PLANS FOR NEW SUBWAYS.

COMMISSIONER HESS CHOSEN TO SUCCEED MR. FLOWER AS PRESIDENT.

The meeting of the Subway Commissioners yesterday was called to order by Secretary Moss. Commissioner Hess nominated Mr. Moss for president, but the latter declined, saying that he had office enough. He proposed Mr. Hess, and Mr. Gibbons, who received his official appointment from the Governor on Wednesday, seconded this motion, and Mr. Hess was duly installed as the successor of Mr. Flower. He offered a resolution that the board had learned with deep regret of the resignation of Mr. Flower, "who by his steadfastness of purpose, devotion to duty and well-directed energy while a member of the board has proved himself a most efficient and capable public servant, and earned the respect and esteem of his fellow members." This was adopted. It will be engrossed at the private expense of the Commissioners and presented to Mr. Flower as a slight token and remembrance of "the harmonious spirit which has prevailed in the board and effectually inaugurated and insured the ultimate success of its labors."

Engineer Thomson, of the construction company, reported plans for the subway line, from Cortlandt-st., up Broadway, across City-Hall Park. If the Park authorities will allow it, to the Bridge, and they were adopted. It is to consist of eighteen iron tubes, each three inches in diameter, imbedded in hydraulic cement. Work was ordered to be begun on this line November 29. On the recommendation of the engineers it was also decided to construct the uptown line through Fifty-eighth-st., east to the river. The Averill material is to be used provided it meets the approval of the Engineer of the Commission. The construction company was also ordered to lay a two-duct conduit in Spring-st., from Broadway west to the river. One of these ducts, each of which is three inches in diameter, is to be used by the Metropolitan Company and the other is for the City Hall Park. This line is to be laid at the same time with that across City Hall Park. Permission was given to the Construction Company to extend the underground system in West-st., from Dey to Cortlandt st. A two-duct conduit will be laid there. The Corporation Counsel having decided that the Department of Public Works had nothing to do with the granting of permits to string wires to electrical messenger companies who do not use poles, Mr. Gibbons offered a resolution that such rights be granted by the Commission to the Manhattan Telegraph and Messenger Company and also to the newly organized Business Men's Messenger Company, of Harlem. This was vigorously opposed by Mr. Moss, but was finally granted.

Engineer Beckwith, of the Metropolitan Telephone Company, who was present, was informed that the new subways on Sixth-ave. would be ready by Monday and was asked if his company was making preparations to go into them. Mr. Beckwith said that his people were discussing the matter.

"Well, we consider this a most important matter," said Commissioner Gibbons to him. "We have endeavored to study the interests of the electrical companies in building these subways and will continue to do so if they will do their part by going into them without delay, as soon as the conduits are ready. If you do not propose to take your poles down we want to know it, as soon as possible."

Mr. Beckwith replied that he would be ready to report on the subject at the next meeting of the Board, which will be held on Tuesday.

ON TRIAL FOR ATTEMPTED BLACKMAIL.

THE CONSPIRACY TO GET MONEY FROM CHARLES C. SEARS, OF BUFFALO.

The alleged conspiracy of Andrew J. Wightman, Charles W. Bolles and Samuel J. Lowell to extort money from Charles C. Sears, of Buffalo, by charging that he had had improper relations with a young woman in this city, occupied the attention of Justice Brady and a jury in the Court of Oyer and Terminer yesterday. Mr. Sears was formerly deputy city clerk of Buffalo and for many years was contracting agent of the Chicago Rock Island and Pacific Railroad.

A suit for an absolute divorce, in which Mr. Sears charged his wife, Mrs. Frances M. Sears, with improper relations with Joseph C. Barnes, was pending last spring when he received a letter from the defendant Bolles, intimating that he had better provide for the support of a young woman and her child in this city, charging him with having been unduly intimate with her. Mr. Sears placed the letter in the hands of his lawyer, whose investigations led to the arrest of the defendants and of May Amy Thatcher, the young woman in question. Lowell has a private detective agency and Wightman has been employed by him.

May Amy Thatcher, a young woman with vividly auburn hair, testified that she was nineteen years old when, on the evening of February 10 she met a man in the street at Fourteenth-st. and Sixth-ave., who, she was subsequently told, was Mr. Sears. They walked together and were followed by the defendant Wightman, who saw them enter the St. Omer Hotel, where they remained for two hours. Afterward she was followed by Wightman and Lowell, who told her that they had seen her enter the hotel with Sears. At the office of the detectives subsequently the latter arranged that a letter should be written to Sears demanding $1,000. The letter was written by Lawyer Bolles, one of the defendants. She also signed an affidavit charging that Sears had had improper relations with her. The detectives told her that money could be obtained from Sears, whose wife had sued him for a divorce.

Mr. Sears, on the witness-stand, identified a letter which he said he had received from Lawyer Bolles threatening legal proceedings if he did not provide for the mother and child. He sent it to his lawyer in this city, William P. Burr. The latter testified that he communicated with Bolles, who wrote him that the woman would "assume all responsibility for $1,000." He sent word to Bolles to call on him for the money and had him arrested when he appeared at the office of the witness. The trial will be continued to-day.

BITS OF LEGAL NEWS.

In a suit for the recovery of 200 shares of the stock of the Fuller Manufacturing Company application was made yesterday to Justice Van Brunt, in Supreme Court, Chambers, on behalf of Mrs. Mary E. Fuller, for an order continuing the injunction obtained by her restraining Samuel M. Roosevelt from disposing of the stock.

In her complaint against Roosevelt she alleges that last February Hiram E. Fuller gave her stock to James Crocker, a broker, as collateral on a promissory note, and that the stock was after wards transferred to Roosevelt in payment for a wine bill. The decision was reserved.

A notice of appeal from the conviction of Daniel Driscoll, the leader of the "Whyo" gang, sentenced to be hanged on December 3 for the murder of Jerry Garrity, was served yesterday on the District-Attorney and filed with the clerk of the Supreme Court, General Term. It acts as a stay upon the execution.

ENLARGING THE METHODIST CHURCH.

MEETING OF THE EXTENSION BOARD—FOUR HUNDRED NEW CHURCHES.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11 (Special).—The annual session of the General Committee of the Methodist Episcopal Church Extension, composed of the bishops of the church, thirteen ministers from different sections of the country, and thirteen delegates from the board living in this city, together with the officers of the board, was held at No. 1,026 Arch-st. to-day. The treasurer reports that after giving a balance to the church last year of $49,781 38, the receipts on general account were $143,574 23, on loan fund account $82,910 29; giving a total for the use of the board of $276,265 90, an increase over last year of $11,521 32. The conference collections for last year were $91,542 26; for this year they are $99,445 91. The total disbursements were $230,539 59, leaving a balance in cash and securities, November 1, of $45,726 31.

It was the unanimous sense of the meeting that the coming year ought to complete the entire work, which Chaplain McCabe began in 1879, of building 400 churches. The fact that the entire value of these churches will be $800,000, the board believe, should inspire increased zeal in this work.

"The need for additional frontier churches," the report states, which can only be built on this plan, was never more pressing than now. If fifty consecrated givers would give us a subscription of $250 each for ten years it would scarcely provide for one half the immediate emergencies demanding this form of aid." The distinguished gentlemen present were Bishops Bowman, Harris, Merrill, Andrews, Warren, Foss, Walden, Mallalieu and Fowler. The thirteen representatives of the General Conference districts were all present excepting the Rev. James H. McGarrah, of the fourth district. The Board of Missions was represented by a full attendance of the thirteen members, as follows: William V. Morrisson, Providence, R. I.; Alexander Craig, Jersey City; Isaac L. Bingham, D. D., of Louisville, N. Y.; Joseph M. Trimble, D. D., of Columbus, Ohio; Job H. Fried, Washington, D. C.; George W. Gue, Peoria, Ill.; Robert M. Hatfield, D. D., of Evanston, Ill.; Henry C. O'Neal, Clarinda, Iowa; Thomas B. Ford, of Little Rock, Ark.; Cyrus R. Rice, of Eureka, Kan.; Christian Bilun, of New-York City; H. M. Hines, of Portland; and William Swindells, W. J. Faxson, T. B. Neely, T. C. Murphy, J. B. McCullough, J. F. Keen, L. C. Simon, Thomas Greenbank, L. D. Brown, C. Scott, W. G. Spencer, S. W. Thomas, C. Hieskell, of Philadelphia. This evening Bishop Bowman presided at the annual anniversary exercises in the Green Street Church. Addresses were delivered by Bishop Fowler, the Rev. Dr. Hines, of Portland, Oregon, and the Rev. Dr. W. A. Spencer.

THE PRINCE'S RUSE.

AN EXAMPLE OF PERSIAN JUSTICE.

From The St. James's Gazette.

On the side of the high road to Shiraz, thirty miles before the city is reached, going north stands a bare pole. This marks the place where the body of Sergeant Collins was found after his murder.

Sergeant Collins was an inspector of the telegraph line, a man of great personal bravery. He had been a sapper, had been through the China War, and had nearly completed his service for pension; an old soldier of the best type, rough, honest and thorough. Accompanied by his wife, two servants (a man and woman), and two muleteers, he started on his inspection duty. Collins was hardly convalescent from a fever attack when he started, and he had no choice in travelling but to lie on a mattress flung on a loaded mule. At early dawn one day a muleteer suddenly cried, "Salub, they have blocked the road"; and looking ahead the Sergeant saw some men in front who were covering him with their guns. At the same moment these men ordered him to dismount. Now the Sergeant was the best shot in Persia. "Be off!" he shouted, firing his revolver twice. The robbers rushed in, firing as they came; and Collins was hit in two places, death being instantaneous. After beating the lifeless body with their iron-headed sticks, the robbers blindfolded and carried off the wife and the two servants, detaining them in a dell till after midnight.

At the persistent instigation of the English Minister at Teheran the Persian authorities arrested the three principal robbers. Another of them committed suicide to avoid capture; another had died from a gunshot wound, apparently inflicted by Collins. But the Persian authorities, though they had got the criminals in gaol, seemed very loth to bring them to justice. But at length Mirza Hassan Ali Khan, C. S. I., our agent at Shiraz, succeeded in goading the Prince-Governor, H. R. H. Zil-es-Sultan, into trying the prisoners.

The proceedings were very curious. There was no doubt of the guilt of the men, but there were no witnesses of the murder. The sergeant was dead; his wife and his two servants had been frightened out of their wits; and the muleteer declared that he could remember nothing. The English in Persia justly felt that it would be a serious thing to allow the assassins to escape, and yet the difficulty of bringing their guilt home to them in the regular legal way seemed all but impossible. What was to be done? Well, in Persia justice, though at times very blind, is swift as a rule; and often arrives at correct conclusions by tortuous paths. The Zil-es-Sultan, finding that the English Minister would not remain satisfied, ordered the robbers to be brought before him. There was no court, in our sense of the term; no robed judges, no array of counsel, no jury. The Prince-Governor himself embodied the law. Half a dozen courtiers lolled against the wall their arms respectfully crossed upon their breasts. Seated on a silk mattress in a corner of the room, his back supported by gold-embroidered cushions, the young Prince twiddled his mustache or played with the jewelled hilt of his sabre, or toyed with the buckle of priceless brilliants which formed the central ornament of his plain leather waist-belt.

The three men were dressed as Persian villagers usually are, in tall felt caps and long felt coats. When they were hustled into the hall of audience they were still heavily ironed; for these men are often desperate criminals, and would not hesitate for a moment to murder their gaolers if they thought they would thereby secure a chance of escape. On entering the royal presence they bow almost to the ground. "Salaam!" they shout in a kind of chorus; your villager never speaks, he always shouts. "How do you like prison?" asks the Prince, nodding to them with a smile. In reply the bandits assert their innocence, calling at every sentence upon Heaven and the Prophet. "Are we not harmless tribesmen, we who live in your Royal Highness's shadow! May we be your sacrifice!" The Prince still smiles blandly. "Ah, my friends," says he, "I too am a Mussulman. We are all Mussulmans here; and—and in fact—an unbeliever more or less doesn't much matter. You have truly done a good deed. I shall not really punish but reward you. That you killed the Feringhi there is, of course, no doubt; and so I must punish you nominally. What I propose to do is to cut off a joint of one finger of each of you. But what is that? Nothing. Your dishonor of honor are secured. You will put them on; and will be instantly liberated. And now, my children," says the smiling Prince, "tell me all about it. How did you manage it, eh?" The astonished and delighted prisoners received this speech with a burst of joy. All shouting at once they hastened to give the Prince full particulars. "The European fired twice from one pistol—may we be your sacrifice!—and then we all fired together, rushing in on him. He was but a European—may your shadow never be less!" We trust in the clemency of your Royal Highness! May we be your sacrifice!"

The smile faded from the face of the young Prince-Governor; his kindness to the shah his father becoming very apparent as his countenance darkened into ferocity. He had got at the truth; and, without more ado, nodded with appropriate signifidance to his chief of police the Farrash-bashi, a burly, black-bearded man who stood behind the criminals. The prisoners were removed; they were hurried into the public square, in which the palace stands, and there their throats were cut. The bodies lay exposed till sunset, a terror to evil-doers.

A red granite tablet in one of the Christian churches at Julfa subscribed for by the Engineer officers and non-commissioned officers in Persia, commemorates the death of sergeant Collins.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE MARKETS.

FEATURES OF NEW-YORK DEALINGS.

The grain markets were absolutely without new feature yesterday. The wheat speculation seems to be in a condition impossible to respond to even favorable developments. Cash wheat fell off ¼@½ cent though exporters bought 184,000 bushels. The options early were weak, declining ½@¾, cent, and the heavy export demand was only effectual in its influence in recovering a portion of the loss. The close was steady and a shade easier as follows: November 83⅞, December 85⅛, January 86¾, February 88¼, May 92⅜ @92⅞ for January, 90⅞ for February and 93⅞ for March.

The receipts of grain and flour yesterday at New-York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Boston were as follows: Wheat, 296,535 bushels; corn, 153,667 bushels; oats, 108,079 bushels; total grain, 558,341 bushels; flour, 38,256 barrels. At Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Louis the arrivals were: Wheat, 191,300 bushels; corn, 204,853 bushels; oats, 114,938 bushels, total grain, 511,397 bushels; flour, 39,346 barrels.

THE TRADE IN CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11 (Special).—December wheat opened at 74⅞c to-day, just a shade under last night's closing prices. In pork there was a stampede of holders and January dropped to $9 85. Wheat steadily declined until December touched 73⅞c cents. It sold, when the market was at the lowest ebb and the feeling most depressed a few weeks ago, at 73½ cents for the same option. It then went back to 74¼ cents for December and stayed there. In provisions the packers are getting along so well with new men that they have begun to sell again. Hogs have been unfavorably affected by the strike and this has reacted on the pork, so that really the influence which at first advanced the product is now helping along the decline. The settling boys report that Milwaukee houses which were prominent in the Plankinton large deal for September are the ones which have the short lines of pork on the books. In corn there is now as marked a decrease in values. It is claimed that the little spirit which generally precedes the closing of any action has come and gone, and that steady accumulations will depress prices. The canal will soon be closed and in a fortnight at the most the lake will be closed. At 2:30 p. m. the close was 74⅜@74½ cents for December wheat; 41¼ cents for May corn and $8 90 for January pork; puts on May corn 41⅛ cents; calls on May corn 41½ cents; puts on December wheat, 74½ cents; calls on December wheat, 74⅝ cents. The receipts for to-day were 158 cars of wheat, 166 cars of corn and 95 cars of oats.
