A VICTORY FOR EACH TEAM

NEW-YORK AND BOSTON PLAY TWO GAMES.

THE UMPIRE LOST THE FIRST GAME FOR THE HOME MEN AND WAS MOBBED AFTER THE CONTEST—OTHER GAMES.

GAMES YESTERDAY.

Boston 4, New-York 3 (first game).	Philadelphia 10, Baltimore 9 (first game).
New-York 11, Boston 6 (second game).	Philadelphia 9, Baltimore 0 (second game).
Brooklyn 5, Washington 2 (first game).	Pittsburg 3, Chicago 4.
Brooklyn 9, Washington 3 (second game).	Cleveland 9, Louisville 0.
	Cincinnati 3, St. Louis 3.

Rain earlier in the week made it possible for a double bill at the Polo Grounds yesterday, and in consequence two games were played between the New-York and Boston teams. Each team won a game and under ordinary circumstances everybody would have been satisfied. Such, however, was not the case yesterday, for the simple reason that the New-York team ought to have won both games, and would have done so but for the ex-player and umpire, Thomas Burns. Burns gave up the baseball spikes and gloves a few weeks ago for the umpire's indicator and other tribulations. He has made the mistake of his life. His erratic decisions cost the local team the first game and the spectators were angered.

In the "wild and woolly West" the spectators, when dissatisfied with an umpire, cannonade him with beer glasses, bricks and adjectives. In the East adjectives have generally sufficed, except in one game at the old One-hundred-and-tenth-st. grounds, when one McLean was chased from the field several years ago, and only for the interference of the police McLean would have been ducked in the Harlem Mere.

Yesterday Burns began his bunging early in the first game. He could not gauge Rusie's speedy curves and insisted upon calling a ball a strike and a strike a ball. The players protested and the spectators howled, but Burns kept on his way unmindful of the shouts of the multitude. With the score a tie in the twelfth inning Long was apparently put out at the plate, but Burns thought not and declared Long safe, giving the game to Boston. The spectators spent the rest of the afternoon jeering and hooting at the umpire, stopping occasionally to applaud clever plays, which were numerous. After every decision a shower of cat-calls and hisses would greet Burns every time he opened his mouth. When in the fourth inning of the game Burns fined Captain Doyle $25 and ordered him out of the game the onlookers were worked up to the highest pitch of frenzy. After the game probably 1,000 people followed Burns to the clubhouse, hissing and shouting at him. A few of the more unruly gathered up hadfuls of dirt and pebbles and threw them at the official. From the angry murmuring of the crowd one would have thought that a lynching bee was in preparation. Two policemen, however, appeared at this interesting period and Burns was escorted in safety from the field of battle. Burns afterwards remitted Doyle's fine.

The first game was a superb contest to look at, replete with brilliant plays, and better baseball has not been seen at the Polo Grounds in many a day. The errors of Doyle, Knowles and Tiernan were costly. Stivetts relieved Staley in the ninth inning, and probably saved the day for Boston. Fuller made a remarkable stop and backhand throw in the fourth inning. Clever plays were also made by Doyle and Nash,

The New-Yorkers, as usual of late, took the lead at the start, scoring two runs in the opening inning. Burke opened the game with a pretty drive to left field, and he followed this up by making a clever steal of second. Lyons was then sent to first on called ball. Doyle sacrificed each runner a base and Tiernan brought both home with a lively drive to right field.

The New-Yorkers increased their lead with one more run in the second inning. McMahon lead off with a lively hit for three bases to right field, and Knowles was sent to first on called balls; Rusie sent a fly to centre field and McMahon scored.

Rusie had the Boston batsmen at his mercy for six innings. The two runs scored by the visitors in the seventh inning were due to a blunder by Knowles, New-York's only error. Tucker was struck with a pitched ball and Quinn sacrificed him to second. Staley struck out and then Knowles made the error of the game. Long sent an easy grounder to third, but Knowles's wild throw allowed Tucker to score and Long to reach second. McCarthy's two-base hit to centre field allowed Long to score.

In the ninth inning the Boston players tied the score, and the spectators began to get excited in earnest. Tucker led off with a scratch hit and went to second on a passed ball. Quinn then sacrificed him to third. Stivetts was substituted for Staley. Stivetts hit to second, but Doyle threw low to the plate and Tucker scored on the error.

No more runs were made until the twelfth inning when Boston made what proved to be the winning run on an erratic decision by Burns. Long hit safely to centre field, and reached second on a sacrifice by McCarthy. Duffy then sacrificed Long to third. Bennett was sent to first on called balls, after apparently striking out. Bennett started for second and Long for the plate. Knowles apparently retired Long to Rusie, but Burns called Long safe and the game was over. The score:

The second game was started at 3:45 p. m., and it also proved to be a remarkable contest, the New-Yorkers winning by a lively rally at the bat in the eighth inning. King relieved Rusie, and Kelly went behind the bat for Boston. Boston's once $10,000 beauty is a sad relic of his former self. His old wit has gone, and in its place is the slang of the Bowery.

The game was a lively one from the start, and Burns continued his erratic decisions. The Bostons took the lead in the second inning, and from then to the eighth inning it was anybody's game. After Doyle had been ordered out of the game, Ewing took his place. Ewing explained his absence by saying that he feared to catch in such muggy weather, believing an injury would be done that famous glass arm.

With the score at 6 to 4 against them, the New-Yorkers went in in the eighth to win. They did it handsomely, scoring ten men to bat, scoring seven runs, five of them being earned. Ewing started with a hit and Tiernan duplicated the feat. Boyle got to first on balls, filling the bases. McMahon drew frantic applause by hitting safely to left field for three bases, sending home Ewing, Tiernan and Boyle. King and Burke followed with two basehits, and Lyons with a single. This, coupled with a sacrifice and an error by Long, settled the game. The score:

TWO VICTORIES FOR BROOKLYN.

DEFEATING THE WASHINGTON NINE BY SUPERIOR ALL-ROUND WORK.

Washington, Sept. 24.—Brooklyn took both games to-day by superior all-round work. In the first, battery errors by Killen and McGuire were mainly responsible for defeat. In the second, O'Hagan, an amateur, caught for Washington. Abbey was poorly supported. Attendance, 1,774. The score:

The Williamsburg A. A. team defeated the Long Island nine at Williamsburg by 4 to 1.

The game between the New-York and Boston Railroad men nines at Prospect Park, Brooklyn, resulted in a tie, each team scoring six runs.

Manager P. T. Powers is still out of the city in quest of players. He will probably secure Keeler, of the Binghamton team.

The Mountclair A. C. team defeated the Cuban Giants, at Mountclair, by the score of 6 to 5.

The intense rivalry between the Orange Athlete and the Orange Baseball Club teams came to the front in a sharp game, the first of a series between these representative clubs of the "kid gloves" and the "tonghs." There was a tremendous crowd of the partisans of both clubs present, and cheers and yells of delight at favorite plays, marked the game. The next game is on Saturday at the Lincoln-ave. grounds. The score:

GAMES IN OTHER CITIES.

St. Louis, Sept. 24.—The Browns and Cincinnatis fought a draw battle to-day, which aroused much excitement. Umpire McQuaid had a hard time of it, and Latham got a lecture and a $25 fine for a too persistent indulgence in loquacity. The features of the game were Glasscock's all-round work and Hoffman's general playing. The weather was cloudy. Attendance, 2,100. The score:

Cincinnati	0	0	1	0	0	1	0	1	0	0—3
St. Louis	1	0	0	0	1	0	0	1	0	0—3

Philadelphia, Sept. 24.—The Philadelphias won two games from Baltimore to-day. The first was hotly contested, and was won by a game rally at the bat in the ninth and tenth innings. A SAILING REGATTA AT NEW-HAMBURG.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Sept. 24 (Special).—There was another sailing regatta at New-Hamburg this afternoon, growing out of the one sailed there two weeks ago when Mr. Tower's cutter yacht Needle won the first-class prize against Mr. Grinnell's yacht Fidget through the Fidget having carried away her halyard. Mr. Tower was not satisfied with the result, caring more to win fairly or lose, and therefore he got up to-day's regatta, it being over a sixteen-mile course. The first-class yachts coming to the line this afternoon were Mr. Edgar's Marjorie, of Newburg; Mr. Tower's Needle, of Poughkeepsie; Mr. Grinnell's Fidget, of New-Hamburg, and Mr. Rose's Maud B., of Rosetan. The yachts of the second class were John Van Wyck's Orient, of New-Hamburg; Henry Jova's Tiztlia, of Roseton, and Temple Bodwin's Tallofeg, of New-Hamburg. The starting judge was Henry Van Wyck. The tide was flood and there was a light south wind. The starting horn was blown at 1:25 p. m. The Needle crossed the line first, Tallofee second, then Maud B. and Orient. The Maud B. won, the finish being as follows: Maud B., 5:54:15; Needle, 6:06:10; Orient, 6:20:10; Tallofee, 6:24:35; Tixtilla, 6:25.15. This gave the first-class prize to Maud B. and the second-class prize to the Orient. The Fidget was badly beaten.
