NEW-YORKERS IMPLICATED.

SOME SUMMER RESIDENTS OF INTERLAKEN MAY SUFFER FOR THEIR CONNECTION WITH MR. MORGAN'S GAMBLING HOUSE.

Asbury Park, N. J., Sept. 17 (Special).—William J. Morgan, late president of the Long Branch Club of Interlaken, a fashionable cottage resort near Asbury Park, whose place was closed in August by the Law and Order League, was before Judge Conover, at Freehold, last week, and pleaded guilty to the charge of keeping a disorderly house. Subsequently he gave much valuable information touching the operations of the club as a gambling and drinking resort, besides furnishing a list of members, trustees and officers who were behind him in the unlawful enterprise. Morgan's statement implicates a number of leading business men of Asbury Park and several prominent summer cottagers from New-York and Philadelphia. This evidence was made the basis for the issuance of a big batch of warrants to-day, which were placed in the hands of Constable Strong. That officer this afternoon succeeded in arresting Jacob Doll, jr.; Charles H. Mathews, Alfred Birch and Fletcher Appleby. They were all held in bail to await the action of the October Grand Jury.

NEWS SERVICES CONTRASTED.

Philadelphia, Sept. 17.—The Chicago organization styling itself the "Associated Press" sent out a report this afternoon, dated Hazelton, Penn., that fourteen men had been buried in Honeybrook colliery. Although this was a mere rumor, it was sent out for publication, and was published by the newspapers relying upon that association for their news. The United Press refrained from circulating the rumor, and was soon able to furnish the exact facts in the case, which were that a premature blast had seriously injured three men and slightly injured eight others, and that no one had been entombed.

St. Paul, Sept. 17.—"The Morning Call" this morning has the following editorial:

During the last two weeks the public in this section have had their first opportunity to contrast the news service of the United and Associated Press. When the United Press service has heretofore been supplied in St. Paul it has been intermingled in print with the Associated, but in "The Morning Call" the United Press report is given distinctively. "The Call" service shows the excellence of the news report it has secured. The notable events in this country last week were the Grand Army Encampment at Pittsburg and the Breckinridge-Owens contest in Kentucky. The United Press covered both of these in a manner far more complete than the Associated Press, and the only full and comprehensive history given of these matters appeared in "The Morning Call."

FATHER M'FAUL APPOINTED BISHOP.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 17.—The Very Rev. James A. McFaul, of St. Mary's Cathedral, of this city, has received word of his appointment to the bishopric of the Catholic diocese of Trenton to succeed the late Bishop O'Farrell, under whom he was Vicar-General. Father McFaul is at present the administrator of the diocese.
