, but failed again. Then said he: "Well, if I can't make an axe or a hatchet, there's one thing left for me to do; I can make a tremendous hiss;" and with that he flung the iron into a pail of water. G. H. G.
