

The newspapers have spoken favorably of the last legislature, and we think justly so. We do not remember to have seen anything in the debates...

One of the most noticeable things reflected in the proceedings of the legislature is that, whether real or not, there is a general feeling that the State is more prosperous now than for a long time.

Catching up the spirit of progress in the industrial world, the legislature showed an appreciation of the importance of advancing correspondingly in education. The State colleges received nearly all that they asked for, and the House, perhaps quicker than the conservative Senate to respond to public sentiment, voted to appropriate $100,000 to the public schools of the State.

The wisdom of the inhibition of the constitution against local and special laws appears in the work of the General Assembly just finished. It used to be that "Swamp Hollow" wanted and got a particular law, and "Rabbit Hollow" or "Bazzard's Hole" or some other little community wanted and got another.

The Act requiring the registration of births, marriages and deaths, if properly enforced, will prove valuable. It is what we conceive it to be, it will assist wonderfully in the examination and tracing of titles. As it is now, these facts often have to be obtained outside of records, and sometimes can not be obtained at all.

Among the acts amending the statute law of the State is the law requiring clerks of court to satisfy in the record a mortgage which has been foreclosed. As we understand it this merely facilitates the work of searching for liens on property.

The General Assembly did all the Confederate veterans asked of it. The new Pension Act is really the work of a committee of veterans. The appropriation for a monument at Chickamauga was made as petitioned by the Confederate veterans.

The separate car bill went through. It provides an equal fare of three cents per mile and all-ws no second-class car. Another railroad bill which has become law is Mr. E. B. Regardale's bill requiring two railroads passing through any town or city to make connections, and transfer cars at one dollar per car.

PUERTO RICAN TARIFF.

When we read the debates in Congress on the Puerto Rican Tariff, we feel the truth of the assertion of the London Spectator that this government as now constituted is completely in the hands of the great financiers and trust companies. And we further feel that when the confederacy went down the constitution went down with it. The instrument has simply been made an elastic instrument to stretch and contract to suit the pockets of the millionaire. Equality of law is not recorded when equality does not suit the interests of the great financiers and trust companies. Local self-government is denied, and one part of the territory of the United States can not have the same law as another part if their interests are conflicting. Hawaii is owned by a few millionaires, and her products are admitted into the markets of the United States free of duty. Puerto Rico is owned to a large extent by small farmers, and their products must pay a duty. A clear discrimination this is between the two classes.

If Congress can govern Puerto Rico by some special laws totally different from the laws applicable to the United States, then the government of Puerto Rico becomes subject merely to the whims of Congress. But after all, we ought not to be surprised that many Republicans are trying to levy tribute on Puerto Rico for the benefit of another section. The South has been familiar with this system of legal robbery. It knows how it has been taxed, until the burden has been so heavy that it became almost unbearable, merely that the millionaires of the north might become richer and richer. Class and sectional legislation has been the history of the Republican party.

FEASTERTVILLE ITEMS.

We are pained to chronicle the recent death of Mrs. Sarah Gladwin, which occurred on the 20th inst. She had been seriously ill for three or four weeks with la grippe. She was in the sixty-sixth year of her age. She was a consistent member of Beaver Creek Baptist church, ever following in the footsteps of our blessed Saviour. Her quiet, unassuming and affectionate disposition endeared her to all of her relatives and acquaintances. As I looked for the last time upon the countenance from which for the first time in so many years a glance of kindly recognition and word of welcome came, memories of the past came trooping through my mind of the first school I attended at Beaver Creek church, near her residence. The writer would hurry from school to Aunt Sarah's to receive a kindly greeting. Those days will ever be indelibly associated in my mind. Who would not be willing to live life over again and enjoy such pleasures? Sixty years ago our loved one was a little tot playing around this the home in which she was raised just as my little niece often do. I often look at them and meditate what a wonderful change fifty or sixty years will bring about. Mr. Editor, in that time you and I and many others who are now fast approaching the mill post that marks half way on life's journey will have passed away and others will take our places. The remains of our deceased relative were brought back to her father's old home where the funeral services were very appropriately conducted by the Rev. P. B. Ingraham, after which her remains were interred in the family burial ground, in the field over which she had often rambled in childhood. If each one for whom she did some kind act or spoke some words of kindness were to deposit a flower upon her grave she would sleep to-night beneath a bed of flowers. She has gone from among us and we shall miss her very much. The Whole World holds out a blessed assurance of a glorious immortality and future recognition beyond the grave. She has crossed over the river and received the reward of a faithful servant.

Rev P B Ingraham is visiting his members and friends in this community. Mr W J Weir, of Clowney's, was in this community last week. Maj C W Facette, who was quite sick some time ago, visited his daughter, Mrs S S Coleman, a few days ago. Many friends are glad to see him up again. The Major is our oldest citizen and is remarkably active for a man of his age.

For Over Fifty Years Mrs. WINDLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for over 50 years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, soothes the gums, allays all pain, cures whooping cough, and is the best remedy for colic. It will relieve the poor mother's suffering immediately. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. Twenty five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Windlow's Soothing Syrup" and take no other kind. 11-17

NEWS FROM BUCKLECK. The farmers of this section are quite blue on account of the wet weather, as some of them have spring sets to plow in. The fall oats and wheat are looking fine. Mr N A Peay, of Greenwood, is visiting friends at Buckleck. Mrs W V Peay is visiting relatives in Chester. Mr P O Mellichamp has returned home after several weeks' stay at her old home, where she witnessed the death of her mother, Mrs Graves. The latter visited this place last summer and those who met her will all warmly remember her. She was a kind, loving and cheerful Christian woman. Though a great sufferer she was always cheerful. The friends of Mrs Mellichamp will sympathize with her in her bereavement. Mr R L Hallford, who has been quite ill, is improving. The Wateree River has been out of its banks several times since Christmas. The first that came down on the 11th did a great deal of damage, as it broke the new bridge near Camden. The ferryman at Peay's Ferry caught it, but having no help and the water being deep and swift could not manage it, so he says himself he let it go. The health of the community is good. Six weeks ago we predicted that the South Carolina legislature would do nothing in annual session. As far as we can gather, that was precisely what was done. The most tangible result of its deliberations was to provide dispensary jobs for the three of its own members.

The board of control was established by act of the legislature. When a new board was organized and the members of the legislature were appointed by the legislature. We do not wish to be unkind, but this performance has some peculiar aspects.

MYRTLE LOCALS.

Farmers have been unable to make but very little preparations towards another crop as yet, owing to the incessant rains. Very little ploughing has been done, and in some places none at all.

The grain crop has been tried very severely by the cold, freezing weather of the past month or so. Some think that the ground freezing and thawing so constantly has been the principal cause of the hurt the grain has received.

There will be about the same acreage of cotton planted this year as last. Some that a very large amount of fertilizers will be used again this year, the rise in price, from the way it is being hauled out from the railroad. We believe fertilizing is very helpful to all crops, but more would be made at home, as well as a great many other things we do not make here that we should. Farmers, or most of them, have lots of hard lessons to learn about their own farms, but the most essential is economy.

A small crowd of young folks enjoyed a very pleasant occasion at Mr. M. L. Cooper's on the night of the 20th inst. The evening was very pleasant, spent by all and many were the pleasant thoughts implanted in each mind as a reminder of another pleasant social event. Several suppers have been given for the benefit of Zion M. E. Church; in each was realized a handsome sum. The church has been recently plastered and remodeled inside very substantially.

AUGUST FLOWER.

"It is a surprising fact," says Prof. Hutton, "that in my travels in all parts of the world, for the last ten years, I have met more people having used Green's August Flower than any other remedy, for dyspepsia, deranged liver and stomach, and for constipation. I find for tourists and salesmen, for persons filling office positions, where headaches and general bad feelings from irregular habits exist, that Green's August Flower is a grand remedy. It does not injure the system, is pleasant to use, and is excellent for nervous stomachs and indigestion." Sold by dealers in all civilized countries.

MOSSYDALE LOCALS.

This section was visited by a cold wave on last Saturday, accompanied by snow, which covered the ground. Since then we have had rain with sleet and some hail on yesterday. Contractor J. L. Canthen is erecting the residence for Mr. Pope Brooks, near the quarry. The grain crop has been considerably injured in some localities. The Mossy Dale school house is now occupied. It is a neat and comfortable building and reflects credit upon the judgment of the trustees. They are still awaiting the arrival of the books. Your correspondent, in company with Mr. J. L. Canthen, paid a visit to the capital to hear the distinguished speaker, W. J. Bryan. It was a great treat to listen to him and to look into the honesty of his face. His speech was a masterly production and riveted the attention of his audience, and doubtless did much good in strengthening the cause of Democracy. To appreciate his speech properly is to hear him. I do not regret my trip. The farmers are moving along by way of preparation for their crops. The hot supper at Mr. J. L. Canthen's was quite a success. By the way, what has gotten wrong with our mails? For while we got the Herald on Tuesday, often on Wednesday, now it is often on Thursday. Get after the agents or whoever is responsible. T. B. M. K. A DARK DAY BRIGHTENED.

Mr. Editor: Once in awhile I am disposed to offer something to your columns, and just now I have been "rambling," as Bill App so aptly puts it. Yes, think of your paper and its staff of correspondents; they remind me of what our school histories used to tell us of ancient nations that "rose, flourished and disappeared." Verily, some of them do rise, flourish and disappear, but it is not of them that I propose to speak at present. At some other time I may discuss your quacken quill-drivers.

The day was dreary, not that the sun did not shine, or that nature had not done its duty to dissipate the gloom, but I was nervous and despondent, nursing a foot that had got the stroke of my axe that was intended for the wood that I was splitting. So I was relieved to get your valued paper, hoping to find something to divert my thoughts from self and suffering. But scanning its columns with its legislative proceedings, its dispensary troubles, the sensational and its casualties, the killing of the Filipinos, from all of which we learn too well "the universality of man." Also, we learn too well "the universality of man."

Why has the average reader such a taste; yet, a passion to learn of the evils that exist; of the darker side of life? Why not try to show more of the better side of man's nature?

Turning the pages I find that article by Rev. H. K. Ezell, containing the private letter from Mr. Jennings, all so full of kindness—the genuine gratitude and appreciatives of unexpected kindness—this was pleasant to read, and cheering. We can, as neighbors, always show kindness, and would it not be well to bring out often these things showing the better side of nature. That "A man may take a neighbor's part, though poverty hourly stare him; A man may take a neighbor's part, yet have no cash to spare him." It is not well, sometimes, to speak of the virtues and kindnesses of others and show that they are appreciated, and not wait to proclaim their virtues after they are gone and dear, lamented father's friend, and we have a kind regard for him. He has served the people of the county long and faithfully, and kindly. Well do we remember, nearly thirty years ago, when he taught music in many places through the county, tuning the voices of the young to song and praise, cultivating the faculty of vocal song now so neglected. How he endeared himself to the young as a gentleman, Christian and a friend, and has long served his country faithfully and honorably, in an office of trust a disappointment, and has been as ever kind and considerate to all.

I could say more but desist. This, at least, is due. The pleasing article helped to brighten a dull day, and I may be allowed an expression. Meville Mellichamp. Bryant, S. C.

Hidden Beauty. In Egypt the custom is for Princesses to hide their beauty by covering the lower part of the face with a veil. In America the beauty of many of our women is hidden because of the weakness and sickness peculiar to the sex. If the Egyptian custom prevailed in this country, many sufferers would be glad to cover their premature wrinkles, their sunken cheeks, their unhealthful complexion, from the eyes of the world with the veil of the Orient.

Bradfield's Female Regulator. brings out a woman's true beauty. It makes her strong and well in those organs upon which her whole general health depends. It corrects all menstrual disorders. It stops the drains of Leucorrhoea. It restores the woman to its proper place. It removes the causes of headache, backache and nervousness. It takes the poor, debilitated, weak, haggard, fading woman and puts her on her feet again, making her face beautiful by making her body well.

COLORED STATE CONVENTION.

Columbia, S. C., February 17, 1900. Pursuant to a call for a State convention of the colored farmers of South Carolina by the projectors, William Butler, John A. Williams and A. E. Hampton, to convene in the city of Columbia on Saturday, the 17th day of February, for the purpose of taking under advisement the better condition of the colored race in this State, the convention was held in the old Cooper and Taylor hall, and was composed of delegates from several counties. The meeting opened at 12 m. and after reading the call and stating the object Rev. J. W. Reeves, from Lexington, nominated A. E. Hampton for chairman of the convention.

All motion of Rev. J. C. Clark, that all nominations close, it was carried, and Prof. A. E. Hampton was elected chairman of the meeting and Rev. J. C. Clark was elected secretary. Several short speeches were made in support of the plan of organization of the colored race in this State based upon higher principle.

The convention elected an advisory board as follows: William Butler, Lexington; S. Rabb, Fairfield; Ben Thomson, Newberry; J. F. McRae, Sumter; Rev. J. W. Reeves, Lexington; Rev. J. C. Clark and A. E. Hampton, of Richland.

The resolutions were proposed and adopted by the convention as follows: Whereas the delegates who have assembled here in response to a call of the projectors for a State convention for the avowed purpose of taking the question of bettering the condition of the colored farmers and laborers of the State under advisement in reference to the moral, industrial and educational improvement; and whereas it is the sense of this convention that it is to act in the capacity of an advisory body to propose plans and methods by which the race may be brought into a closer and harmonious consolidation promotive of the common good of the colored race and the State.

Resolved, that the advisory board hereby appointed by this convention, be authorized to draft the constitution, by-laws, rules and regulations to be submitted with the plan of the organization of the colored race in this State; and that the same be reported to the convention for consideration and adoption, which will be called to meet at Columbia on Saturday, April 14th.

Resolved, that a copy of the proceedings and resolutions of this convention be sent to the press of the State for publication.

A. Bartley, J. C. Clarke, Secy., B. Thompson.

A Convictive Answer. "I hobbled into Mr. Blackmon's drug store one evening," says Wesley Nelson, of Hamilton, Ga., "and he asked me to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism with which I had suffered for a long time. I told him I had no faith in any medicine as they all failed. He said: 'Well if Chamberlain's Pain Balm does not help you, you need not pay for it.' I took a bottle of it home and used it according to the directions and in one week I was cured, and have not since been troubled with rheumatism." Sold by McMaster Co.
