Write for catalogue.

BURGLARY AT PLEASANT. PLEASANT, S. C., July 19.—On last Sunday morning while the family of Charles Tinspheed were attending Sunday school a burglar broke into his house, tore up some of his and his wife's clothing, carrying off a small piece of bacon and all of his papers, including land deed, plat and tax receipts. It seems that the land papers were their chief aim.

NEWS FROM WOODWARD. WOODWARD, S. C., July 20.—This section was visited late yesterday afternoon and last night by fine showers. In some places the ground is too wet to plough this morning.

WOODWARD, S. C., July 21.—A post-mortem meeting of Bethel Presbytery will be held tomorrow at Blackstock for the purpose of considering the dissolution of the pastoral relations between Rev. R. P. Smith and Concord Church and dismissing him to Mecklenburg Presbytery. Upon the earnest solicitation of Mr. Smith the congregation on yesterday reluctantly consented to unite with him in his request that his pastoral relation with the church be now dissolved.

WOODWARD, S. C., July 21.—A negro boy about fourteen years old, stole a silver watch from a colored woman here and ran off. A warrant was issued for his arrest. He was caught last night on the plantation of Gen. Brant and pleaded guilty this morning to the charge, and was sent to jail for thirty days. We learn that a warrant is out against him in Chester.

HINTS ON TEACHING SPELLING. 1. Make a judicious combination of oral spelling with written exercises. Oral spelling secures correct pronunciation, and awakes a keener interest in the pupils; written spelling is more practical, but is apt to become wearisome if carried on exclusively.

2. Train primary pupils on short lists of the names of common things. 3. Require them to copy at least one paragraph from each reading lesson.

4. In oral spelling excite a spirit of emulation by allowing pupils to win their rank in line by "going up" when they spell a word that has been missed. 5. Allow pupils, at least once a week, to "choose sides" and have a spelling match.

6. If a spelling book is in the hands of your pupils, when you assign a lesson pronounce all new or difficult words, and require the class to pronounce in concert after you, in order to secure correct pronunciation. Then let each scholar in turn pronounce one word going over the lesson a second time. Call special attention to words of difficult spelling, and to those containing silent letters. Occasionally spelling lessons. Occasionally spelling lessons. Occasionally spelling lessons.

7. If a spelling book is not used, in some measure supply the lack of one by grouping words into short lessons, and dictating them to the pupils to be copied into their blank books. There is great waste of labor in taking up words heterogeneously, instead of by groups.

8. Written exercises, after the papers or slates are corrected, require pupils to rewrite their misspelled words. 9. Require pupils to pronounce each word before spelling it.

10. In all grades above the lowest, make out carefully arranged lists of words which pupils are liable to misspell; let the pupils copy the words into blank books and study the lessons until they are thoroughly learned.

11. Give early and constant attention to the practical application of a few of the important rules of spelling, such as doubling the final consonant before ing and ed, dropping the final e, etc. By this means pupils will learn to spell correctly a large class of words in course of use.

12. The teaching of spelling should be so conducted as to unfold something of the meaning of words, and of the formation of derivatives from primitive words and roots. The exercise then becomes a part of good intellectual training, instead of a blind effort of the memory.

13. Correct spelling is a conventional test of accurate scholarship. The teacher should endeavor to secure the best results by stimulating the interest of pupils by the charm of novelty, and amusement.—Seeley's Methods of Teaching.

BUCKHEAD NEWS. BUCKHEAD, S. C., July 20, 1933.—This is one day before the anniversary of the first battle at Manassas Junction in 1861 of our late civil war. We recollect the gallant Wade Hampton as he comported rode back with scar wounds in his face, as we were marching out to the field. He said to us, "Boys, go on, but we have got them routed;" Jeff Davis arrived at the same time at the Junction that our Regiment did (the 6th S. C.) As he went hurriedly to the field—we heard cheering for the hero of Buena Vista. I did not see him though. The only time I ever saw Jeff Davis was when our army was stationed east of Lookout Mountain. He was accompanied by Breckenridge and Bragg, Confederate Generals, all on horseback. The three lifted their hats as they passed by—I have touched a link on history, but will resume my diary.

On the 8th there was reported a fire in the mill. There has been no fire here in about five weeks. Everything in the crop or vegetable order is very much damaged except some very early corn that had been worked good, and was made, and the cotton crop, which can do so much less rain.

July 19th. Fencing at Rock Creek Church by Mr. Estes. His preaching was earnest and instructive. There is a picnic at Salem Church today, and a protracted meeting going on also. The preaching is done by the Rev. Wm. Boggs, evangelist of Beaufort.

The protracted meeting at Rock Creek Church commences the first Saturday in August. There will be a picnic at Rock Creek Church on the 28th inst. The ladies expect to sell ice cream for the benefit of the church.

There is to be a two or three days meeting at Liberty Church commencing August 19. This is the 21st July and we had a very good rain on the 19th, and another on the 20th, and it is still cloudy.

My brother David writes me of the death of Mr. S. M. Simons, which occurred on the 3rd inst. near him in Arkansas. I also heard from his niece (Theresa) on the 6th inst. in Texas.

I think Mr. Cleveland has done to himself, to his administration and to the people of South Carolina in upholding one of her most honored and famous sons, a great honor; and he did it more worthy of a visit than almost any other of its size in the West, and offers the greatest inducements to traveller and tourist. Between the Indiana and Chicago the line traverses the very best agricultural and commercial territory, and the ride is one of unparalleled comfort and beauty.

Dear in mind that the C. M. & D. and Monon Route trains all run via Burnside Crossing, from which point the Illinois and Chicago line runs direct to the World's Fair grounds every moment. At Englewood connection is made with the electric cars, which run every five minutes to the grounds, but we recommend all persons to go directly into the Dearborn Station, which is located in the heart of the city and from which all street car lines converge, then go directly by car or cab to your hotel or boarding place. First locate yourself; know where and how you are to live while in Chicago. Get the locality firmly fixed in your mind, before going to the World's Fair by any of the numerous convenient ways; the cable cars, electric roads, elevated railroad, Illinois Central R. R., suburban trains and the steamboats afford ample accommodations for all possible visitors, and it is but five minutes ride from the business portion of the city to the grounds. Take your breakfast down town, buy your lunch at the grounds, and take your supper down town. If you follow these suggestions you will save money.

Now Try This. It will cost you nothing and will surely do you good if you have a Cough, Cold, Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is guaranteed to cure the most stubborn cases. It is a good time to prepare the turnip patches or to plant.

W. E., your nonagenarian correspondent, is looking right for Mrs. C. Ladd is about as well as common.
