WHAT WAS DONE IN STOCKS.

Wednesday, April 12.—p. m.

The course of prices was reversed to-day, but the character of the stock market was not changed. The opening was, at least, steady, but the first movement was downward, even if it was irregular. Sugar Refining, in which the transactions were nearly one-third of the total business, barely saved itself from falling to par, but in the afternoon dealings the recovery was rapid and prompt, and after sales at 104, the stock receded only 1-4 per cent, and its final gain was over 2 per cent. The only other active advance was in National Lead, which, after 39 1-2 and 42, also closed 1-4 per cent below its highest point, with a relative gain of nearly 2 per cent. The authorship of both movements was well-known, and it was manipulation rather than conditions or investment buying which controlled them. Second only to Sugar Refining in point of activity was Distilling and Cattle Feeding, which fell to 28 1-4, and at 29 suffered a loss of 1 3-4 per cent. The annual meeting of the company was held at Peoria, and, of course, the proceedings were kept secret. Rumors of an issue of bonds were supported by the decline in the price of the stock, but the question instantly arose if the company really had anything beyond "good-will" which it could pledge as security. If that should happen to be all it may be safe to assume that the entire issue must be taken by inside interests. It is hardly possible that the present speculative supporters of Sugar Refining and National Lead will return to their old favorite. The three most active stocks, it will be observed, belong to the industrial group, and they did not move in sympathy. Final variations usually were divided, but the advances were more numerous than the declines, even if they were not more significant. On both sides the largest changes were in either industrial or special stocks. A sudden fall of about 2 per cent in Pacific Mail might be offset by a rise of 2 1-2 per cent in Manhattan. In the railway list neither the transactions nor the variations were worthy of notice.

General conditions, indeed, were not changed. The closing probably was influenced by the belief that no further heavy exports of gold will be made this week, but the foreign exchanges were firm, and an urgent demand for remittance would result in a continuance of the outflow of the precious metal.

THE DAY IN THE BOND MARKET.

There were no transactions in Government bonds at the Stock Exchange, and in tone the market was inclined to be weak. Asked prices for registered 4s were lowered 1-4 per cent. The closing quotations were as follows:

State issues were neglected. Of city bank stocks Corn Exchange sold (23) at 275, and Southern (10) at 111 1-2. Sales at auction, which were rather larger than usual,
