WHAT WAS DONE IN STOCKS.

Wednesday, November 8—p. m.

Speculation responded promptly to the political revolution accomplished by yesterday's elections. The bear faction, especially, was disturbed by the event, because it interpreted the result of the elections as an end of its hope of tariff revision, and of continued financial and commercial depression. The principal buying was for the short account, and, in a general way, the upward movement gauged the extent of the short interest. A change in the tariff, it had confidently been urged, would involve either a repeal of the bounty on domestic sugar or a removal of the duty on the refined article, while extreme pessimists had prepared themselves for both contingencies. It was not surprising, therefore, that Sugar Refining was the most active stock to-day, and that it advanced steadily about 6 per cent, and, in spite of a reaction in the last hour, closed at an advance of nearly 4 per cent. The industrial shares were depressed on Monday by rumors which, perhaps, had only a Wall Street basis, and their prominence to-day was not unnatural. The transactions in Sugar Refining, Chicago Gas and Distilling and Cattle Feeding were about one-half of the total business, although St. Paul and Burlington and Quincy among the Granger stocks, and Western Union Telegraph of the specialties, were active and strong. In the leading stocks, apart from Sugar Refining, which was in every way exceptional, final advances were from 1 to 2 per cent even after the momentary reaction in the last hour. London failed to exert an appreciable influence on the course of prices, although in the early dealings that market was strong in consequence partly of buying orders from New-York. Afterward it seemed to hesitate, because it could not fully appreciate the importance of the political overthrow in this country. Although there was no buying of consequence for European account, rates of foreign exchange were at the end heavy and lower, and a small engagement of gold for importation was reported. The closing was somewhat below the highest points, but it was firm and inclined to be active.

THE DAY IN THE BOND MARKET.

A sale of $18,000 coupon 4s at 112½ was made at the Stock Exchange and bid prices were advanced accordingly, but otherwise the Government bond market was without feature. The closing quotations were as follows:
