A NOVEL SUBMARINE CRAFT.

BUILDING A VESSEL IN BALTIMORE DESIGNED TO EXPLORE OCEAN DEPTHS.

Baltimore, Sept. 16 (Special).—The keel will be laid this week at the Malster shipyards, this city, of a submarine vessel that is intended by its inventor to work wonders in the ocean depths. The boat is to be built by W. T. Malster for the Lake Submarine Company. Simon Lake, a successful machinist of Baltimore, is the inventor and president of the company. Mr. Malster is the treasurer. The boat will resemble the cigar-shaped Nautilus, with which Jules Verne, in his story, went 20,000 leagues under the sea. One difference will be that the Lake boat is intended for freight purposes, and will have a speed under water of only eight miles an hour. The Lake boat also has no evil designs on anybody and will sink in ships. It is intended for commercial purposes and to restore to commerce much of the valuable goods lost at sea. The boat will be built of steel. It will be propelled by steam on the surface and by electricity from storage batteries on the bottom of the sea. It can be worked at a depth of 150 feet, which will allow it to go in some places out as far as 100 miles from the coast. It is within this distance that most wrecks occur.

The trial vessel to be built at the Malster shipyards will be about 40 feet long and 10 or 15 feet in diameter. It is made small in order to be transported easily to Europe on a steamer, after a trial in the port of Baltimore. It will carry a crew of six men, and will be capable of staying on the bottom forty hours without renewing the air. The openings where the divers will go out to work will be on the bottom, and the water will be kept out of the apartment from which they will leave the boat by air pressure. Plenty of compressed air will be taken along, to be used when necessary. Powerful electric lights will illuminate the ocean bed for 200 or 300 feet around the vessel, as it goes hunting for wrecks. There will be a propeller in the rear, and when it strikes bottom it will run on three wheels, two of which will be furnished with claws so as to act as additional propellers. The operator will stay in the front, behind the electric lights. The relative air and water pressure will be shown by gauges for each. A derrick will be fastened on the front end, to be used in lifting wreckage.

Freight boats will accompany the motor-boat, being attached like trailers on the streetcars. They will remain open while the diver is at work. He will load the wreckage on the derrick, which will swing around and drop it into the freight trailers. When they are full the water will be forced out by the release of compressed air, and the freight boats will be made so light that they will float to the surface.

The company expects not only to raise wreckage and seek sunken treasures, but to discover coral, sponge and other valuable submarine deposits.

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

A CLASH BETWEEN THE SUPERINTENDENTS AND THE COMMISSIONERS.

There was a slight clash at yesterday's meeting of the Board of Education between a committee of the Board and the Board of Superintendents. All nominations for places in the schools are supposed to come from the Board of Superintendents. The Evening School Committee of that Board nominated Wilbur F. Hudson for principal of the East Side Evening High School. The Evening School Committee of the Board of Education said that he was not the best man who could be found for the place. The Board of Superintendents backed up their own committee and presented Mr. Hudson's name for the place to the full Board at yesterday's meeting. After considerable argument as to whether to accept or reject the report of the Board of Superintendents nominating Mr. Hudson, the whole matter was referred to an executive meeting of the Board, at which City Superintendent Jasper, the secretary of the Board of Superintendents, and the Committee on Evening Schools of that Board were directed to be present.

The first business was the receipt of Superintendent Jasper's report of the non-opening of some of the schools and the reasons for their not being ready for occupancy. The report has been published in full. It was received without discussion.

A resolution was adopted to ask the Controller to issue bonds for $14,000 for the purchase of a school site at One-hundred-and-fourteenth-st. and Lexington-ave., and for $106,408 30 for a site at East Houston and Essex sts.

Then came the question of the appointment of Mr. Hudson.

Dr. Edgar Dubs Shimer was appointed an assistant superintendent at a salary of $4,000 a year to fill the vacancy made by Walter B. Gunnison, who resigned to become principal of the new Erasmus High School, in Flatbush. Dr. Shimer was graduated from Muhlenberg College, Pennsylvania. He got his M. A. degree in 1874, and Ph. D. in 1887. He has been teaching in this city since 1875. In 1887 he was appointed lecturer on psychology in the New-York University. In 1890 he was made professor in the school of pedagogy, of which he is now senior professor. He is a member of the New-York University faculty of the Graduate School, where he conducts two courses for the Ph. D. degree.

The report of the Committee on Buildings, authorizing the advertising for bids for the erection of the new school at One-hundred-and-forty-seventh-st. and Beach-ave., was adopted.

Commissioner Beneville offered this resolution:

"Resolved, That the Board of Superintendents be, and the same is hereby, requested to report, with the changes and modifications of the course of study in our schools now under consideration, a plan or method for the systematic training of pupils in citizenship and the rights and duties thereupon dependent."

Commissioner Strauss objected that the matter was too important to be summarily disposed of, but his objections were outvoted and the resolution was adopted.

A resolution by Commissioner Hurlbut that a committee be appointed to confer with the subcommittee on legislation of the Commissioners of Consolidation was amended by Commissioner Hubbell to read:

"Resolved, That a committee of ——, of which the president of this Board shall be chairman, be appointed to communicate with the committee preparing the draft of the laws of the Greater New-York, and to offer its services and advice, if requested, and to report the result of said communication to this Board."

After a long discussion it was decided to leave the matter in abeyance until the next meeting, October 6.

Commissioner Hubbell announced that President Maclay had decided, in order to put a stop to cigarette smoking among the pupils of the public schools, to give a badge to every pupil of the school having the largest proportionate roll of anti-cigarette smokers.

The executive session to consider the matter of the nomination of Mr. Hudson was held as soon as the regular meeting adjourned. At its close the City Superintendent announced that the nomination of Mr. Hudson had been rejected.

A COUNT WITH A GRIEVANCE.

HE CAUSES THE ARREST OF TWO RACETRACK TOUTS WHO GAVE HIM BAD "TIPS"—THEY SAY HE IS A PROFESSIONAL GAMBLER.

Anthony L. Munch, twenty-nine years old, who said he was a Bavarian Count, traveling in this country for several years, made a complaint in Yorkville Police Court yesterday afternoon against Edward G. Lawrence, twenty-eight years old, alias Moran, of No. 682 Sixth-ave., and Eugene Higgins, twenty-five years old, alias McNult, of No. 98 East Fourteenth-st. Munch alleged that the defendants induced him on Monday last, at the Stamford races, to place $180 on a losing horse. They then tried to get him to play $1,000, followed him to New-York and tried to persuade him to accompany them to Lawrence's rooms, as they knew he had a large amount of money with him. Magistrate Flammer said Munch must procure a warrant in Stamford, and dismissed the case. Munch said he would have the men rearrested.

Munch's story was to the effect that he met the defendants on Broadway last Friday week. Lawrence accosted him, saying that he could put him in a way to make a barrel of money. He refused to talk with them and tried to shake them off, but they persisted in following him. Finally Lawrence became confidential, and said he knew a system of wire-tapping by which he could "strike the business" ahead of the poolrooms. Lawrence described the scheme, but he would have nothing to do with him.

That night he was at the Marlborough Hotel until a late hour, playing billiards. Lawrence and Higgins met him as he left the hotel and renewed their solicitations. They were unsuccessful, but in the Grand Central Station on the following day they appeared again. On Monday, Munch said, he went to Stamford, and when almost there found that the two men were on the same train. Just as the last race was about to be run the fellows rushed up to him and said excitedly:

"Now is your chance. Here's a dead sure thing; put a bet on this horse!"

As he had $180 in change, "just for luck," he decided to risk it. Lawrence wanted to take the money, saying that he was better known and could place it to better advantage, but Munch refused, placing the money himself. The horse lost. A young fellow, standing by, on the man's assurance, also put up $100, all the money he had. He pawned his watch to get home.

On the way back to New-York the two fellows insisted that Munch should accompany them home. He determined to put a stop to their persecutions and reported them to Captain Delaney, at the Grand Central police sub-station. Yesterday afternoon they met him again at the Grand Central station, and when they persisted in talking to him he informed Captain Delaney, and they were arrested.

The men denied Munch's story, although they admitted that they had given him "tips." "Why, he's a professional racetrack gambler," they said.
