Beneath, over and around this fence grow different species of plants, vines and weeds. During the last thunder storm lightning struck the fence and ran along it both ways. Posts were torn up and the bark stripped from the supporting trees. Singularly enough, of all the vegetation which it passed through the lightning only affected the "iron weed," all the other plants escaping unharmed. The weed was killed and shrivelled up.

THE AMERICAN FLAG IN COLLEGES.

From The College Journal.

General Webb, on the presentation of a flag by Lafayette Post, Grand Army of the Republic, to the students of the College of the City of New-York said: "Comrades of Lafayette Post: We fought to establish forever in this country the right of our government to maintain, at any cost, the supremacy of this flag. It is now, more than ever it was before the dark days of the Rebellion, the symbol of liberty, equal rights and unity. It is, therefore, especially fitting that you, the representatives of the men who secured to us all these blessings, should insist that it should ever be to the youth of this broad land what it has been to us. You are right in your claim that they shall be so instructed that this flag shall be to them the sole symbol of our grand government, the only flag to be venerated by American citizens. . . . I receive this beautiful emblem of freedom, assuring you that we deem it an exalted honor to be the chosen recipients of this priceless gift. Through the efforts of our president and the Board of Trustees, an active interest in the lessons to be derived from the contemplation of National questions has sprung into existence during the past year in the public schools of this city. Every one who has fought under this flag has felt the growing necessity for some well directed movement of this kind coming from the official representative source. . . . Inform yourselves, remain or become American, and see to it that American destiny falls not into the hands of the uninstructed, the inhabilitated.

A LONG SEARCH FOR HIS MISSING SON.

DR. SCOTT HAS BEEN HUNTING FOR HIS BOY THIRTEEN YEARS—ALMOST WITHIN HIS GRASP.

A strange story was the talk of the Morton House yesterday. It told of a father who for thirteen years has been looking for his first-born son, who now, just on the eve of recovering his child, has been frustrated by a careless whim of his second wife. Fifteen years ago, Dr. C. S. Scott, the most prominent dentist of Pittsburg, was married in Minneapolis, where he then lived. A son was born to him, but the wedlock was not a happy one, and the husband obtained a decree of divorce giving him charge of the child, who was then seventeen months old. The divorced wife, however, fled with the boy before Dr. Scott could obtain possession of him. Since then Pinkerton detectives have been hunting high and low for the missing boy, without success.

In the meantime, Dr. Scott removed to Pittsburg, made a fortune, and became proprietor of the Bijou Theatre. Last week he came to New-York to arrange for the production of a spectacular play, "My Sister," of which mention has been made in The Tribune. He had not received a report from the Pinkertons for nearly a year, when, on Friday, he was surprised by the following telegram from his second wife, who is a sister-in-law of Colonel Richard Nevins and of James G. Blaine, jr.:

Pittsburg, June 29.

Go immediately to Palmer House, Chicago, for your son Charley. If you delay you will lose him. I sent Richard Nevins for him, intending to surprise you, but he refused to come with him. Go without delay and be there to-morrow. Answer this so that I will know what to do. MOLLIE D. SCOTT.

The delay caused by Mrs. Scott's intention to surprise her husband was unfortunately the cause of the divorced wife and the long-lost son again being spirited away. M. M. Ingalls, Dr. Scott's business partner, last evening received a telegram announcing that the Doctor would be compelled to go to Iowa after the fugitives, and that he would not return until he had found the boy.

SUICIDE OF A MIND-HEALER.

J. N. Scott, who called himself a metaphysical doctor, able to cure disease by merely operating on the mind, was discovered yesterday morning hanging by the neck from a partition which separates his office from his sleeping room, at Bergen-ave., and Montgomery-st., Jersey City. Dr. Scott came to Jersey City from Somerville, Mass., about two years ago. He was about fifty years old and had a wife and a daughter in Somerville. At first he did a fair business but recently he seemed to be in straitened circumstances and it is supposed that he became despondent. His body was discovered by Mr. Phillips, his landlord, who is also an undertaker, and he judged from its condition that Dr. Scott had hung himself four or five hours before. The body was removed to the morgue and dispatches were sent to his relatives in Somerville.

THE CLEVELAND-THURMAN AUCTION RAG.

From The Marine Journal.

The country is just now being illuminated by an Aurora Borealis of red bandannas. The nomination of Judge Thurman for Vice-President did it. This snuffiest "Roman of them all," who was thought to be too old for the Cabinet, the supreme bench, or a foreign mission, has been galvanized into youth enough to help Mr. Cleveland pull the Presidential chestnut out of the fire, which being done, he will be relegated to the "innocuous destuctude" of the Vice-Presidential figure-head. The Democratic platform is significantly silent on the important question of reviving American shipping. The red bandanna will, therefore, not be raised as an incentive to victory to the mast of the American ship. It will be found, however, lovingly entwined with the British and other foreign colors as an oriflamme to die for by the free-ship wing of the Democratic party. When the coming Administration takes snuff, the owners and masters of every foreign ship engaged in despoiling us of our foreign carrying trade will sneeze to a man. The red bandanna may be more powerful than the "bloody shirt" as a symbol of old-fashioned snuff taking, mint julep Democracy of "ye olden tyme," but it will arouse no enthusiasm among those friends of American shipping who see in it the insigna of free ships.

PIGEONS SAVED FROM A GALE AT SEA.

The captain of the bark D. H. Watjen, which arrived at this port yesterday from Amsterdam, reported that when the vessel was about 250 miles east of Sandy Hook, on Thursday, at 1 p. m., two carrier pigeons flew on board. There was a gale blowing from the east, with a heavy sea, and rain falling. The birds had cards tied round their necks, from which it was found that they had been released early the same morning from the White Star steamer Adriatic when 300 miles east of Sandy Hook. They were dispatched from the ship by John M. Grinnell, of Newark, N. J., a passenger on board.

FANCY TABLES.

Almost a quarter of an acre of them. Think of what you want! Now walk up and down our aisles. The exact table is here if it's in existence. Four chances in five you will find it.

But that's not all you'll find. That's not what will surprise you most. Glance at the prices.

How does $10 sound? Can't you afford a new centre-table at that price? Why, the wood alone costs almost that.

At the present rate we shall not be able to keep supplied long with all our new styles. To-day we have every pattern (Hall, Dining-Room, Fancy and Centre Tables), but they are selling very fast.
