MALTBY G. LANE'S KINDNESS.

LUXURIES SENT TO HIS DAUGHTER.

SHE WAS ILL, AND HE PROVIDED FOR HER CHEESE, LEMONS AND MILK—A LETTER BEMOANING HIS POVERTY.

The contest over the will of Maltby G. Lane, the wealthy real-estate dealer, was continued before Judge Daly and a jury in the Court of Common Pleas, yesterday. The principal witness of the day was Marietta L. Lane, the daughter-in-law of Maltby G. Lane, and one of the contestants. Her husband died several years ago and shortly after his death she gave birth to a child. During her illness her father-in-law sent her two pounds of head cheese, one pineapple cheese, one-half dozen lemons and a bottle of milk. With these was a note advising her to use these luxuries carefully. She then told how penurious her father-in-law was. Every time she rode with him in the horse-cars she had to pay her own fare. Mr. Lane had induced her to sign a general release of all obligation on his part toward her and when she appealed to him for assistance he always pulled the release from his pocket and said: "There, look at that; that relieves me from paying anything more to you."

She had not gone to the wedding when Mr. Lane was married, she said, because she was not invited to attend, but she did attend the funeral of Mr. Lane; but Mrs. Lane put her out of doors. The following letter from Mr. Lane to the witness was then read to the jury. When it was written Mr. Lane was worth about $1,000,000.

New-York, March 31, 1887.

May: . . . I am completely Disheartened and Discouraged. I am doing Nothing in my business Don't Earn a Shilling a Day . . . I am at a Loss to know how to get along I have a Large Interest to pay and Nothing to pay it with only as I Borrow, while I Feel so simpathise for Flossy as she is to young to get her Living yet for years to Come and the Boy has got to be cared for by Some one and as things are it Looks Dark and Gloomy to me. poor Henrys Deptors are howping me all the while for his Drs. Bills and other Bills but I Can't pay them and you want money all the while a good deal more than I can earn I have thought you could get some place in the country somewhere where you could Live for 5 or 6 dollars a Week . . . You certainly Cannot Afford to Live a Lady nor to Bring up the Children in High Life at Somebodys expense . . . As to your having more money I have no money but of course I do not want the Children to sufer for want of something to Eat I can only hope their May something be provided to help us Along untill our End Comes I hope you will not Blame me for not wanting to take any more Responsibilets on me at my Age as I feel what Little I have Left if any I want to use it. M. G. L.

William P. Maynard, a photographer, told a story of having visited Mr. Lane soon after his son's death. He spoke to him about his bereavement and Mr. Lane replied "Yes, and there is $800 in funeral expenses to be paid besides a taller's bill amounting to $75."

The case will be continued to-day.

SHE WAS KEELER'S BEST CLIENT.

MRS. HASSETT TESTIFIES IN HER OWN BEHALF AND DENIES MANY CHARGES.

The suit of Mrs. William A. Keeler against Mrs. Sarah J. Hassett for $50,000 for alienating her husband's affections was continued before Judge Truax, in the Superior Court, yesterday. Joseph Zottarelli, an Italian, who was employed in Mr. Keeler's law office, testified to having seen Mr. Keeler and Mrs. Hassett in the same apartment in a Brooklyn hotel.

The defendant was then put on the witness-stand and she denied the allegations of the plaintiff and her witnesses in general, and each allegation derogatory to her in particular. She said that she met Keeler at the Grand Union Hotel in June, 1888, as she had legal business to transact with him. She signed a lease which Keeler had prepared. Mrs. Keeler had charged her with being drunk, and Mrs. Hassett said that she had heard that Mrs. Keeler had charged her with having alienated her husband's affections. She denied being drunk, but said that she went to Mrs. Keeler's home in the Manhattan apartment-house and asked her what she meant by making such statements about her. Concerning the allegation that Mr. Keeler had spent his money on her, Mrs. Hassett declared that Mrs. Keeler had begged her to retain her husband, as he had lost nearly all his other clients and she was his best customer. She also declared that she had often given money to Mrs. Keeler while she was ill.

The case will be continued this morning.

THE FIGHT FOR SUBWAY CONSTRUCTION

ENJOINING THE BOARD OF ELECTRICAL CONTROL FROM CONTRACTING WITH THE STANDARD COMPANY.

The Board of Electrical Control met at the Mayor's office yesterday for the purpose of settling the terms of the contract which it resolved on Monday to make with the Standard Subway Company for putting down conduits for electric light and power conductors. Proceedings had not gone far when Elihu Root, counsel for the Manhattan Electric-Light Company, made the announcement that he had obtained from Judge Patterson, of the Supreme Court, an injunction on the part of the Manhattan Company restraining the Board from awarding the proposed contract, and fixing February 26 as the day for hearing the case in court. Mr. Root followed his remarks by making a personal service of the papers.

This injunction is understood to be the first gun of a campaign which the electric-light antagonists of the Westinghouse combination intend to carry on to prevent it from getting control of the subways. The opposition to the Westinghouse interest is known as the Thomson-Houston combination, and includes the Manhattan, East River and North New-York electric-light companies. Arrayed on the Westinghouse side are the Brush and United States companies, which it controls. The new subway company, the Standard, which the Board of Electrical Control intends shall have the construction of the electric light and power subways, is a creation of the Westinghouse syndicate.

The Mayor told the clerk to read the contract prepared by Corporation Counsel Clark. Its effect is to transfer to the Standard Electrical Subway Company the work before spoken of. W. B. Putney, ex-Senator Grady and other counsel on the Thomson-Houston side took exceptions to the terms of the contract, asserting that it practically placed their affairs under the control of a rival. After Mr. Grady and Wheeler H. Peckham had argued, the one against and the other in favor of the contract, the Mayor said: "I do not propose that the terms of this contract shall be made exclusive, or that this Board shall cut itself off from the power to make agreements with other companies or corporations to build subways. But this injunction places us in a position which is little short of disheartening. We must get something done pretty soon." More discussion followed, but the Board formally and by a unanimous vote approved the contract with the Standard Company, suspending its operation until the injunction be dissolved.

For the purpose of bringing the injunction case to an early decision, and at the urgent request of Mayor Grant, the counsel on both sides agreed to ask Judge Patterson to hear it on Friday, instead of waiting until February 26. Public Works Commissioner Gilroy, when informed of the service of the injunction, said that its effect would be disastrous to his street-paving plans. "I cannot perfect my specifications for new pavements," he said, "until I know in what streets subways are to be constructed."

TO BENEFIT HORSE TRAINERS AND JOCKEYS.

A meeting of owners and trainers was held at the club-house of the New-York Jockey Club, Westchester, on February 16. Among those present were J. E. Brewster, D. L. Pulsifer, Walter Rollins, J. J. Dyer, Henry Stull, J. J. Hyland, Jacob Pincus, James Lee, E. V. Snedeker, J. R. Gray, F. T. Clarke, L. L. Lloyd, W. P. Ward, Charles O'Leary, J. W. Smith, James Rowe, Thomas Orgill, "Snip" Donovan, the jockeys Winchell, Freeman and many others. A committee was appointed consisting of Messrs Pincus, Hyland, Lee and Dyer, who were requested to call a meeting of all trainers and jockeys to be held at the St. James Hotel, New-York, on March 3, at 7:30 p. m.; the purpose being to complete a permanent organization of the Trainers and Jockeys' Mutual Benefit Association and elect officers. The need of such an organization similar to that of any other occupation has often been felt. It is proposed to help members who are ill or otherwise incapacitated, and it is hoped that there will be a general response to the call. All horsemen who are in sympathy with the movement are requested to be present, and if unable to attend, the committee desires to have their views in writing to be addressed to reach the committee not later than the evening of the meeting proposed.

THE POLICE FOLLOWED THE TRAIL OF BLOOD.

A game of cards led to a bloody quarrel between Italians at No. 27 Roosevelt-st. early yesterday. Nicolo Perrino and Dominico Daoli, street sweepers, fought for a few minutes while their friends looked on. Daoli used a razor, and Perrino, who was unarmed, was slashed about the face and neck in a dozen places. When Perrino fell exhausted from loss of blood, Daoli ran to his own room at No. 14 Roosevelt-st. The wounded Italian was sent to the Chambers Street Hospital, where it was thought that he would recover. Daoli had cut one of his fingers with his razor, and he left a bloody trail by which the police traced him to his room. He escaped to the roof and went down through the house No. 10. Learning that he had relatives at No. 37 Crosby-st., officers followed him there and arrested him.

THE PETROLEUM MARKET.

NEWS FROM THE FIELD AND RANGE OF PRICES.

The crude certificate markets yesterday were heavy under renewed pressure of sales from the West. The excuse for the selling movement was the prospect of a rising production, and it was reported that news was imminent of some wells whose output, according to all indications, should be large. Evidently an effort is to be made to revive attention to the field outlook, which has been long neglected, owing to the heavy reduction of stocks above ground. And if the increase in production is to be permitted to control the views of the small speculative element left in the oil exchanges it is not improbable that an effect may be produced not warranted by a general survey of the commercial situation. But no marking down of prices will induce the Standard Oil Company to relinquish the stock it needs to carry for refining purposes, and investment holders of certificates will not be easily disturbed. The transactions yesterday at the two New-York exchanges were nearly equal in amount, with a relatively stronger tone for cash oil at the Stock Exchange than for options at the Consolidated. The options were carried to $1 04 1-4 on heavy selling in the last half hour, yet both markets closed steady.

The range of prices and the total dealings were as follows:

	Stock Exchange.	Consolidated.
Opening	$1 05 1-2	$1 05 5-8
Highest	1 05 5-8	1 05 5-8
Lowest	1 04 3-4	1 04 1-4
Final	1 04 3-4	1 05 1-8
Sales, barrels	142,000	154,000

Refined oil was unchanged at 7.50 cents per gallon in barrels, and 9.70 cents in cases.
