DECORATING THE CITY.

FINAL PLANS FOR THE COLUMBUS FESTIVITIES.

ORDER OF THE GREAT MILITARY PARADE OF WEDNESDAY DECIDED ON—BODIES IN THE LINE OF MARCH.

If all the rainbows which have ever arched the heavens since the day that ended Noah's rainy season were run through a sausage machine, and the fragments used to bombard New-York, the result would not be more effective than is the handiwork of the decorator who goeth before the modern civic celebration. As the opening of Columbus week approaches, the display of bunting upon street and avenue becomes more kaleidoscopic and bewildering. The tall office buildings in the lower part of the city are swathed in color. Some of the large drygoods houses in Broadway have already blossomed out in a mass of many colored bunting. The Metropolitan Hotel people have produced a particularly pleasing effect by placing a bunch of small flags at each one of their many windows. Rogers, Peet & Company have mounted a large picture representing America before and after taking 400 years of European civilization. Tefft, Weller & Co., at No. 328 Broadway, and Sweetzer, Pembrook & Co., at No. 376, have gone into decorations lavishly.

A modest but rich and effective method of decoration adopted by some of the stores is to use large American flags for curtains at the show windows, looping them gracefully to one side and the other. The City Hall is a blaze of color, and has as many curious flags, seals and shields displayed as though a foreign postage stamp album had been emptied over it. The Western Union Building is adorned with a multitude of long streamers, hanging down in festoons from its high cornices. The folds of the American flag are festooned over the entrances to Trinity and St. Paul's churches. The facade of the Sub-Treasury building is covered with flags and the portico is surmounted by an oileloth painting of the landing of Columbus. The Drexel Building is covered with a mass of banners and rosettes of bunting that give color to both Wall-st. and Broad-st., and everywhere is seen the handiwork of the campaign outfit man, who has forgotten Harrison and Cleveland in his temporary enthusiasm for Columbus as a fusion candidate.

The biggest feature of the great celebration will be the military parade on Wednesday morning. Thousands and thousands of men will be in line, beginning formation at the Battery and marching thence up Broadway to Fourth-st., to Washington Square, to Fifth-ave., to Fourteenth-st., to Fourth-ave., to Seventeenth-st., to Fifth-ave., to Fifty-ninth-st. United States Army officers, United States Navy officers, Grand Army veterans, Army troops, marines, Naval Reserves, National Guardsmen, civic officials, firemen, police, Italian military bodies, German-American societies and many other organizations of divers kinds will unite to make the display a magnificent one. This is the order in which they will march:

Platoon of mounted police; Grand Marshal, General Martin T. McMahon; chief of staff, General William D. Whipple, U. S. A.; senior aide, General Anson G. McCook; aides in charge of headquarters, Lieutenant R. H. Patterson, U. S. A., and Lieutenant David Price, U. S. A.; quartermaster, Colonel Samuel Truesdell, U. S. V.; aides in charge of formation and disbandment, Captain S. E. Blunt, U. S. A., and Major L. C. Brackett, U. S. V.; aides in charge of signalling and telegraphing, Captain Albert Gallup, N. G. S. N. Y., and Colonel J. C. Reed, and a number of aides.

United States Army, 2,000 troops. Commander, Colonel Loomis L. Langdon, 1st Artillery, U. S. A.; staff, Lieutenant C. H. Hunter, adjutant; Lieutenant C. J. Bailey, quartermaster.

First Brigade—9th Infantry, Colonel Charles G. Bartlette, commander; United States Military Academy Band; battalion of cadets, United States Military Academy, West Point, Lieutenant-Colonel S. M. Mills, commander; Banard Battalion United States Engineers, Willett's Point, Lieutenant-Colonel M. R. King, commander; band and battalion, 1st Artillery, U. S. A., Major John Egan, 1st Artillery, U. S. A., commander, consisting of three battalions from Fort Hamilton; three battalions from Fort Wadsworth, two battalions from Fort Columbia (Governor's Island), band and battalion, 2d Artillery, Major Frank G. Smith, 2d Artillery, U. S. A., commander, consisting of three batteries from Fort Adams (R. I.); two batteries from Fort Schuyler; band and battalion Infantry, Lieutenant-Colonel A. C. Wildrick, commander; 1st Artillery, U. S. A., Major Richard Combs, U. S. A., one company 6th Infantry, Fort Wood, (Bedlow's Island); six companies 9th Infantry, Madison Barracks (Sackett Harbor); one company 9th Infantry, Fort Ontario; one company 9th Infantry, Plattsburg Barracks; two companies 21st Infantry, Fort Niagara; one company 21st Infantry, Fort Porter; Battery of Light Artillery, U. S. A., Lieutenant-Colonel A. M. C. Pennington, commander; Light Battery K, 1st Artillery, U. S. A., Fort Hamilton, Colonel Dillenbock, commander; Light Battery B, 4th Artillery (Fort Adams), Captain Edward Field, commander.

First Brigade N. G. S. N. Y. (5,000 men), escort to visiting troops; commander, Brigadier-General Louis Fitzgerald; and staff.

Signal Corps, escort to brigade commander, Captain Albert Gallup, commander; 69th Regiment, N. G. S. N. Y., Colonel James Cavanagh, commander; 8th Regiment, N. G. S. N. Y., Colonel George D. Scott, commander; 9th Regiment, N. G. S. N. Y., Colonel William Seward, commander; 22d Regiment, N. G. S. N. Y., Colonel John T. Kemp, commander; 7th Regiment, N. G. S. N. Y., Colonel Daniel Appleton, commander; 12th Regiment, N. G. S. N. Y., Colonel Heman Dowd, commander; 71st Regiment, N. G. S. N. Y., Colonel Francis V. Greene, commander; 1st Battery, N. G. S. N. Y., Captain Louis Wendel, commander; 2d Battery, N. G. S. N. Y., Captain David Wilson, commander; Troop A, N. G. S. N. Y., Captain Charles F. Roe, commander.

Second Brigade, N. G. S. N. Y.—Brigadier-General James McLeer, commander, and staff; Signal Corps, Captain Frederick T. Leigh, commander; 13th Regiment, N. G. S. N. Y., Colonel David E. Austen, commander; 14th Regiment, N. G. S. N. Y., Colonel Harry W. Michell, commander; 23d Regiment, N. G. S. N. Y., Colonel John N. Partridge, commander; 47th Regiment, N. G. S. N. Y., Colonel John G. Eddy, commander; 17th Separate Company, N. G. S. N. Y., Captain Bell, commander; 3d Battery, N. G. S. N. Y., Captain Henry S. Rasquin, commander.

U. S. Naval Brigade (350 men).—Commander, Lieutenant-Commander Asa Walker; brigade adjutant, J. B. Briggs and aides; three companies of blue jackets, U. S. S. Philadelphia; one company of marines, U. S. S. Philadelphia; three companies of blue jackets, U. S. S. Atlanta; one company of blue jackets, U. S. S. Miantonomoh; one company of blue jackets, U. S. S. Dolphin; one section of blue jackets, U. S. S. Vesuvius; one section of blue jackets, U. S. S. Vermont.

Provisional Brigade, N. G. S. N. J. (2,500 men).—Commander-in-Chief, Governor Leon Abbett; adjutant-general, Brevet Major-General William S. Stryker; quartermaster-general, Brigadier-General Richard A. Donnelly; surgeon-general, Brigadier-General John D. McGill; inspector-general, Brigadier-General William C. Heppenheimer; inspector-general of rifle practice, Brigadier-General Bird W. Spencer; and aides. The troops will consist of the 1st Regiment, twelve companies, Colonel Edward A. Campbell, commanding; and the 3d Regiment, twelve companies, Colonel Benjamin A. Lee, commanding. On the left of the brigade will be the Gatling Gun Company B, Captain John R. Jones, commanding.

Provisional Brigade, N. G. S. Conn. (2,000 men).—Commander-in-Chief, Governor Morgan G. Bulkeley; adjutant-general, Brigadier-General Andrew H. Ensler; assistant adjutant-general, Colonel William H. Tubbs; and staff. 1st Regiment, N. G. S. Conn.; 2d Regiment, N. G. S. Conn.; 3d Regiment, N. G. S. Conn.; Gates S. Conn.; 4th Regiment, N. G. S. Conn.; Gates City Guard, Atlanta, Ga. (40 and band); Washington Fencibles (about 75).

Provisional Brigade.—N. G. S. Penn. (3,000).—Commander-in-Chief, Governor Robert E. Pattison; Adjutant-General, Brigadier-General W. W. Greenland and staff. First Troop, Philadelphia City Cavalry, 60 men; 6th Regiment, N. G. S. Penn., 500 men; 2d Regiment, N. G. S. Penn., 600 men; 3d Regiment, N. G. S. Penn., 600 men; 9th Regiment, N. G. S. Penn., 480 men; Pennsylvania State Fencibles, 240 men; Gray Invincibles, 60 men.

Old Guard.—Guard of Honor to President Harrison and Cabinet at the reviewing stand, Commander, Major George W. McLean. Companies A and B.

Naval Reserve, N. G. S. N. Y.—J. W. Miller, commander, and staff.

Exempt Volunteer and Veteran Firemen's Division.—Grand marshal, Michael Crane; chief aides, William Gleason, Bernard F. Martin; New-York City's ex-chiefs, Harry Howard, John Decker, Joseph C. Pelley, Thomas Cleary, Robert McGuinness, Eli Bates, Elisha Kingsland, John P. LaCour, J. Joseph Rusch, and Peter Y. Everett; 2d Regiment Fire Zouaves, 73d New-York Volunteers; trustees of Firemen's Home; visiting engineers.

First Brigade.—Volunteer Firemen's Association of New-York City, 800 men and engine; Veteran Firemen's Association of New-London, 150 men and engine.

Second Brigade.—Veteran Firemen's Association of New-York, 140 men and engine; Clinton Association, 75 men; Mazeppa Association, 50 men; Sag Harbor Gazelle Hose Company, No. 1, 50 men; Sayville, L. I., Hose Company, 50 men; South Mount Vernon American Hook and Ladder Company, 50 men; South Mount Vernon Nerted Engine Company, 65 men.

Third Brigade.—Exempt Firemen's Association, New-York, 60 men; Port Washington, L. I., Atlantic Hook and Ladder Company, 70 men; Port Washington, L. I., Protection Hook and Ladder Company, No. 5, 65 men; Blythebourne, L. I., Jackson Engine Company, No. 4, 70 men; Gravesend, L. I., Hook and Ladder Company, No. 1, 70 men; Guttenburg, N. J., Washington Hose Company, No. 1, 65 men; Westchester, N. Y., Empire Engine Company, No. 1, 100 men; Woodhaven, L. I., Woodhaven Hose Company, No. 1, 50 men; Port Lee, N. J., Protection Engine Company, No. 1, 65 men.

Fourth Brigade.—Volunteer Firemen's Association of Brooklyn, N. Y., 600 men; Peekskill, N. Y., Washington Engine Company No. 2, 65 men; Union, N. J., Hickory Engine Company, 80 men; Hudson County, N. J., Columbia Hose Company No. 2, 50 men; Birmingham, Conn., Storm Engine Company No. 2, 63 men.

Fifth Brigade.—Veteran Firemen's Association, Brooklyn, W. D., 150 men; Washington Engine Company No. 2, 84 men; Patchogue, L. I., Union Hook and Ladder Company No. 5, 55 men; Columbia Mutual Aid Fire Department, West Hoboken, N. J., 165 men; Long Island City Exempt Firemen's Association, 200 men.

Sixth Brigade.—Lafayette Association (Engine No. 19), New-York City, 75 men; Torrington, Conn., Fire Department, 65 men; Rochester, N. Y., Exempt Firemen's Association, 130 men; Bath Beach, L. I., Hook and Ladder Company No. 1, 100 men; Passaic, N. J., Exempt Firemen's Association, 90 men; East Portchester, Conn., New-Lebanon Engine and Hose Company, 75 men; Williamsbridge, N. Y., Engine Company No. 1, 80 men.

Seventh Brigade.—Exempt Firemen's Association, Williamsburg, Brooklyn, 200 men; Volunteer Exempt and Veterans' Sons, of New-York City, 100 men; Volunteer Firemen's Sons, New-York, 100 men; Bay Ridge, L. I., Neptune Engine Company No. 2, 60 men; Bay Ridge, L. I., Engine Company No. 1, 60 men; Mount Vernon, N. Y., Clinton Hook and Ladder Company, 60 men; Milford, Conn., Arctic Engine Company No. 1, 55 men.

Eighth Brigade.—Flatbush, L. I., Fire Department, seven companies, 350 men; Keyport, N. J., Hook and Ladder Company, 50 men; Keyport, N. J., Engine Company, 50 men; Jamaica, L. I., New-York State Council Company, 50 men; Kearny, N. J., Fire Department, 100 men; Fairhaven Conn., Quinipiac Hose Company, 50 men; Rochester, N. Y., Putnam Hose and Engine Company No. 2, 130 men.

Ninth Brigade.—Staten Island Fire Department, 300 men; West Haven, Conn., Engine Company No. 1, 50 men; West Haven, Conn., James Graham Hook and Ladder Company, 55 men; West Haven, Conn., West Haven Hook and Ladder Company, 40 men; White Plains, N. Y., Union Hook and Ladder Company, 70 men; White Plains, N. Y., Hope Engine Company, No. 1, 20 men; White Plains, N. Y., Independent Engine Company, No. 2, 20 men.

Tenth Brigade.—Coney Island Fire Department, three companies, 200 men; Nyack, N. Y., Fire Department, 175 men; Hackensack, N. Y., Exempt Firemen's Association, 125 men; Clarenceville, L. I., Peare Hose Company, 90 men; West Hoboken, N. J., Americus Hook and Ladder Company, 60 men.

Eleventh Brigade.—New Lots, L. I., Exempt Firemen's Association, 200 men; Hoboken, N. J., Exempt Firemen's Association, 135 men; Auburn, N. Y., Active Hose Company, three companies, 90 men; Mount Vernon, N. Y., Niagara Hose Company, No. 1, 55 men.

Twelfth Brigade.—Carlstadt, N. J., Hook and Ladder Company, No. 2, 40 men, North Bergen, N. J., Pioneer Engine Campany, No. 1, 60 men; Fort Hamilton Engine Company, No. 1, 60 men; Niagara Hose Company, No. 5, 60 men; New-Haven Conn., Veteran Volunteer Firemen, 40 men; White Plains, N. Y., Union Hook and Ladder Company, 60 men.

Thirteenth Brigade.—Sing Sing Fire Department, Sheepshead Bay Fire Department, Twenty-Third Ward Exempt Association, Tottenville, S. I.; Volunteer Firemen's Association, Long Island City; Keyport Fire Department, Williamsbridge Engine Company, Inwood Fire Department, L. I.; Asbury Park Good Will Engine Company.

Fourteenth Brigade, Veteran Corps.—Veteran Corps, 69th Regiment, 75 men; Liberty Guard of West Hoboken, 150 men; Lafayette Guards, 2d Regiment Irish Volunteers, 275 men; Guard Rochambeau.

Fifteenth Brigade, Cadet Corps.—Cadet Corps, 2d Battery, N. G. S. N. Y., 50 men; Cadet Corps, 4th Regiment, N. G. S. N. Y., 50 men; Cadet Corps, New-York Military Academy, Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, 140 men; Veteran Guard Cadets, 50 men, 23d Regiment Cadet Corps, 13th Regiment Cadet Corps, 14th Regiment Cadet Corps, 1st Battery, 2d Battery, 8th Regiment Cadet Corps.

New-York Fire Department.—Chief Hugh Bonner, commanding. The First Brigade under the command of Chief of Battalion Charles D. Purroy; 1st Company, Engine Companies Nos. 12, 25, 26, and Hook and Ladder Company No. 12; 2d Company, Engine Companies Nos. 17, 30, 56, and Hook and Ladder Company No. 7; 3d Company, Engine Companies Nos. 5, 20, 21, and Hook and Ladder Company No. 1. The Second Brigade under the command of Chief of Battalion William Dunne; 1st Company, Engine Companies Nos. 24, 9, 47, and Hook and Ladder Company No. 18; 2d Company, Engine Company Nos. 33, 34, 40, and Hook and Ladder Company No. 8; 3d Company, Engine Companies Nos. 16, 3, 35, and Hook and Ladder Company No. 9; Fourth Company, Engine Companies Nos. 18, 4, and Hook and Ladder Companies 3, 21.

Fire Patrol.—Superintendent Abram C. Hull, commander. 1st Company, 2d Company, 3d Company; six fire patrol wagons, one steam fire engine; Battalion Chief Fire Detachment (one company), with apparatus.

Italian military organizations—Marshal, Cav. M. Lemmi; Infantry—Reduci Patrie Battaglie, 40 men; Reduci Veterani, 40 men; Guardia Colombo, 100 men; Legione Garibaldi, 100 men; Principe di Napoli, 50 men; Torquato Tasso, 147 men; Potenza Lucania, 80 men; Stella d'Italia, 60 men; Dante Alighieri, 40 men; Caracciolo, 60 men; Italian rifle guard, 125 men; Guardia Giuseppe Garibaldi, 50 men; Risorgimento Sclilese, 80 men; Esercito Italiano, 16 men; Sarnese, 40 men. Cavalry—1 mo. Regto. Nizza, 40 men; Vittorio Emanuele II, 100 men; Corona d'Italia, 30 men; Reali Carabinieri, 40 men; 22 mo. Regto. Roma, 25 men; Stato Maggiore, 30 men.

French military organizations—Marshals, Colonel August Gross and Gaston Weber. Infantry—Garles Lafayette, 100 men; Grenadiers Rochambeau, 40 men.

Grand Army of the Republic posts—Phil Kearny, No. 8; Abraham Lincoln, No. 13; James C. Rice, No. 29; Sumner, No. 24; Koltes, No. 32; George G. Meade, No. 38; William D. Kennedy, No. 42; Reno, No. 44; Robert Anderson, No. 58; J. L. Riker, No. 62; Ellsworth, No. 67; James Shields, No. 68; Farragut, No. 75; General James S. Wadsworth, No. 77; Cameron, No. 79; John A. Rawlins, No. 80; Oliver Tilden, No. 96; E. A. Kimball, No. 100; George Washington, No. 103; Dahlgren, No. 113; Joe Hooker, No. 128; John A. Dix, No. 135; Vanderbilt, No. 136; Lafayette, No. 140; Judson Kilpatrick, No. 143; Alexander Hamilton, No. 182; Sedgwick, No. 186; Steinwehr, No. 192; Philip Sheridan, No. 233; John A. Andrews, No. 234; Thaddeus Stevens, No. 255; Gilsa, No. 264; E. D. Morgan, No. 307; Peter Cooper, No. 313; Adam Goss, No. 330; A. S. Williams, No. 394; John E. Bendix, No. 402; Frederick Hecker, No. 403; George M. Corcoran, No. 427; Veteran, No. 436; Noah L. Farnham, No. 458; Volunteer, No. 459; Naval, No. 516; E. H. Wade, No. 520; George B. McClellan, No. 552; General James McQuade, No. 557; William G. Mitchell, No. 559; General Thomas F. Meagher, No. 567; Horace Greeley, No. 577; H. B. Claflin, No. 578; Lloyd Aspinwall, No. 600; James Monroe, No. 607; Hans Powell, No. 638; Sons of Veterans (1,750 men).

German-American Societies.—Grand Marshal, Dr. M. J. B. Messemer; Hoboken Riding Club, German-American Shooting Society, 1,400 men; Veteran Union, 11th Regiment, 150 men; Austria-Hungarian Hunting Union, 150 men; Austria-Hungarian Shooters' Society, New-York Turners (Jersey City and Long Island), 1,000 men; Ancient Order of Foresters of America, about 525 men; Deutscher Landwehr Verein, about 8,000 men; Bohemian Organization, about 875 men; Polish Military Organization, about 525 men; 1st Regiment, Uniformed Rank, K. of P., about 300; Knights of Columbus, about 200; Charles Sumner Pioneer Corps, First Austrian Schuetzen Band, 75 men.

IRON STEAMBOATS AND THE CELEBRATION.

As usual on great occasions the Iron Steamboat Company comes promptly to the front in the accommodation of the public. The Columbus celebration calls the fleet into service, and for the fireworks display on Monday evening there will be five boats out, leaving Pier No. 1, North River, and from West Twenty-third-st. For the naval parade on Tuesday, in which all the boats of the fleet have been assigned to a place, there will be boats for the public from the same landings—enough to carry many people, at a popular price.

POLICEMEN MUST NOT USE CLUBS.

Superintendent Byrnes yesterday called the police captains to Headquarters and ordered them to give directions which will prevent clubbing by policemen who keep order along the routes of the parade next week. He said the Columbian Celebration must not be marked by any exhibitions of undue violence by policemen. Large crowds must be kept in check along the lines of parade, but Mr. Byrnes said the police need not resort to clubbing citizens in order to compel order. To remove temptation from hot-tempered policemen, he said, they were to be directed to carry their clubs in their belts, and not to take them in their hands unless it was absolutely necessary to use clubs in self-defence or in the defence of others who might be in serious danger. General and special orders for the police arrangements during the celebration will be issued by Mr. Byrnes before the close of this week.

MAYOR GRANT TO THE CITIZENS.

Mayor Grant issued an address to the people of New-York yesterday, calling on them to participate heartily in the celebration, to decorate their houses, and fill the churches to thank God for the blessings with which America has been favored.

The committee on invitation and reception made a final report yesterday. The number of invitations issued was 1,300, and acceptances received, 1,000. The invitations for the banquet numbered 410, of which 319 were accepted.

In speaking of the preparations for the celebration Mayor Grant said yesterday that every stand erected for sight-seeing outside of the stoop line of buildings on the line of parade would have to come down unless a permit was issued from his office.

SELLING LENOX LYCEUM SEATS.

All the boxes and seats in Lenox Lyceum for the Columbian celebration dinner spectators were sold there at public auction yesterday afternoon. The proceeds amounted to $850. All the boxes and seats were sold to Howard Carroll, Benjamin Wood, J. M. Tappin, George Clausen, J. M. Challos, and one or two others. Mr. Wood paid $50 for box No. 19, which was the highest price paid. Thirty-four boxes and 300 seats were sold. Mr. Tappan purchased 150 of the seats. There were one or two speculators present, but they did not secure many tickets. It is understood that the tickets will be sold at the box office of Lenox Lyceum on the night of the banquet.

PROMINENT ARRIVALS AT THE HOTELS.

BREVOORT—H. O. Houghton, of Boston. FIFTH AVENUE—Congressman Seth L. Milliken, of Maine; Christopher L. Magee, of Pittsburg; Assistant Postmaster-General E. G. Rathbone, and Frank Hatton, of Washington, D. C. GILSEY—Secretary of State Henry C. Kelsey, of New-Jersey. HOFFMAN—Edward J. Meegan, of Albany. HOLLAND—A. Brand, M. P., of England. MURRAY HILL—General Cyrus Bussey, Assistant Secretary of the Interior. PLAZA—General William Mahone, of Virginia. VICTORIA—Sir Eyre Shaw, of England. WINDSOR—George M. Pullman, of Chicago.

THE DRAMA.

DALY'S THEATRE REOPENED.

It was a night of gladness and pleasure at Daly's Theatre. Every seat was occupied, and everywhere the aspect of a rejoiced and brilliant audience expressed sympathetic interest and joyous satisfaction. A new piece called "Little Miss Million"—a piece which is both sparkling and substantial—was presented for the first time, and with that the theatre was merrily and appropriately opened for the new dramatic year. Between Mr. Daly's comedians and their public the relation is one of sympathy and kindness, and as one by one the favorite players stood revealed the popular good-will found expression in earnest plaudits that could not be mistaken. For Ada Rehan the welcome was fervent, protracted, enthusiastic and affectionate; for Mr. Lewis it took the form of tumult and happy laughter. There can be no question of the local pride in Ada Rehan's remarkable achievements or of the chivalrous personal interest with which she is regarded. No actress in New-York since the days of Clara Fisher and May Taylor has been so emphatically the public favorite, and no actress anywhere has better deserved that genial consideration and gracious eminence. Youth, beauty, exuberant spirits, a happy heart, a romantic temperament and fine dramatic powers well developed and nicely trained unite in that remarkable woman to make her an object of natural admiration; while her exceptional versatility and proficiency in the dramatic art long since made her a representative comedy actress of the first rank. It would be difficult to name another performer of this period who can do so many things well. With such a central figure and with associates individually so clever, and collectively so harmonious, it was not surprising that upon Mr. Daly's stage the new play should be acted with brilliant precision and potential effect. "Little Miss Million," which is a four-act comedy adapted by Mr. Daly from a German piece by Mr. Oscar Blumenthal, and which implicates ten persons—enlisted in its performance the talents and the art of Ada Rehan, James Lewis, Arthur Bourchier, Herbert Gresham, Adelaide Prince, George Clarke, Sidney Herbert, William Sampson, Wilfred Buckland and William Gilbert. It is a spirited and charming piece, in which humorous satire plays lightly over foibles of character and amiable eccentricities of conduct; and, with this symmetrical cast and with the most tasteful of stage treatment, it found in ample abundance the public favor to which it was so well commended.

Unlike many of the light plays that Mr. Daly has adapted from the German, this one possesses deep sentiment as well as fun; and there can be no doubt, in view of the eager attention with which its course was followed and the quick sympathy with which its touches of feeling,—equally with its strokes of mirth—were received, that the community will accept and gladly approve the innovation. Against this piece, assuredly, the complaint cannot be urged that it is all froth. The farcical element, indeed, is present; but only sufficiently present to impart a spice of piquant mirth. A lively girl has given a portrait of her handsome brother to another girl, who is her school friend, and she has also given a portrait of her school friend to her brother; and the possessors of these portraits, who have never met, became attached in fancy, and then, under comic circumstances, they are confronted. These are kindred elements of farce. The fibre of the piece, though, is serious, and when you have departed from its contemplation you do not feel that you have been looking at the frippery in a bandbox. The warmth of the public response may be gathered from the fact that before the fall of the first curtain Mr. Lewis, Miss Adelaide Prince and Mr. Bourchier had each been recalled upon the scene by plaudits of sincere admiration and delight. Miss Rehan—as Rena Primrose, whom her school-girl mates have called "Little Miss Million," because they erroneously think that her father is very rich—does not appear until act second; and after her first scene, which is that of an ingenuous prattle, a similar tribute was paid to her; and surely it was merited. Nothing better of this kind has been seen upon our stage. In her best days Mary Gannon, who was extraordinarily felicitous in this line of art, never surpassed the ebullition of sustained glee and sweetly arch vivacity with which Ada Rehan illumed the scene and captivated her auditors. The character does not essentially change from that point onward, except that it deepens and strengthens as the young girl's heart is awakened. The actress never once lost her identification with it, and steadily until the end her course was one triumph of fascinating personality.

Mr. Lewis has a character in which the substantial elements and qualities of his mind are allowed at least an equal freedom with his familiar talent for cynical fun and chirping jocularity. Beverly Primrose is an elderly man of the world in whom gayety has not extinguished principle and sentiment. The situations invented for him are grotesquely comic—and yet they seem not impossible. Mr. Arthur Bourchier had the juvenile character. He was seen under the disadvantage of great nervous excitement. Yet even so he revealed a method of acting that is distinguished by simplicity and nature.

In "Little Miss Million" is depicted an episode in the life of an impulsive and prodigal girl, whom temperament and circumstance have made wayward, but who is unspoiled and true. The story of her proceedings is a little complex; the reader will like better to learn it from observation than from narrative. The essential strength of the piece consists, in its incidents, in its characters, in the manner in which these are contrasted, and in its sprightly dialogue. Mr. Daly's remarkable talents as a playwright—not, perhaps, commonly appreciated as they should be, since the manager is more often remembered than the author—are shown once more in the text of this play and in the special ingenuity with which its expedients of effect have been employed. He was the recipient of a cordial tribute of public regard, and he has begun the new season under most auspicious conditions.

HARRIGAN'S THEATRE.

Mr. Edward Harrigan, it is customary to say, pleases by his fidelity in the reproduction of Irish character; and this is true. But Mr. Harrigan is more than faithful in his portraiture. He is eclectic and he is humorous. He is not simply a photographer. A mere copy of Irish character would not necessarily please. Neither the Irish character nor any other character is pleasing all the way through. Mr. Harrigan selects the attributes that will combine to accomplish his purpose, and in making an effective unity of these, he manifests at once the instinct and the humor of a comedian. He is acting with remarkable zest and humor and effect in his well-remembered and droll play of "Squatter Sovereignty," and his acting delights a numerous audience. The word for the moment is a word of welcome for this mild complication of picture and incident, in which the spirit of kindly and merry satire is spontaneously fluent and joyous. The local public is glad to see Edward Harrigan, and is amused and refreshed by his faithful comic efforts in the humble plane of common life.

A BIG CHEESE AT THE FOOD SHOW.

The chief object of interest at the Food Show at the Madison Square Garden, yesterday, was the "Ton Cheese," which had just been added to the exhibit in the dairy department. It is a huge affair, the largest cheese, it is said, ever exhibited in this country. Its weight is 2,310 pounds, and it was made from one day's milk. It is the product of 13,860 quarts of milk, and it took some 2,320 cows to furnish it. The attendance at the Food Show seems to be growing. Yesterday was altogether the best day of this week. The Seidl concerts continue to be one of the most attractive features, and Miss Parlon's lectures in the concert hall are also popular. This afternoon Miss Parlon will talk about boiled beefsteak, with maitre d'hotel butter; vegetable a la jardiniere and molasses gingerbread.

GEORGE J. GOULD'S NEW HOUSE.

George J. Gould yesterday confirmed the announcement that he had purchased from Jacob H. Schiff and wife the house No. 857 Fifth-ave., at the northeast corner of Sixty-seventh-st. and the avenue. He said that his family had grown so large that he had decided to take a larger house, and would return the house No. 1 East Forty-seventh-st. to his father, who owned it. Mr. Gould expects to be settled in his new home in two or three weeks.

THE SUFFOLK COUNTY FAIR.

A big crowd visited the Suffolk County fair grounds yesterday, and saw several interesting trotting races, of which the following is a summary.

First race, Suffolk County Nursery Stakes—Montauk, first; Signal Wilkes, second.

Second race, for teams—Ansonio and Wanita, first.

Third race, free-for-all—Jim Fuller, first.

Fourth race, for 2:38 class—Denver, first; Dandy, second.

Fifth race, 2:45 class—George, first; Shadow, second.

Sixth race, 3:30 class—Frank Folsom, first; Castellane, second.

PRIZES AWARDED AT PRINCETON.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 6 (Special).—The freshman entrance examination prizes have been announced as follows: The New-York prize, divided between Louis Gray, of Newark, and Charles B. Bostwick, of New-York; the Philadelphia prize, George W. Childs, of Germantown, in the Academic Department, and Fred C. Leas, of Philadelphia, in the School of Science; the Pittsburg prize, Samuel W. Miller, of Saltsburg, Penn.; the Harrisburg prize, William H. Musser, of Harrisburg; the Wilkesbarre prize, Thomas A. Stites, of Wyoming, Penn.; the Washington prize, Wallace W. McLean, of Washington. One of the most important steps toward the discontinuance of all forms of hazing or other unmanly manifestations of class feeling was taken at noon to-day, when it was decided, at a largely attended mass-meeting of the college, to abolish the annual rush between the freshmen and sophomores. A spirited speech in favor of doing away with the rush was made by King, '93, captain of the football team, in which he said that the faculty had virtually agreed to allow the annual cane spree to be placed upon the list of legitimate sports if the rush were abolished.

MRS. HARRISON SENDS THANKS.

A SOUVENIR OF THE G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT—NO CHANGE IN HER CONDITION.

Washington, Oct. 6.—The following is the reply sent to Miss Clara Barton by Mr. Halford, in response to the letter which accompanied the presentation to Mrs. Harrison of the gold and silver souvenir badge by the ladies' citizens' committee:

Executive Mansion,
Washington, September 30, 1892.

Miss Clara Barton, Mrs. W. W. Dudley, Washington, D. C.

My Dear Mesdames: Your letter to Mrs. Harrison, with the accompanying souvenir of the recent encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, has been received. The very handsome and appropriate badge was brought to the personal attention of Mrs. Harrison, it being one of the few things that she has been able to look at for some time past, and also the kind words in which you conveyed it to her. She was much touched by the evidence of the regard of her associates on the Ladies' Citizens' Committee, and wished me to give her grateful thanks to both of you and through you to the other members of the committee.

Very truly yours,
E. W. HALFORD, Private Secretary.

Mrs. Harrison passed a fairly good night. Dr. Gardner says there is no change in her condition.

Aside from the usual changes characteristic in consumptive cases, there has been no particular alternation in the condition of Mrs. Harrison since she was brought to Washington from Loon Lake about two weeks ago. Although critically ill, her case is not absolutely hopeless. Mrs. Harrison's right lung is entirely consolidated, so that she has no use of it whatever. The left lung is not involved. The patient does not exhibit that cheerfulness and hopefulness that is usually so apparent in the case of consumptives. This is due to the extreme nervous exhaustion from which she suffers, the one great cause which has operated against her rallying. Her mind is perfectly clear and she takes a certain amount of nourishment each day. The most noticeable result of Mrs. Harrison's illness is great emaciation. The change that has come over her is said to be most pitiable.

TYPEWRITERS AT CHICAGO.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—Major Handy, of the Department of Publicity and Promotion, has ordered fifty Remington typewriters from Wyckoff, Seamans & Benedict for the use of press representatives at the dedicatory ceremonies of the World's Columbian Exposition, on the 21st inst.

An equal number of expert operators will be engaged for this service.

Liebig Company's Extract of Beef.

Used in Households throughout the world.

Family Travelling During October

will sublet their desirable 5th-ave. suite on the first floor at the Cambridge, corner 33d-st., temporarily. Apply at Cambridge Office, 334 5th-ave.

Hundreds of nostrums have been got up to compete with Barry's Tricopherous, but it still stands alone the most famous preparation for preserving and beautifying the hair.

When baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had children, she gave them Castoria.

MARRIED.

ANDERSON—ALEXANDER—October 4th, at Saxton's River, Vt., Dr. H. G. Anderson, formerly house surgeon at the Woman's Hospital, New-York City, to Miss Lottie Alexander.

BARTON—CLUETT—At Christ Church, Troy, N. Y., on Wednesday, October 5th, by the Rev. J. N. Mulford, assisted by the Rev. E. W. Maxey, D. D., Jessie Agnes, daughter of Mr. J. W. A. Cluett, of Troy, to Cornelius Vanderbilt Barton, of New-York.

BEDELL—JOHNSTON—At the residence of the bride's parents, Tuesday evening, October 4th, by the Rev. Joachim Elmendorf, Hettie Amelia, daughter of William H. Johnston, to Mr. Abraham U. Bedell, of New-York.

CORT—STILES—On Thursday, September 29th, 1892, by the Rev. Dr. R. S. MacArthur, Nicholas L. Cort to Hattie A. Stiles, daughter of John N. Stiles, esq., of Hopewell.

No cards.

PHELPS—ROE—At the residence of the bride's parents, in this city, on Wednesday, October 5th, by the Rev. William H. Tolo, Mary Cecilia, daughter of Livingston Roe, to Louis James Phelps.

SQUIRES—HOWARD—On Wednesday, October 5th, 1892, at Grace Church, Plainfield, New-Jersey, by Dean E. M. Rodman, Grace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Emerson Howard, to G. Harry Squires. All of Plainfield, New-Jersey.

STEDMAN—CONDIT—On Tuesday, October 4th, 1892, at Holett's Landing, Lake George, N.Y., by the Rev. James G. Vose, D. D., of Providence, R. I., Mary, daughter of Frederic and Laura Chapin Condit, formerly of Providence, R. I., and Joseph Cyrus Stedman, M. D., of Jamaica Plain, Mass.

VAN NORDEN—CAMPBELL—At Pittsfield, Mass., on Wednesday, October 5, by the Rev. Henry M. Field, D. D., Grace, daughter of Mrs. George W. Campbell, to Theodore Longjon Van Norden.

WALKER—KING—In Brooklyn, October 4th, 1892, by the Rev. C. L. Twing, D. D., Emilie Russell, daughter of James H. King, to Mr. William Walker, of New-York.

WHITING—NEWELL—At the residence of the bride's parents, West Orange, N. J., by the Rev. Stanley White, Grace L., daughter of Clarence D. Newell, to Maurice H. Whiting, of West Orange.

Notices of marriages must be indorsed with full name and address.

DIED.

BURGESS—On Wednesday, October 5, Captain Joseph S. Burgess, in his 79th year.
Funeral services Thursday evening, 8 o'clock, at his late residence, 109 Taylor-st., Brooklyn, to which friends are invited.
Interment private.

CHASE—October 5th, at his residence in Providence, R. I., Thomas Chase, LL.D., late president of Haverford College, Penn., aged 65.
Funeral on Friday, October 7th, at 3 p. m., from his late residence.

DICKEL—On Tuesday, October 4th, at White Plains, N. Y., Lillian M., beloved wife of Charles W. Dickel.
Funeral Friday, October 7th, at White Plains, upon arrival of train leaving Grand Central Depot at 9:01 a. m.
Interment at Woodlawn.
Syracuse papers please copy.

ELSWORTH—On Wednesday, October 5th, William Elsworth, aged 57 years.
Funeral from his late residence, 15 East 37th-st., Bayonne, N. J., Friday evening, at 8 o'clock.

FINLEY—On Wednesday, October 5th, Samuel Hamilton Finley, son of the late Samuel and Isabel Finley, in the 24th year of his age.
Relatives and friends are respectfully invited to attend the funeral from his late residence, 1,205 Lexington-ave., on Saturday, October 8th, at 11 a. m.

FOLIN—On Thursday, October 6, 1892, Calus V. Folin, aged 70 years.
The relatives and friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend the funeral from his late residence, Webster-ave. and 182d-st., Fordham, on Sunday, October 9th, at 2 o'clock p. m.
Interment at Woodlawn.

HORNBLOWER—On October 6th, at Jersey City Heights, Francis