NEW-YORK CITY.

The great fair of the Central Turn-Verein will be opened in its new building, in Sixty-seventh-st., on Monday evening.

The Grueliti Society will celebrate the 582d anniversary of the Swiss Confederation in the Turn Hall, in East Fourth-st., this evening. The interesting programme is of a theatrical and musical character.

An electric-light wire caused a slight fire yesterday morning in the top of the two-story building No. 540 East Twentieth-st.

Captain Nash, of the schooner Minnie, reported yesterday that he passed a vessel of about 800 tons, bottom up, on November 13, off Cape Charles. A few hours later he saw in the water the house of a steamer, a life-preserver and other articles that belonged to a steamer, all of which seemed to indicate that a collision had taken place and that two vessels had gone down.

The Board of Managers of the Produce Exchange decided yesterday to ask the members of the Exchange to vote on an amendment to the constitution proposed by the option grain-dealers, that the dealers may have the privilege of the floor until 4 p. m. on week-days except Saturday. It is said that if this is accepted it will not validate "option dealings."

The inquest in the case of Jeremiah Cronin, jr., who was shot on November 6 at Sixty-third-st. and Second-ave. by John O'Connor, a gas-fitter, nineteen years old, was held by Coroner Schultze yesterday. O'Connor was committed for trial.

Letters of administration on the personal estate of David S. Wambold, the minstrel, were issued to Mrs. Elizabeth Wambold, his wife, yesterday by Surrogate Ransom. The dead minstrel's personal property is valued at about $3,000.

James Barrett and Bernard Devlin, who were accused of violating the election laws, pleaded guilty yesterday before Recorder Smyth. Devlin, who attempted to vote without being qualified in the Fourteenth Election District of the XVIIIth Assembly District, was sentenced to one-year's imprisonment. Barrett voted illegally in the VIIIth Assembly District, and was sentenced to one year and nine months in the Penitentiary.

The Ward Line's new racer, the Santiago, holds what is credited to be the best record between this port and Nassau. She startled marine circles yesterday by arriving at Sandy Hook at 3:30 a. m., having made the passage in three days and seven hours. It should not be forgotten that the Santiago is an American steamer, and was built by John Roach.

The Washington Memorial Arch Fund amounts to $59,295 80.

The Tribune has received $2 from "X." and the same amount from "J. T." for Mrs. Susan Fulton, whose sad case of destitution was reported in this paper a few days ago. The money has been sent to the Protestant Episcopal City Mission, No. 38 Bleecker-st., which has charge of the case.

The dispatch-boat Dolphin will leave the Navy Yard to-day and go around to the North River, to be ready on Monday to carry Secretary Tracy and several other guests down to Sandy Hook, to see the departure of the Squadron of Evolution.

A letter recently published in The Tribune about the American Pottery Exhibition in Philadelphia cordially praised the decorated porcelains exhibited by Miss Minnie T. Dwight, of this city, but erroneously said that she did not receive a prize. The mistake arose from an inadvertent reference to last year's awards.

The strong wind which prevailed yesterday about Printing House Square, besides keeping pedestrians busy running after their hats, blew the plate-glass out of the door at the entrance to the business office of "The Times."

George M. Bailey, assistant superintendent of the Manhattan Elevated Railway Company, who has been seriously ill at his home in Yonkers, is slowly improving.

A maid to wait on female passengers in sleeping-cars is the latest addition, since the bathroom, to luxurious travel.

The State Commission examining the Annexed District found it to be rather long, rather broad, and about knee-deep.

A company that would insure householders against loss by burglars might do a good business in the suburbs of this city.

One of the quickest ways for a fat man to reduce his weight is to go shooting with a skilful female bargain-hunter.

Ex-Mayor Abram S. Hewitt has become the possessor of Plum Island, one of the small islands which lie between the Long Island and Connecticut coasts, east of Orient. The island was sold under foreclosure on Wednesday last, and was bought by Mr. Hewitt for $15,000. It has fifty or sixty inhabitants.

AFFAIRS IN BROOKLYN.

THE TROUBLES OF A FOURTEEN-YEAR-OLD GIRL.

August Frey, a salesman in a New-York house, who is twenty-five years old, has persistently annoyed Freida Scharf, age fourteen, for the last two years, with efforts to induce her to marry him. He boarded at the same house for awhile and threatened to shoot her if she would not be his wife. Her father disarmed him and kicked him out of doors, but he soon began annoying her again. Finally to escape him the girl secured employment at a distance from home and boarded. Frey found her again last Sunday and renewed his attentions. He was arrested at the instance of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children and was before Police Justice Petterson yesterday. The examination was deferred until Monday.

GATHERED ABOUT THE TOWN.

Edward Schoenfeld, age twenty-five, of No. 521 Graham-ave., who was recently married, committed suicide late on Thursday night by taking carbolic acid. He was an elevated railroad brakeman in New-York.

George W. Bungay, the poet, Abolitionist and temperance advocate, is dangerously ill from paralysis at his home, No. 144 Taylor-st., and fears are entertained that he will not survive. Mr. Bungay is seventy-one years old.

There is no alarm felt in the Health Department in regard to diphtheria, as the increase of deaths for the year has been only fourteen, and there is no marked prevalence of the disease at present.

David E. Meeker, a brother and law-partner of S. M. Meeker, president of the Williamsburg Savings Bank, died on Thursday at No. 255 Jefferson-ave. He was sixty-one years old, and was well known as a real estate lawyer. His death was sudden, and was due to a congestive chill. He left a family. The funeral will occur to-morrow.

The fair of the New-Brooklyn Turn-Verein, which began in their hall in Sumpter-st. last Monday, has been successful. It is given to get money to pay for the new hall.

The Boards of Aldermen and Supervisors formally confirmed the tax-rolls yesterday. Taxes are due on Monday, December 2.

The suit of James Cody to recover $100,000 as damages for the death of his daughter Kittie, of Oyster Bay, from her betrayer, Frank P. Dudgeon, has been settled by the payment of $3,000 and a lawyer's fee of $1,500.

Peter Lake, better known as "Grand Central Pete," the bunco-steerer, was held for the Grand Jury yesterday by Police Justice Petterson for swindling David L. Allen, of No. 65 Jefferson-ave., a few weeks ago.

Postmaster Hendrix has been authorized to establish forty more additional stamp agencies in drug-stores and business offices. The new Sub-Postoffice Station N, at Broadway and Halsey-st., has been opened.

The Finlay Stores, at King-st. and Hamilton-ave., were sold at auction yesterday for $161,000 to the Equitable Life Assurance Company, which holds a judgment against the property. The sixteen store-houses known as the Finlay Stores belonged formerly to the Commercial Warehouse Company, which made a mortgage to Charles Coudert for $400,000 a year ago. The Equitable Company has on file a judgment of $191,863 90 against the property, and bought it in to secure itself.

A policeman named Stewart was fined three days' pay by Police Commissioner Bell yesterday for illegally arresting W. Zimmerman, a shoemaker, in Gates-ave., near Broadway, on November 4. Zimmerman testified that he saw Stewart knock down his sign and break it, and he asked him to pay for it. Stewart threatened him with arrest, and when he said "Arrest me if you want to, I will go with you," he was taken to the police station on a charge of obstructing the sidewalk. Stewart said that two boys broke the sign, but failed to prove the allegation.

NEWS FROM THE SUBURBS.

A NEGRO BOY AND HIS FATAL MUZZLE.

A strange story comes from the neighborhood of Stirling, N. J., just beyond the mountains back of North Plainfield. John Johnson, a farmer, had in his employ, so the village milkmen say, a colored lad who was inordinately fond of milk fresh from its fount. For a time Mr. Johnson was at a loss how to account for the sudden and continuous dwindling of the supply from his choicest Alderneys and Jerseys, but at length he found that it was being transferred to add to the rotundity and sleekness of his chore-boy. Going to his blacksmith, he then had made a peculiar contrivance of steel bands and rods, which he compelled the boy to wear as a muzzle while out of doors. This, when locked over the lad's face, proved an effectual barrier to his mouth, and Mr. Johnson was satisfied. Some of the neighbors, hearing of the matter, warned Mr. Johnson that he could be prosecuted for cruelty, and suit by an old family enemy was actually to be begun, when the boy, in a singular manner, met his death.

His palate yearned for milk—fresh, warm milk—and from hovering lovingly near the cows, he essayed to bend the wires of his muzzle and return to his former habit. He was fondling a Holstein-Friesian one day and aroused the anger of the bovine, which knocked him over and kicked him viciously in the face. The muzzle was bent and flattened, and besides inflicting lacerations on his cheeks, the cow's hoofs drove one of the steel rods through the lad's eye and into his brain. He was found lying on the ground, unconscious, and died without recovering his senses. There was considerable indignant talk, but after examination the boy was buried without an inquest. He was an orphan, and had no relatives in the neighborhood.

A PLUCKY WOMAN AND A BURGLAR.

Mrs. Joseph Johnson, of No. 426 1-2 Grove-st., Jersey City, ran into the Second Precinct Police Station in a state of great excitement yesterday morning and told a thrilling story of her experience with a burglar. She said that two weeks ago she leased a furnished room to a man named Wilson and his wife. Mrs. Wilson left the house Wednesday and did not return. Thursday night Wilson removed all his possessions from the room and Mrs. Johnson did not expect to see any more of the couple. About 7:30 a. m. yesterday, while Mrs. Johnson was in bed, Wilson entered her room with a revolver in one hand and a sandbag in the other and demanded her money or her life. She declined to surrender either, but running to the head of the stairs, screamed lustily. Wilson dropped his sandbag and ran out of the house. The neighbors crowded into Mrs. Johnson's room and thought on hearing her story that she had had nightmare, but the sandbag disproved that theory. Captain Smith detailed Detective Clark to hunt up Wilson.

JERSEY CITY.

The State Board of Assessors on Thursday made an official inspection of the Belvidere-Delaware division of the Pennsylvania Railroad and reached Jersey City late in the evening. Yesterday morning Governor Green joined them, and they started to make an inspection of the Erie road as far as Sufferns. These inspections are made only when a company appeals from the valuations placed upon particular pieces of property.

James Roche, the defeated Fusion candidate for Director-at-Large of the Board of Freeholders, has announced his intention of applying to the courts for a recount of the ballots. He believes that he was counted out, although his opponent, Mr. Bruggeman, is credited with over 500 majority.

NEWARK.

The house of Louis T. Cooke, No. 10 Taylor-st., was entered by burglars early yesterday morning. Mrs. Bartlett, the mother of Mrs. Cooke, who was sleeping in an upper room, was awakened by feeling a hand moving under her pillow. She screamed as she saw a man standing beside her bed, and the house was roused. The burglars made their escape through a rear window, leaving behind them a lot of silverware and clothing which they had packed up. The only article missing was a silk-plush cloak, richly trimmed, and worth $550.

The Republican Club members have subscribed $3,000 toward the building fund of the new club-house, which will be opened on December 12.

The City and County Teachers' Institute met in Association Hall yesterday, with about 500 teachers in attendance. The session will be continued this morning.

A dozen articles of silverware, such as pitchers, cups, pots, etc., were dug up yesterday in a lot at Waverly. J. O. Polzsen, a farmer, who discovered the silver, turned it over to the police. The find is estimated to be worth $500.

VARIOUS NEW-JERSEY TOWNS.

PATERSON.—Mayor Barnert yesterday served upon Henry Ridgway, city treasurer, a notice of suspension from office, for negligence. The Mayor's action was taken because of Ridgway's alleged neglect of duty in the matter of the embezzlement of Edwin Royle, who while Secretary of the Board of Education robbed the city of thousands of dollars by forging claims. City Counsel Simonton was instructed to take steps to sue Ridgway's bondsmen for the amount of Royle's peculations, which as far as disclosed foot up to over $9,500 and are growing daily under the investigation of a special committee of the Board of Education. . . . Some time ago a suit was brought against Thomas Lynlack, a prominent citizen, by his sister, who charged him with many acts of outrageous cruelty and malice. Yesterday Miss Lynlack swore before Judge Skinner, that her previous affidavits were false and that she had made them because a relative had told her that her brother was going to send her to an insane asylum.

HOBOKEN.—John McGrane, age forty-six, a wealthy contractor, committed suicide on Thursday night in his carpenter-shop in Clinton-st. His body was found lying on the floor with a Colt's navy revolver clasped in one hand. He had placed the muzzle of the weapon in his mouth and the bullet had gone out through the top of his head. A few weeks ago his wife, to whom he was devotedly attached, was attacked with neuralgia in her eyes, and McGrane, fearing that she would lose her sight, became despondent. The body was taken to his home, No. 336 Washington-st. . . . The police were informed yesterday that Frank Nodine, age five, had been missing from his home, at Grand and Fourteenth sts., since last Tuesday. Detective Gallagher went to the house to get some information about the case, and discovered the boy's dead body in a pond not fifty feet away.

NEW-BRUNSWICK—John C. Raymond was under a severe fire while under cross-examination in the Iselin arson case all day yesterday, and was still on the stand at the hour of adjournment. Affidavits were produced which he confessed to having signed, and which were directly contradictory to his statements on the stand. He said that he had never read the affidavits, but that they had been read to him and he had signed without looking at them. They were different from the words as read. Raymond admitted that six houses which he had owned or in which he had been interested had been burned.

WESTCHESTER COUNTY.

MT. VERNON.—The Vernon Council, No. 29, of the Order of United American Mechanics, was organized on Thursday evening, when thirty members were initiated. . . . Assistant Inspector-General John C. Shotts, of Yonkers, accompanied by his staff, composed of Colonel M. H. Ellis, Dr. G. B. Falch, of Yonkers, Commander C. T. Carpenter, of Tarrytown, Past Commander W. H. Hyler, of Portchester, Commander E. B. Long, of White Plains, together with a delegation of comrades from the several Posts in Westchester County, visited Farnsworth Post, No. 170, G. A. R., Mount Vernon, last night to make the annual inspection. Commander William Wilson, jr., received the visitors in soldierly style, and after going through the muster services in a highly creditable manner, conducted the Post to the Mount Vernon Hotel where an excellent supper was in waiting.

LONG ISLAND.

WHITESTONE.—The Board of Trustees have appointed a committee to investigate the financial condition of the village. Charge have been made that the public funds have not been honestly expended.

A RARE SHOW OF FINE FURNITURE.

The windows of Baumann Brothers, Nos. 22-26 East Fourteenth-st., usually attract a crowd of sightseers from that busy thoroughfare. Yesterday the principal window was arranged to represent an elegant modern drawing-room, furnished in Louis XVI style with a set of gold furniture, half of which was upholstered in pale blue brocatelle, and the remainder in salmon brocade and plush. The massive pier-glass was framed in a soft tufted roll of salmon plush, and rich tables of onyx and brass and cabinets added to the effect. The house displays all varieties of handsome upholstered parlor furniture in their spacious warerooms. The demand of the season is for French styles. Little wood is shown in parlor sets, but when shown is either mahogany or gilded wood. Rich flowered Louis XIV brocades and brocatelles in delicate colors are preferred for parlor upholstery to plush, which is now used chiefly in combination with other materials. Charming sets of white mahogany, daintily carved, are shown for reception-rooms, and are upholstered in brocades in dull artistic tapestry colors. Library furniture is displayed chiefly in oak and mahogany.

The assortment of parlor tables, of brass cabinets with plate-glass and onyx shelves, of tiny brass tables with onyx tops, and of cabinets and overmantels is bewildering in its extent. A floor extending over the three buildings occupied by the house is devoted to chamber furniture. Oak bedroom sets are shown in richly carved ombre, or shaded finish called sixteenth century. Other sets are stained in the red-dish finish of the Cremona violins, whence they take their name, while other oak-tinged, in shades of green, are known as malachite oak. Plain old Flemish styles prevail in carving of bedroom sets and chiffonier and cheval glasses are made to match all handsome sets, and large wardrobes which are now furnished with an ample chest of cedar on top to store furs during the summer. Enamelled sets, in rose, pale blue and white with gold, are shown in graceful First-Empire designs, and range in price from $55 upward.

SAYS THE COMPANY IS TO BLAME.

Deputy Naval Officer John M. Comstock is inclined to blame the Manhattan Elevated Railroad Company for the death of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Henry Lee Norris, from a fall down the stairs of the elevated railroad station at Ninth-ave. and Fifty-ninth-st., on Thursday. The station has only two stairways, although the crowd there is often so great that another ought to be provided. Mrs. Norris arrived at the station late in the afternoon, and while going down stairs was pushed violently by the crowd and fell on the flagstone, fracturing her skull. She died two hours afterward.

Mrs. Norris was a wealthy and estimable woman and lived in Princeton, N. J. She was well known in society and was also identified with prominent charitable institutions here. Mr. Comstock characterizes the unwillingness of the Manhattan Elevated Railroad Company to provide a third stairway at the station as a "brutal disregard of the rights and comforts of its patrons."

TO OPEN A SOCIETY'S NEW HOME.

The annual meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers will be held in this city next week, extending from Monday to Friday, inclusive, chiefly at the hall of the New-York Academy of Medicine, No. 12 West Thirty-first-st. At 8:30 on Monday evening the society's new rooms at No. 64 Madison-ave. will be opened with a reception. The president, Henry R. Towne, of Stamford, will give an address on Tuesday morning, in which he will make extended reference to the engineering bearings of the World's Fair of 1892.

TIFFANY & CO.,

UNION SQUARE - NEW-YORK.

The award of

THE GRAND PRIZE

And the Decoration of the Legion of Honor, to the head of the house for the excellence of the silver ware shown by Tiffany & Co., at the Exposition Universelle, at Paris, in 1878, was a revelation to many as to the advance made in silver ware manufacture in America.

That Tiffany & Co. have not ceased their effort to excel is fully shown by the fact that their silver ware has again won THE GRAND PRIZE at the Exposition of 1889 and the Managing Director of their silver manufactures has been awarded the Decoration of The Legion of Honor.

These two recognitions undoubtedly place their wares beyond all question as the most advanced in design and manufacture.

All who appreciate refinement and appropriateness of form and decoration and thoroughness in make and finish, will be sure to find Tiffany & Co.'s silver ware satisfactory.

The same care is given in designing and finishing the smallest, as to the most important pieces. It is made expressly for their own trade, is never sold to dealers and therefore possesses a certain exclusiveness of style not possible in goods made for the general trade.

AS THESE GOODS ARE OF THE BEST QUALITY AND LATEST STYLE, THEY ARE THE MOST POSITIVE BARGAINS EVER OFFERED.

What sort of clothes are you looking for?

A low price does not always secure an advantage to the buyer; as a rule extremely low price means very poor merchandise; that's not our sort.

We are making clothing, for men and boys, on a large scale, yet giving to every single garment the same exacting care we would if we knew in advance the individual who'd use it and the use he intended it for. Suitability of fabric, correctness of cut and trim, thoroughness of tailoring, are of more importance than a dollar or two in the price.

But we couldn't afford to ask unreasonable prices, because every garment we sell is like a bank check; your money is payable at sight upon its return.

In suits we have about every kind of fabric in use, and there is not an ugly pattern among them; $15 to $30 is the range of prices. Four qualities of the popular double-breasted Sack Suits, in plain and ribbed Black Cheviots; $18, $20, $25 and $30.

Smooth-faced Overcoatings; Meltons, Kerseys, Beavers, $12 to $40. The latter are "Carr's" treble milled Meltons; seldom found ready made. Rough Overcoatings of various weaves; $15 to $50. The grades at $20, $22 and $25 offer the greatest value and seem about all that can be desired. Cape Coats $16 to $30. Ulsters $15 to $35.

Stores open this evening.

Residents of Brooklyn and Jersey City, who would naturally prefer to visit our Warren-st. store, will find that also open until 9 o'clock.

Rogers, Peet & Co.

THREE BROADWAY STORES. { Prince, Warren, 32d-st.

It is a welcomed announcement!

And every shrewd person will avail themselves of the opportunity afforded.

During to-day up to 9 o'clock this evening we will continue the offer of those fine goods. $40,000 worth of which we purchased of Messrs. Wilmerding, Morris & Mitchell, auctioneers, 64 and 66 White st, from the peremptory sale of the fall and winter stock of clothing of Messrs. Naumburg, Kraus, Lauer & Co., 657 Broadway.

It was a peremptory auction sale of their fine goods. We bought them at net cash and at about one-quarter of their real worth. We did not need the goods, but the chance was too tempting.

We make this line an auxiliary stock for our regular line of goods and will give all our patrons a chance to benefit themselves through our fortunate investment.

During to-day we put the finest of these suits and and overcoats which were made to sell at $45, $50 and $55 on specially arranged counters. They will be sold at the absurd price of $15, $20 and $25.

The suits compare favorably with Fifth avenue garments, being swell, well-fitting and worthy.

The overcoats are as fine as have ever been shown, being trimmed with silk, satin and serge.

Be sensible and avail yourself of this chance of a lifetime.

OPEN THIS EVENING UNTIL 10 O'CLOCK.

BALAAM'S ASS.

The Stupidity of the Ass Exemplified.

The stupidity of the jackass is proverbial. It requires a cold-chisel and a pile-driver to get an idea into its head. It is just so with some people. They had rather stay sick and even die than admit that they are wrong.

Any sensible man knows:—

That Rogers' Royal Nervine is the great Elixir of Life.

That Rogers' Royal Nervine cures all nerve and brain diseases.

That Neralgia, Sciatica and Sick Headache yield to it like magic.

That it is the long-kept and closely-guarded secret of the wonderful Brahmins of India.

That it doesn't contain a grain of anything hurtful or narcotic.

That its formula is freely published.

That the man or woman who needs it and won't use it is cousin to Balaam's Ass.

Costs $1.00. Worth $1,000. Time tries.
