STRAWBERRIES AT $4 A CUP—SPRING LAMB AND HOTHOUSE VEGETABLES.

It produces a queer sensation in a beholder to stand out in the zero temperature which New-York has been blessed with this week and gaze through the frosted window panes of a Broadway fruit store at the lavish display of hothouse and tropical fruits inside. But the most conspicuous of all the summer products in the fruit store windows at present are the strawberries. Some are from Florida and sell for $2 and $2 25 a quart; others are from New-Jersey hothouses and can be had for $4 a cup. There are sixteen berries in a cup. If one's eyebrows are lifted in surprise at these figures the fruitseller will remark that, despite the storm, the strawberries are cheaper than they were five days ago, when they brought $6 a cup.

Among the hothouse importations from England are Gros Colman grapes at $2 50 a pound and asparagus. The stalks of the latter are over a foot long and pure white. A bunch of fifty stalks is sold by the wholesale dealers at $10, the retailers divide them into smaller bunches which they sell for $2.

Spring lamb is another seasonable luxury which can be had now. Probably not over two dozen have reached the city yet and there is no particular price paid for them, selling by the carcass from $5 to $10, according to the size.

In Fulton Market the oyster dealers all predict a famine in this popular shell fish, unless the weather moderates soon. All the inlets and bays about New-Jersey and Long Island, in which lie the oyster beds which form the chief source of supply of this market, are frozen over. Even the Chesapeake Bay, which can almost always be depended upon to furnish oysters to New-York when her near-by supply is cut off, is also frozen over this time and the dredges are held fast in the ice. The packers and canneries of Baltimore, unable to get stock, have been compelled to close down. Here the wholesale dealers have put up prices $2 a thousand, or about 30 per cent, and the retailers are following suit. Nevertheless, the figures were not extravagant yesterday, for retail prices in Fulton Market ranged between $1 and $2 50 a hundred. All other kinds of fish are dear, the wells in many of the fishing smacks freezing and making it almost impossible for the fishermen to bring their catch in alive. Large striped bass cost 30 cents and pan and medium sizes 25 cents a pound; black bass, 18 cents; large bluefish, 18 cents; large blackfish, 12 1-2, and small ones, 10 cents; market cod, 8; cod steak, 15, and live cod, 12 1-2 cents a pound; dressed eels, 18, and live eels, 25 cents; flounders, 12 1-2 cents; haddock, 8 cents, chicken halibut, 25 cents, and large halibut, 20 and 22 cents; live lobsters, 15 cents; pompano, 25 and 30 cents; pickerel, 15 cents; red snapper, 18 cents; Kennebec salmon, 25 and 35 cents, and Southern Spanish mackerel, 25 cents a pound. Southern sheepshead sell for 20 cents a pound; green smelts, 15 and 20 cents; small sea bass, 18 cents; fresh caught salmon trout, 15 cents, and white perch, 10 and 18 cents a pound. Southern shad are worth 60 cents and $1 25 for bucks and roes, respectively; whitebait is 25 cents a pound; crab meat, 40 cents a pound; crawfish, beloved by the Gaul, $3 a hundred; frogs' legs, 40 cents a pound; oyster crabs, $3 a quart, and scallops, 50 to 60 cents a quart. Green turtle sells for 25 cents a pound.

Fresh vegetables are more abundant and lower in price for the season than ever before, thanks to improved transportation facilities from the South and the rapid multiplication of forcing houses in the North. Southern ripe tomatoes sell for 40 cents a quart; green chives are 10 cents a bunch; summer squash from Cuba and Florida can be had for 5 and 10 cents each; Norfolk spinach costs 20 cents a half-peck and new kale 6 cents a head; Cuban and Louisiana egg plants cost 15 and 25 cents each; rhubarb from Long Island hothouses brings 20 cents a bunch; hothouse dandelions are 20 cents a quart; Brussels sprouts, 20 cents a quart; cauliflowers, 25 to 50 cents each, and green string beans 20 cents a quart. Green peppers cost 30 and 40 cents a dozen; green fetticus, 10 cents a quart; hothouse parsley, 5 cents a bunch; hothouse cucumbers, 20 and 25 cents each; Florida Romaine lettuce, 10 cents a head, and Boston hothouse lettuce, three heads for 25 cents, and Rochester dwarf celery, 15 and 20 cents a bunch. Breakfast radishes are 6 cents a bunch.

The weather is still against the shipment of eggs and prices keep up. They retail all the way from 30 to 50 cents a dozen. Philadelphia print butter costs 40 cents a pound, and the best Elgin creamery the same. Good Western creamery sells for 35 cents, and state dairy butter at 28 and 30 cents a pound.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE MARKETS.

FEATURES OF NEW-YORK DEALINGS.

The sales of wheat futures on the Produce Exchange yesterday amounted to 2,525,000 bushels. The tone of the market, barring a shade of weakness at the opening, was firm. Initial prices indicated a decline of ⅛ cent as a result of weaker cables and selling by houses with foreign connections. An advance of ⅛@⅜ cent then took place in sympathy with the West on reports of crop damage, and after a short period of irregularity the market closed firm at an advance of ⅛@¼ cent for the day. January sold at 79⅛@79¼; February at 80⅝@80¾; March at 81⅝@82; May at 83⅝@83¾; June at 84⅛@84¼ and July at 84⅝@85; cents. The spot prices were advanced in sympathy with options, but the advance checked business, and the sales reported aggregated only 10,000 bushels.

The sales of corn futures aggregated 480,000 bushels and the market closed strong at an advance of 1@1¼ cent in sympathy with Western manipulation. Local shorts covered. Spot prices showed an advance equal to options, but as was the case with wheat, the advance checked business. The sales were 45,000 bushels.

For oats the market was dull in all directions. In futures the sales and exchanges amounted to 70,000 bushels and the spot business footed up 18,000 bushels. Future delivery prices closed at the advance of ⅛@¼ cent, but spot prices were without change.

The final quotations were as follows:

Wheat—January, 79⅞; February, 80⅝; March, 82; May, 84⅛; June, 84¾; July, 85⅝ cents.

Corn—January, 52; February, 53; March, 53⅝; May, 53⅝ cents.

Oats—January, 38½; February, 39¼; March, 39¾; May, 40 cents.

Lard—January, $11 19; March, $10 95; May, $11; June, $10 75.

The receipts of grain and flour reported yesterday at New-York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Boston were as follows: Wheat, 47,168 bushels; corn, 309,723 bushels; oats, 98,542 bushels; total grain, 456,233 bushels; flour, 48,678 barrels. At Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Louis the arrivals were: Wheat, 241,902 bushels; corn, 279,054 bushels; oats, 157,187 bushels; total grain, 678,143 bushels; flour, 18,162 barrels.

THE TRADE IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, Jan. 13 (Special).—Pretty nearly everybody here was inclined to sell wheat to-day. The Cudahy interest, however, put brokers in the market and took all offerings at 81 cents for May. They kept that up in so long and so firmly that scalping shorts finally took alarm, and in attempting to get covered up closed the market at the top price of the day, 81⅞ cents. May opened at 80⅞, and closed just 1 cent over. On the curb it was 82⅛ cents. Kaufman, of St. Louis, the biggest operator of that city, seems to be a bull, and bought a lot of July wheat at home and in this market. New-York sold on its weak cables. Minneapolis and Duluth had 200 cars; here there were 314 cars; the estimate for Saturday was 210. Clearances here for five days have been over 1,110,000 bushels, and it looks as if the local stock Monday would show another increase of almost a million bushels. St. Louis reported that Kansas was getting zero temperature, without any benefit from snow. Corn was up a cent on the cables, which have showed advances every day this week. May sold from 46⅝ to 47⅞ and closed at 47⅞ cents. Oats advanced ¼ cent on the very high prices. There were only 93 cars; the estimate for Saturday was only 80 cars. May sold from 35 to 35¾ cents and closed at the top. It was a strong provision market, without being an active one. Pork at the close showed an advance over Thursday of over 30 cents; lard of 20 cents; ribs of 25 cents a hundred. The strength probably came chiefly from the news at the yards. There were only 18,000 hogs; the estimate for Saturday was only 11,000 head; prices were up 10 cents. The best quality of hogs sold at 8 cents, the top price so far. Flaxseed was strong at 4c advance; May closed at $1 16⅞.
