NEW BOOKS AND EDITIONS.

In Cassell & Co.'s series of "The World's Workers" have been issued brief biographies of Lincoln and Benjamin Franklin. They are written simply and tersely and in a manly spirit which ought to commend them to clever boys. It ought to be remembered, however, that no life of Franklin can surpass for youthful readers his inimitable autobiography.

A new and revised edition of "The Illustrated Library of Wonders" is being brought out, month by month, by the Scribners. The edition is in twenty-four volumes and has received additions and corrections which bring it abreast of the latest discoveries in science, art and natural history.

Mr. William Swinton's "Sixth or Classic English Reader" (Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co.) is almost a model of its kind. It provides copious selections from twenty famous authors—ten English and ten American—with compact introductory sketches of their lives and works. The volume has, moreover, a Glossary; and many excellent annotations and suggestions to the teacher.

A new issue of the Centenary edition of the Waverley Novels is in the press of Baker & Taylor. Six volumes are now ready and the edition of twenty-five volumes will be completed about December 1. The printing and the type are good, but the illustrations, consisting of old steel-plates, are a serious disfigurement. The edition is otherwise so attractive and so serviceable that it is a pity that these vexing illustrations had not been omitted. The same firm announce fac-simile reprints of the first editions of the "Pilgrim's Progress," Herbert's "Temple," and Walton's "Complete Angler."

Roberts Brothers have brought out a new edition of the late Mrs. Helen Jackson's "Century of Dishonor." The report made by Mrs. Jackson and Mr. Kinney on the needs of the Mission Indians of California has been added to this edition, considerably enlarging the book.

A handsome series of "Old Time Classics" has been issued by the Putnams. The series includes Plutarch's "Lives" and the histories of Herodotus, both edited by Headmaster White of Berkeley School. Each work is in two volumes, is edited discreetly and is neatly printed.

The neat and cheap yellow-covered series of works of fiction published by the Scribners has been enlarged by the appearance in two volumes of "Saxe Holm's" short stories.

Dr. Pusey's lectures on "Daniel the Prophet" have just been republished in a stout volume by Funk & Wagnalls.

Mr. W. O. Stoddard's "Winter Fun," a bright story for boys, has been issued in book form by the Scribners.

A volume of "Representative Essays," admirably selected, has just been published by the Putnams. The twelve papers—by Irving, Lamb, De Quincey, Emerson, Arnold, Morley, Lowell, Carlyle, Macaulay, Froude, Freeman and Gladstone—are in truth fairly representative of the best modern thought, the best literary styles of the day, and will be of especial value to college students.

The third volume of Dr. Joseph Parker's sermons on the "Apostolic Life" has come from the press of Funk & Wagnalls.

The latest volumes in the neat little "Handy Series" (Harper & Brothers) are those in which a number of Mr. James Payn's and Miss M. Betham Edwards's short stories are reproduced. Mr. Payn's "In Peril and Privation" contains various stories of marine disaster; Miss Edwards's "Flower of Doom and Other Stories" are bits of curious imagination.

Thomas Whittaker has republished in this country the cheap and excellent little series of "Simple Lessons for Home Use" which have had much success in England. They contain practical papers, written by competent authorities, on air and ventilation, contagious illnesses, cookery, plain needlework and kindred subjects.

Miss Fothergill's clever story of "Healey" has been republished by Holt & Co. in their "Leisure Hour Series."

"Twelfth Night," in W. Aldis Wright's convenient edition of Shakespeare, has lately come from the Clarendon Press.

MESSRS. ROBERTS BROS.' NEW BOOKS.

ANDROMEDA.

By GEORGE FLEMING, author of "Kismet," "Mirage," "Vestigia," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1 50.

A new and interesting novel by the popular author of "Kismet" is sure to find hosts of readers.

BALZAC'S NOVELS.

PÈRE GORIOT; Scenes from Parisian Life. A Novel. By H. DE BALZAC. 12mo, half morocco, French style of binding. Price $1 50.

"Balzac is the greatest of novelists, unmatched in his guild or kind as a social philosopher, and unsurpassed in his literary style. As a romance-writer he has no peer as yet in the English tongue," says Rev. Dr. C. A. Bartol.

"Messrs. Roberts Brothers are soon to bring out a series of translations of Balzac's novels, whose acknowledged chefs d'œuvres are superior to everything of their kind in English letters . . . provided the novel readers of America can be made to perceive the surpassing excellence of this great French master—the incomparable author of 'Le Comédie Humaine.'"—[Richard Henry Stoddard.

A KEY TO "RAMONA."

A CENTURY OF DISHONOR.

A Sketch of the United States Government's Dealings with some of the Indian Tribes. By HELEN JACKSON (H. H.), author of "Ramona," "Verses," "Bits of Travel," etc. A new edition, enlarged by the addition of the report of the needs of the Mission Indians of California. 12mo, 514 pages, cloth, $1 50.

"It was the first fruit of Mrs. Jackson's intense interest in the condition of the Indians, and her interest in this subject grew more and more absorbing until her death. . . . The report made by Mrs. Jackson and Mr. Kinney is grave, concise and deeply interesting. It is added to the appendix of this new edition of her book. In this California journey Mrs. Jackson found the materials for 'Ramona,' the Indian novel which was the last important work of her life, and in which nearly all the incidents are taken from life. In the report on the Mission Indians will be found the story of the Temecula removal and the tragedy of Alessandro's death as they appear in 'Ramona.' Mrs. Jackson gave almost her last thoughts to the cause which she had so much at heart; and her death has increased the interest in all that she wrote. Her work for the Indians must always hold a marked and noble place in American literature."—[Boston Daily Advertiser.
