LITERARY NOTES.

"I am enthusiastic about it myself; I think it the best story that has yet come from my pen," is what Mr. Cable is quoted as saying about "Grande Pointe" by The Chicago Inter-Ocean.

In the latest chapter of "Preterita" Mr. Ruskin has this to say about girls: "Literally to please them is, indeed, my hope with all girls, in spite of what I have above related of my mistaken ways of recommending myself. My primary thought is how to serve them, and make them happy; and if they could use me for a plank-bridge over a stream, or set me up for a post to tie a swing to, or anything of the sort not requiring me to talk, I should be always quite happy in such promotion. This sincere devotion to them, with intense delight in whatever beauty or grace they chance to have, and in most cases perceptive sympathy, heightened by faith in their right feelings, for the most part gives me considerable power with girls. But all this prevents me from ever being in the least at ease with them. I like oval faces, crystalline blonde, with straightish, at the utn est wavy (or, in length, wreathed) hair, and the firm elastic and foot firm."

The April number of Lend a Hand is full of practical suggestion to the philanthropist. The spirit of this clever little magazine is to be seen in a representative paragraph from this month's leading article:

By mere almsgiving, doling out this or that supply where no industry has earned it, where no sickness or other exception excuses it, you break down character and create pauperism. This is what a lazy man does when a girl with cold hands and bare feet comes into his office crying, in the winter; and the lazy man gives her half a dollar "in charity." He does it because he does not choose to go to her house nor to spare the time to really help her or her mother. And yet he wants to salve his own conscience. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred he does more harm by his dole than he relieves. But he must not pretend that it is charity that has worked this injury, it is only his laziness that worked it. He does that girl no good because he sets the agency at work for making her better. If he wants to be charitable he must see that while to-day's hunger is lost, and to-day's cold is warmed, she whom he would help is set on the way to lift herself out of the destitution in which he finds her. If she is drunken, she must be saved from the evils of drink; if she is ignorant of any art, she must be taught to sweep, to wash, to knit or to sew. If her house is dirty she must be taught to keep it clean. If the children's meals are badly cooked she must be taught to cook them better. You are a false friend to her, if through the winter you only keep her along on the ground level where you found her, just above starvation, and do not lift her to a higher grade, better able to rise above the tide which will sweep up again as certainly as next winter will come.

Mr. Justin McCarthy, in a letter to the Editor of The Freeman, says that he hopes he shall not horribly any of his countrymen if he ventures to express the opinion that Edmund Burke "is the one only front-rank man whom Ireland has yet contributed to the literature of the world."

The Shelley Society has brought out two volumes in the second series of its publications. One of these is a reprint of the original Pisa edition of "Adonais"; the other is Shelley's review of Hogg's "Memoirs of Prince Alexy Haimatoff," together with the magazine article in which Professor Dowden brought the authorship of the review to light.

THE CHRISTIAN UNION says of
A DAUGHTER OF FIFE.
By AMELIA E. BARR.
12mo, cloth, $1.
"Readers of that charming story, 'Jan Vedder's Wife,' are not likely to miss the opportunity of listening to another story told with the same sympathy, skill and charm of narrative. There is some peculiar quality in Mrs. Barr's recent stories which eludes analysis; some quality which gives them an altogether peculiar charm, a hold upon our feelings no less than upon our imagination.
"After so many novels of realism and analysis, one reads such a romance as this with the zest with which one puts a cup of clear, cold water to his lips after a journey through a dry and dusty land."

GENERAL MARKET REPORT.

BUILDING MATERIALS.—Common hard Bricks have been in good demand and the supply has been inadequate. Prices are firm and unchanged. Lumber meets with a brisk sale at the yards, but beyond some activity in spruce the market for large lots has been quiet. White and Yellow Pine have been quiet but steady. Random cargoes of Spruce quoted at $15@$17 as a rule, though for inferior grades somewhat lower prices have been accepted. Special orders, $18@$18; Yellow Pine, $12@$13 for timber and $14@$16 for boards, both free on board. Lath firmer; Spruce, 2 12@2 50c. Nails quiet at $2.25@$2.40 according to quantity taken. Cement quiet but steady; Rosendale 90c. at Rondout and $1 at New-York; English 2.40@2.60c.; American $2.25@$2.30; German $2.35@$2.55; Roman $2.75@$3; Keene's fine $10@$10.25; do. coarse $6.25@$6.50.

CHICORY.—Grounded 5¾@8½c.

COCOA.—Steady and in moderate demand. Guayaquil, 15¼@15½; Maracaibo, 24¾@25c.; San Domingo, 11½@12c.

COAL.—Anthracite is selling better than recently and shows more strength. Bituminous in good demand and scarce and tending upward.

COFFEE.—Spot Rio quiet at 8¾c. for Fair. Options opened steady for April, weak at 5 points decline for remaining months, and closed steady. Sales, 18,250 bags, closing as follows: April, 7.10@7.20; May, 7.10@7.15; June, 7.05@7.10; July, 7.00@7.05; August, 7.00@7.05; September, 7.00@7.05; October, 7.00@7.05; November, 7.00@7.10; December, 7.05@7.10. Mild grades active and steady; sales, 1,000 bags Caracas, 600 Caracas, 185 Costa Rica, and 225 Cape on private terms.

COTTON.—Spot Cotton firm, quiet and unchanged. Sales, 395 bales (191 east evening, of which 150 were for export) and 265 for home consumption. Receipts at the ports today, 9,556 bales against 7,802 this day last week and 5,491 last year; since September 1, 4,912,458 bales, against 4,595,053 for the same period last season.
