

AFTER TEA.
A STUDENT'S SOLILOQUY.
"Happiness came in with the tea tray."
—De Quincey.
Thus, just thus, would I ever be,
And feel as I now feel "after tea":
Stretched out on this chair in social chat
With my chum, who sits opposed on that!
For now in a way I cannot tell
Things seem to have all grown passing well;
My brain feels a lightsome, moderate
glee—
'Tis thus that I still feel after tea.

I can't tell how the world has gone round;
'Tis not the same that this morn I found!
For then 'twas a scene of crowding cares,
Then appear'd a host of hard affairs;
I shudder'd a little to view them all,
So many, so huge—and my strength seem'd small—
But, as dull shadows at sunrise flee,
My darkness and gloom go after tea.

My joy is none of your "heavenly joys"
It rises up to no "rapturous" noise;
I do not think it can rise so high
As that of the lover his dear one nigh;
It is not the "perfect heaven" of bliss
He finds in a real, rapturous kiss!
'Tis joy, however, enough for me,
A bachelor stretch'd out after tea!

I do not think that my joy is such
As his who has taken what's call'd "too much";
Nor "blest", nor "glorious", after my
drink,
I soberly talk or quietly think;
My "elevation" is never shown,
To myself 'tis not much more than known;
But my heart is light, and my thoughts
flow free—
And I feel just happy enough after tea.

Thus, just thus, would I ever be,
And feel as I now feel after tea!
I seek not to find delight in gold,
Nor the lover's extremes of heat or cold,
I seek not the stormier social joys,
Nor the cup that gives bliss and—destroys!
But I will a quiet bachelor be,
And enjoy serenity after tea!
SAMUEL ANDREWS.

FALL ANNOUNCEMENT.

CONGRATULATE my customers upon the return of the fall season. With the season comes the necessity of replacement of old furniture, sewing machines and household decorations; in view of these facts, therefore, I direct your attention to the bargains I offer; indeed the best advertisement of the goods is the goods themselves. I would have you remember too that I am the only practical workman in the furniture business, and have had a long business experience and knowledge of local tastes as to the selection of goods. You will find mine the largest and handsomest stock of furniture, and with no superior, my policy being to sacrifice a margin for profits rather than sacrifice the confidence of my customers. I desire it to be known that I handle no cheap goods as to quality, but sell at a low price and give the best article the market affords for the money. It is a short-sighted policy for any merchant to make a reputation for low price goods at the expense of his reputation. My aim is to satisfy buyers, not by alluring bargains, but by the satisfaction that comes from the test of goods by actual wear. So come to the First-Class Furniture Store, where you will get the best bargains, and find more than one car-load from which to select. You can't do better anywhere. We are leading the trade, and the crowd is with us, yet we want more, so come and be convinced before you buy elsewhere.

R. W. PHILLIPS.

HERE

We are again; this time calling your attention to our line of PARLOR SUITES which are pret'y and durable, and at the same time at prices that will enable you to buy. Our stock of FURNITURE is complete and it will be to your interest to come to see us before buying.
