GENERAL MARKET REPORT.

New-York, July 8, 1893.

COTTON—The New-York cotton market was about 3 points higher for the day. It opened about even with the closing prices, but slowed off a few points on the appointment in regard to "The Chronicle's" weather statement, which was taken to be more favorable than was generally expected. Liverpool made a net advance of 2-64d, with spots showing a burbeling tendency, though sales were only 9,000 bales less than the 10 days been any day this week. Toward the close the temper of the room traders was quite bullish and the idea prevailed that the Government crop report due Monday will show an unfavorable crop condition. On this idea the market reacted and closed at about the highest prices of the day, August at the close being quoted at 7.91@7.92. To-day's trading was of a local character. "The Chronicle's" weather reports received up to Friday evening indicat that in Texas and vicinity, with a few other points, there has been no rain all the week and that moisture is needed. Elsewhere in the cotton belt the weather has in the main been favorable, although one or two districts report that there has been too much rain. The plant is not, as a rule, well cultivated. Grasshoppers have appeared in some counties of Central Texas, but no worm of extermination is in progress.

City—Sales of 6,000 sacks at 80c.

GRAIN—WHEAT—The wheat market at New-York opened with a strong feeling, partly carried over from the strength of yesterday, but more particularly due to the bullish character of the crop news, which included the Kansas State report, which said that abundant rains had fallen and crop conditions had improved, placing the total yield of winter wheat at 22,363,605 bush, and spring wheat yield of winter wheat at 22,363,605 bush, and spring wheat yield at 1,050,000 bush additional. The Kansas corn crop prospects to be much larger than last year's, and the condition of corn is placed at 85. Prime's statement to the effect that the winter wheat harvest was not showing the results expected, and that the outlook for spring wheat was not flattering was another bullish feature for wheat. The Atchison Company says the crop of Kansas will average from 30 to 40 per cent of the full crop. Another bullish influence was the Minneapolis crop report, indicating a great deal of shipboard last night 57,070 bales. Receipts at interior towns for the week were 9,584 bales, since September 1, 3,334,678 bales. The net overland movement since Sept 1 has been 829,238. GRAIN—WHEAT—The wheat market at New-York opened with a strong feeling, partly carried over from the strength of yesterday, but more particularly due to the bullish character of the crop news, which included the Kansas State report, which said that abundant rains had fallen and crop conditions had improved, placing the total yield of winter wheat at 22,363,605 bush, and spring wheat yield at 1,050,000 bush additional. The Kansas corn crop prospects to be much larger than last year's, and the condition of corn is placed at 85. Prime's statement to the effect that the winter wheat harvest was not showing the results expected, and that the outlook for spring wheat was not flattering was another bullish feature for wheat. The Atchison Company says the crop of Kansas will average from 30 to 40 per cent of the full crop. Another bullish influence was the Minneapolis crop report, indicating a great deal of shipboard last night 57,070 bales. Receipts at interior towns for the week were 9,584 bales, since September 1, 3,334,678 bales. The net overland movement since Sept 1 has been 829,238. The net receipts at all United States ports have been 1,005,885 bales, against 2,129,065 bales last year. The statistical position of cotton can be made up by this morning's cod position of cotton, as made up by this morning's Chronicle, is as follows:
