LITERARY NOTES.

Princess Louise, of England, has been so gracious as to contribute some illustrations for her husband's article on "Our Railway to the Pacific," and both text and pictures will soon appear in Good Words.

There is a little too much of the Pharisee in the abuse which Englishmen pour upon the American publisher. Their own publishers are not free from the fault which they ascribe to the American, nor do they pretend to be. Mr. Routledge frankly acknowledges that the real origin of his successful business years ago was the publication of a cheap issue of Fenimore Cooper's novels. As for "Uncle Tom's Cabin," Mr. Routledge says: "We couldn't print it fast enough, so great was the demand, and I dare say we have printed as many as 600,000 copies of the seven or eight editions. The vogue for the book was quite amusing at the time—it was not a vogue but a craze. I remember when all the people in a single compartment of a railway carriage would be reading it, and if the train stopped and they happened to look up each one smiled confusedly and let his eyes drop once more on the pages."

The truth is that every American book sure of a sale in England has been reprinted there and it is probably safe to say that the sums which American publishers, under no legal obligation, have paid out to English authors have had few equivalents in the disbursements of English publishers to American writers. International copyright will benefit the American as well as the English author.

Mrs. Lynn Linton's new novel, "Paston Carew, Millionaire and Miser," is to appear in Harper's Bazar.

A book was recently sold in London in which Byron wrote this not particularly witty epigram:

I cannot understand, says Dick,
What 'tis that makes my legs so thick.
You do not understand, says Harry,
How great a calf they have to carry.

The Overland Monthly is to publish some recollections of John McCullough.

Mr. W. H. Mallock is writing a new romance, which will be it is to be hoped, a little more decent than the last. It will deal with politics and principles—and the antagonism between the two, of course; for every sucking reformer is firmly convinced that they never agree.

The English novelist, George Moore, intends to publish two books which will, he declares, picture completely the youth of his time. The first, called "A Drama of Muslin," is nearly ready. This is a study of girls—the men of the story are of little consequence. In the next work Mr. Moore will make a similar group of young men, the feminine element being secondary.

Madame Durand-Greville has written this dedication for "Dosia's Daughter": "To my American friends, known and unknown, I dedicate this book, written for them, with my hearty thanks for their kind welcome." A neat little autographic statement that Ticknor & Co., who pay her a copyright, are her authorized American publishers and that she hopes their rights may be respected, will appear in fac-simile in each forthcoming copy. It is to be wished that this hope of Madame Alice Marie Durand, née Fleury, will be realized.

That was a pleasant little introduction which Dr. Holmes gave Madame Durand the other evening in a Boston hall. "Messieurs et mesdames," he said, "excusez mesdames et messieurs—ladies and gentlemen: Si vous croyez que je vais vous parler en Français, vous vous trompez. If you think I am going to speak to you in French, you are mistaken. Ici on parle Anglais, or, as it is often translated, 'here English is spict.' If you wish to hear French—not the French of Stratford-atte-bowe, but such as Paris hears and the Academy approves—you will have that pleasure this evening. I suppose no person here but myself may remember Baron Alibert, the famous physician of the Hospital St. Louis fifty years ago. I remember him, with his solid figure, his pleasant face, his broad-brimmed hat, as he came among the crowd of students under the lindens of the hospital yard, and thus he began: 'Enfans de la méthode naturelle, êtes vous tous là?' (Children of the natural method, are you all here?) The 'natural method' referred to was his own method of arranging the diseases which were his specialty. But in everything there is a natural and an unnatural method. We have read too much of the unnatural method, which mentions everything unmentionable and dwells on everything unpresentable. It is a delight to welcome a novelist of the true and natural method, who paints from nature, but nature in seemly and noble attitudes."

All the originals of Carlyle's letters to Goethe and careful copies of eleven letters from Goethe to Carlyle have lately been found among the papers of the German writer. That means an addition to the already voluminous Carlyle literature and doubtless an addition full of selfish gloom and two-inch philosophy.

The Polymnian Society, composed of alumnæ and students of the Mt. Auburn Institute at Cincinnati, have issued the first number of The Round Table, a neat little journal of eight pages, which will appear bi-monthly hereafter. It is devoted, of course, to the diffusion of knowledge touching the students and graduates of the institute, and, if one is to judge by the salutatory, to the development of business ideas in the minds of the editors; for they say with admirable frankness: "At the same time our work must give us an idea of business which, it is rumored, some women lack."

Legal Notices.

WHEREAS, in the Circuit Court of the United States, for the Eastern District of Missouri, in the cases of Cornelius Vanderbilt, Trustee, of New-York, vs. James Cheney, complainant, vs. the Wabash, St. Louis and Pacific Railway Company, et al., Defendants—In Chancery, Nos. 2,257 and 2,314. Consolidated.

On November 5, 1885, the following order was entered, viz.—Now on this day, for the Central Trust Company of New-York and James Cheney, plaintiff, vs. Gillman & Hubbard, and Phillips & Stewart, their solicitors, and the Mercantile Trust Company of New-York, by H. S. Greene, Receiver, in motion it is ordered that this cause be referred to E. Mead, Esq., as special master, to take and report, with all convenient speed, evidence and his opinion on the following questions, to-wit:

1. The number and amount of the general mortgage bonds issued by the Wabash, St. Louis and Pacific Railway Company, and secured by the general mortgage executed on the 1st day of June, 1880, to the Central Trust Company of New-York and James Cheney, trustees. The said master will report the amount of principal of all of said bonds now outstanding, and upon the date of issue of each of said bonds, and whether any demand for payment of same was at any time made, or whether it was waived, and what notices were given under said collateral trust bonds before the Mercantile Trust Company filed its bill; and

2. The said Master will also report whether said Railway Company on the 1st day of June, 1885, or at any time thereafter, owned or acquired any lines of road, franchises or property other than that specified in the collateral trust mortgage, and which were not specifically described in said general mortgage and if any be found, to what describe the same with reasonable certainty.

3. Said Master will also report with reasonable certainty the amount of indebtedness secured by liens on the property of said Wabash Railway Company, or any part thereof, prior in point of time to the lien of the general mortgage or collateral trust mortgage, or which are made superior thereto by the said last named mortgages or either of them. He will report the time up to which interest has been paid on all such prior liens, and the time to which rents have been paid on all leasehold interests and what remains unpaid thereon.

4. Said Master will also report the amount of indebtedness already incurred by the Receivers herein, specifying the amount of Receivers' certificates now outstanding, together with the dates of issue and rates of interest thereon; also, all other claims or accounts allowed and unpaid which have been declared to be by the order of this Court or other Courts entertaining ancillary jurisdiction of this cause, liens superior in right to the lien of the mortgages securing bonds at issue, and the current indebtedness of said Receivership to date of his report, approximating said last named sum as nearly as possible.

5. Said Master will also report the probable amount of costs incurred in this cause in this Court, and in all Courts entertaining ancillary jurisdiction thereof, also the amount of reasonable compensation to be paid to said Trustees, receivers, their solicitors and counsel, for services already rendered.

6. Said Master will also report as to the agreement alleged in the cross-bill of the Mercantile Trust Company to have been made between the holders of the collateral trust bonds and a majority of the holders of the general mortgage bonds, specifying the terms thereof and the number of bonds, the owners or holders of which have accepted the same.

7. Said Master will report whether said Wabash Railway Company is insolvent and whether the property embraced in said mortgages is sufficient security therefor.

8. Said Master will also report a sufficient description of the said collateral trust.

9. Said Master will also report as to the agreement alleged in the cross-bill of the Mercantile Trust Company to have been made between the holders of the collateral trust bonds and a majority of the holders of the general mortgage bonds, specifying the terms thereof and the number of bonds, the owners or holders of which have accepted the same.

10. Said Master will report whether said Wabash Railway Company is insolvent and whether the property embraced in said mortgages is sufficient security therefor.

11. Said Master will also take evidence and report upon such other matters pertinent to the issues made herein as may be brought before him.

It is ordered that said Master take such portions of the evidence on such questions and matters as may be taken most conveniently in the City of New-York or elsewhere, particularly when a number of witnesses reside in said city, or away from the City of St. Louis.

12. Said special Master shall fix the time and place for hearings under the order, giving at least five days written notice to the counsel of the trustees of the general and collateral trust mortgages respectively, and by publication for at least five days in some daily newspaper of the locality where any hearing may be held.

And whereas, Similar orders have been entered in the same cause in the United States Circuit Courts for the Southern District of Illinois, the Northern District of Ohio, West Division, the Eastern District of Michigan, the District of Indiana, and the Southern District of Iowa, Eastern Division.

Notice pursuant to said orders is hereby given that the undersigned will be present at the offices of Butler, stillman and Hubbard, No. 111 Broadway, in the City and State of New-York, at 11 o'clock a.m. of Monday, December 7th, 1885, to hear evidence relating to matters referred to in said orders.
EDMUND T. ALLEN, Special Master.

Medical.

DR. J. H. SCHENCK, OF PHILADELPHIA,
The Proprietor of those wonderful Medicines:
SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,
SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC,
SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS, can be consulted by all who are suffering with CONSUMPTION,
LIVER COMPLAINT
OR DYSPEPSIA, at the
GRAND CENTRAL HOTEL,
Broadway, opposite Bond Street, New-York,
Wednesday & Thursday, Dec. 2d & 3d, from 10 o'clock to 3.
The success of Dr. Schenck's Medicines makes the assertion that no longer doubtful; the faith in them is stronger to-day than ever, because they have proved their healing and saving works wherever they have been tried.
CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED
Dr. Schenck's method of treatment is a simple and rational one, it strikes at the root of the disease, and removes the cause.
THE MANDRAKE PILLS
cleanse the stomach and liver.
THE SEAWEED TONIC
builds up the system, tones the organs of digestion, and nourishes and enriches the blood.
THE PULMONIC SYRUP, that invaluable remedy for Coughs, Colds and all diseases of the lungs, throat and bronchial tubes, ripens and expels the matter, cleans the cells and cavities, soothes and heals the sore spots.
Ordinarily, in Consumption, the symptoms are Cough, Night Sweats, Hectic Fever, etc., and physicians generally attack such symptoms separately, with opium preparations for the Cough. This disorders the entire system, and instead of allaying the inflammation which has caused the Cough, it increases it. Cod liver oil is another favorite prescription; this, at its best, is a nauseating dose, and does not agree with a healthy stomach. Whiskey is used, sometimes alone, and then mixed with the cod liver oil; and when nature revolts at this vile treatment, the system is in such a condition that hope has fled, or the desire for alcoholic stimulants is unconquerable.
Dr. Schenck resorts to no such expedientes. His treatment and medicines have cured thousands. Consult him as above and learn your true condition; it may be that what you are mistaking for CONSUMPTION is a severe attack of Liver Complaint, which can be easily cured, but which, if allowed to progress, will terminate in Consumption.
If you cannot consult Dr. Schenck personally, write to Dr. J. H. Schenck & Son, Philadelphia, for his book, which will be mailed to you free, and which describes fully and plainly the symptoms and treatment of Pulmonary Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.
EPPS'S COCOA.
BREAKFAST.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack whenever there is a weak point. We may escape many fatal shafts by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame." Civil Service Gazette.
Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in half pound tins by Grocers, labelled thus: JAMES EPPS & CO. Homœopathic Chemists, London, England.
