CHANCES FOR YANKEES.

ADVANTAGES OFFERED BY THE ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.

THE REV. DR. J. F. THOMSON, WHO SPENT FORTY YEARS THERE AS A MISSIONARY, TALKS ABOUT THE COUNTRY.

The Rev. Dr. J. F. Thomson, a prominent Methodist Episcopal missionary who has lived in the Argentine Republic for the last forty years, is now in New-York. In the course of his sojourn there his work called him into all parts of the country and brought him into official and social relations with all classes of people. He talked recently with a Tribune reporter about the country, its climate, agricultural and other resources, its political condition, etc.

"Rice," he said, among other things, can be cultivated in the Argentine provinces of Tucuman, Salta, Jujuy, San Juan and Corrientes, and also in the territory of Misiones. The statistician, Señor Hilguera, gives the following items of cost: The best land for this purpose can be purchased at $56.20 a hecture—which is equal to two and one-half acres. The expense of cultivation, seeding and harvesting a hectare is $16.20. The annual yield will be 7,700 pounds, which can be sold in the Argentine Republic for not less than $75.50. Thus the yield for the first year would pay for the land and all expenses connected with its cultivation, and leave about $3 net profit; or, in other words, the net annual income over all outlay will be about $59 gold a hectare after the first year. In giving these facts, Señor Hilguera adds that these figures seem fabulous, but they are vouched for by the most serious and intelligent men engaged in the business.

A CHANCE FOR YANKEE INGENUITY.

"Argentina is a great sheep country," added the Doctor. "The average annual production of wool between the years of 1886 and 1891 was 283,000,163 pounds. Nearly all of this product was exported, and the amount of wool annually exported at the present time exceeds the above figures. About 40 per cent of the wool exported is dirt and grease. This dirt and grease contain about 10,000,000 pounds of carbonate of potassium, which at present is absolutely lost, and should be preserved for fertilizing the lands. Señor Hilguera says that if some skilful American would invent and take to that country machinery for expeditious and economical cleansing of the wool before shipping he would find in the enterprise the means of realizing a great fortune. He further says in the exploiting of that industry there is a vast field for the employment of large capital, which would produce high interest and also provide work for a great number of people.

AN OPENING FOR OYSTER CULTIVATION.

"The people of Montevideo, Buenos Ayres and Rosario," continued the Doctor, "are crazily fond of oysters, of which the supply is very limited and the quality ridiculously poor. It is no exaggeration to say that anybody could eat 100 of them, they are so small. On the coast of Brazil the bivalve is found in great abundance as nature produces it; but nobody has taken the trouble to cultivate it. If anybody with sufficient skill and perseverance would go into that business there is a handsome competency awaiting him; for in this oyster cultivation nature has provided suitable places and every other needful means in the Argentine Republic.

HEALTH RESORTS IN THE COUNTRY.

"There are three famous health resorts—Mendoza on the west, Cosquin in the centre, and Rosario de la Frontera in the north. The two former places are unsurpassed for the benefits they afford consumptive patients. I have known personally people who have been apparently rescued from the jaws of death by twelve months' residence in one or the other of the two first places named. The third place has famous thermal springs, and is a resort for those who are suffering from cutaneous troubles and other ailings arising from impurities of the blood. There must be a good many young men in this country who are in delicate health, and yet have plenty of money. Why do they not go down to Argentina and engage in the cultivation of rice, which would demand only a little of their time, pay all of their expenses and permit them to live at either of the above health resorts, according to the nature of their complaint? There never was a time in the history of that country where money could be placed in various other enterprises to greater advantage to the lender on absolute security than now. The reason is there is now a business or financial depression there. It is therefore just the time to enter a new country with capital, inasmuch as the rebound is absolutely sure to come. As to the climate, there is no better on the face of this planet. In forty years I have never known of a single case of death from sunstroke or from the effects of heat.

THE POLITICAL SITUATION.

"As to the political situation of the Argentine Republic," said Dr. Thomson, "the parties are not distinguished by any great difference of opinion as to the principles of the administration of the Government. The party names are taken very frequently from the leaders. Thus there are the Mitristas, Alsinistas, Roquestas, etc., from the notable men, Mitre, Alsina and Roca, who have figured so extensively in public affairs. It is not the platform, which is the same for all parties, so much as the men who are on it.

"With regard to the revolutions of which we hear so much," added the speaker, "they are not half as dangerous as the people in this country suppose. In fact, they are mere political quarrels that do not at all interfere with foreign residents as far as their personal safety is concerned, and very slightly with their business. The worst effect of these disturbances is that they retard the naturalization of foreigners, who do not wish to be exposed to blood-letting in these family squabbles."

THEY DON'T WANT MR. BRECKINRIDGE.

Chicago, June 1.—Fulton, Ill., is not to have W. C. P. Breckinridge as its Fourth of July orator. An invitation, it appears, was accepted, but in the light of subsequent events was recalled. When the news leaked out that the invitation had been sent to Breckinridge a storm arose. The Rev. W. B. Norton, pastor of the Fulton Methodist Episcopal Church, explains the later developments in the situation in a letter received in Chicago yesterday, in which he scores Breckinridge severely. He adds:

"We want the world to know that Fulton hasn't relapsed into barbarism nor developed such an abnormal condition of refined sensualism that would welcome to her midst the most conspicuous example of whitewashed libertinism this generation has seen."

LUTHERAN HOME FOR THE AGED OPENED.

Washington, June 1.—The National Lutheran Home for the Aged, at Montello, near this city, was opened to-day. The house stands on an elevated site, and is surrounded by about thirty acres of land, the gift of Mrs. Sarah Utermehle, of this city. Clergymen from Baltimore, Philadelphia and elsewhere took part in the exercises. The cottage plan for the home has been adopted by the trustees, so that instead of one large central building it is proposed to erect a group of cottages, thus maintaining the features of home life in the institution.
