GENERAL MARKET REPORT.

COTTON—The cotton market at New-York declined 16 points and then rallied, but failed to get back to last night's prices. The cause of the early weakness was the continued unfavorable news from Europe, particularly that about Liverpool, which showed a decline of 5c. in spot cotton and 4-64@3-64c. in futures. The future market in Liverpool closed firm, but the general effect of the Liverpool news was very discouraging on our market. The cotton news was very discouraging on our market.
