COUGHLIN NEARER THE GALLOWS.

NEW TESTIMONY THAT BEARS HEAVILY AGAINST THE EX-DETECTIVE.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—At the end of the fourth week of taking accusing testimony in the case of the People of Illinois against Daniel Coughlin and others, the chain of circumstantial evidence has been formidably strengthened and lengthened, until to-day the public prosecutors and the friends of Dr. Cronin, as well as the police officers interested, express their confidence that a conviction will, or, at least, should follow the presentation of the case for the State. On the other hand, "Dan" Coughlin and his two lawyers conceal their fears, if they have any, and make light of the testimony which is to be given in court for the first time next week by Mrs. Horton and Frank Bardeen. A disinterested and close observer of the famous conspiracy case is forced to the conclusion that the stalwart detective stands closer to the gallows to-day than he did in 1890. It is the reasoning and the opinion of the prosecution, and is based upon the assumption that they have a conscientious and honest jury to deal with. Some of the busy assistants of the public prosecutors have pointed the finger of suspicion at certain members of the jury because they appear to betray indifference while witnesses are being examined and because a few are moved to ask witnesses questions which are interpreted by the prosecutors favorably to Coughlin.

The lawyers and others engaged in the case rested from their labors most of to-day, as there was no trial. Next week promises to be as sensational as any since the trial began. The defence to-day bitterly denounced the police, alleging that they placed a threatening note under Bardeen's room door at the hotel in order to make it appear that he was being hounded by Coughlin's friends. The defence claims that Captain Schuettler, by Bardeen's own admission yesterday under examination, was the only person in Chicago Thursday night who knew of the witness's presence in this city. He did not even register at the hotel. Bardeen moved to another hotel to-day, and detectives are guarding him from harm and intimidation.

It is stated that Coughlin will take the stand in his own behalf. Important testimony to be introduced by the State makes the step necessary. Coughlin's health is failing, and it is stated that his weight has decreased over twenty pounds since the present trial began.

A RIVAL OF THE INLAND LLOYDS.

Bay City, Mich., Jan. 6.—The American Shipmasters' Association, which has a practical monopoly on the rating of American vessels for the underwriters East, has entered the field on the Great Lakes in opposition to the Inland Lloyds, and will publish a complete rating of lake vessels for the coming year. Competent shipbuilders are already at work on the necessary inspections. It is alleged that the Buffalo underwriters have had the upper hand in connection with the Lloyds rating, and used their advantage to the detriment of the underwriters at Chicago, Detroit, Milwaukee and other ports on the lakes. It has been customary in the past to place no insurance until after the annual publication of the Lloyds register was in the hands of all the underwriters. The claim is made that last year the Buffalo men secured the ratings, wrote the changes made in an old book and then sent representatives around the lakes securing all the cream of the business before their competitors were ready to do business at all.

LAKEWOOD BREATHES EASIER.

Lakewood, N. J., Jan. 6.—E. C. Chick, the Brooklyn man who would like to enter into partnership with George J. Gould, left town this evening, and Lakewood breathes easier. Frank S. Chick, a brother of the eccentric one, came on from Boston, arriving here at 5:10 p. m., and, after a good deal of persuasion, the former publisher of "The Aldine" was induced to get on the 6:25 p. m. train for New-York. He insisted that there was a conspiracy on the part of the political bosses of New-York and Brooklyn to get him out of Lakewood. He finally agreed to go as far as Jersey City, but said he would not return to his home in Brooklyn. Mr. and Mrs. Gould returned from New-York at 3:25 p. m. Chick was at the station when the train came in, but did not speak to the Goulds. He had been to their cottage several times during the day under the impression that they were at home, and early in the morning had sent Mrs. Gould a manuscript number of "Chick's Lakewood News." He said that he would issue this sheet daily while in Lakewood, as he has done while temporarily sojourning in various hospitals for the insane.
