WESTCHESTER COUNTY.

PORT CHESTER.

The cantata, "The Crucifixion," by Sir John Stainer, will be given by the choir of Christ Church, Rye, to-morrow afternoon, at 4:15 o'clock. The tenor solo will be sung by Mr. Smock, of All Angels' Episcopal Church, New-York City, and Harry P. Girard, of Christ Church, will sing the barytone parts.

A number of prominent residents of Port Chester have clubbed together and purchased from the Government a consignment of the Mauser rifles surrendered to the American troops at Santiago. The rifles arrived yesterday. They are in good condition, and will be used for household ornaments.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Miss Lillian Huntington Clarke to Abraham B. Angevine. The ceremony will take place at the home of the bride's mother on Wednesday, April 5, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

J. Alfred Judge, a private of the 1st Volunteer Engineer Corps, will lecture in the Baptist Church next Thursday evening, on the campaign in Porto Rico.

The annual church service for the firemen of Port Chester will be held to-morrow evening in St. Peter's Episcopal Church. The rector, the Rev. Charles Edward Bruder, is chaplain of the local department. He will be assisted by the Rev. James Le Baron Johnson, chaplain of the New-York Fire Department, and by Dr. Cornelius B. Smith, of St. James's Church.

PEEKSKILL.

The Surrogate of the county, Theodore H. Silkman, held his monthly court in his office in the Savings Bank Building on Thursday, and disposed of a number of cases.

All the letter-boxes in town have been painted with aluminum paint. Since Postmaster Montross has been at the helm a large new American flag floats from the Postoffice Building.

Building is booming in Peekskill. The business of the Baker Underwear Company has increased so much that it has given contracts for an addition to its factory. It will be 163 feet long, extending from the present building along James-st. to Park-st., and will be 40 feet wide. The company is talking of a branch factory at Tarrytown. The Union Stove Works' trade is also increasing, and contracts have been made for an addition to the main foundry. The new structure will be of brick, five stories high, 62 feet long and 18 feet wide, filling up the rest of the space between Central-ave. and Mechanic-st.

YONKERS.

The annual meeting of the Dorcas Society of the Westminster Presbyterian Church was held on Thursday at the home of Mrs. H. F. Peck, No. 2 Aqueduct Place. These officers were elected: Mrs. Ernest L. Muller, president; Mrs. George R. Cutting, vice-president; Miss Nichols, secretary; Mrs. J. R. McWilliams, treasurer; Mrs. G. W. Read, Mrs. Richmond Edie and Mrs. Samuel Hopkins, directresses. An interesting report was received from the treasurer.

About forty members and their friends attended the card party of the Yonkers Bicycle Club on Thursday night. The prizes were won by Isaiah Cunningham, Herbert Sherwood and William Elliott. After the card-playing there was a short entertainment and refreshments.

MOUNT VERNON.

The preliminary arrangements for the annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church to be held in this city in the week of April 5 are being completed, and the occasion is looked forward to with interest and expectancy. There are about three hundred ministers in the conference, not including the elders and visitors, nearly all of whom are to be entertained at the homes of church people in this city. The Conference will be presided over by Bishop John H. Vincent. Out of the 280 pastorates there are only seventeen compulsory changes to be made by expiration of time. Three of the presiding elders may also be moved.

A concert is to be given in the Chester Hill Methodist Episcopal Church next Monday evening by the Wesleyan Glee Club.

SING SING.

The minstrel entertainment of the Mount Pleasant Field Club at Olive Opera House will be the chief social affair of the season following Easter. Rehearsals are being regularly held, and the entertainment promises to be even a greater success than the one given by the same organization several years ago. Among the local talent who will take part are Messrs. Deming, Hapgood and Jenkins, as end men; Colonel Francis Larkin, jr., and Dr. William P. Brandegee, ballad singers. There are still one end man and a ballad singer to be announced. Harry Warner, of Philadelphia, will appear in monologue and banjo solos, and the performance will end with the comedietta, "Who's to Win Him?" in which several of the women members of the club will appear.

A series of concerts by the Ossining Orchestra is to be given at the Ossining Chapel, the first to take place next Friday evening.

There is a sort of unwritten law in this town that the offices of village collector and town collector shall be held by the same person. At the recent village election, while the greater portion of the Republican ticket was elected, the Democratic candidate for Collector managed to pull through with a good majority. In consequence of this defeat Charles S. Locke, the Republican candidate for the village collectorship, also nominated for the same office in the town, has withdrawn his name. He filed his withdrawal with the Town Clerk on Thursday, but that official refused to receive it until a mandamus was served on him yesterday morning, issued by Judge Smith Lent in the County Court. As it is too late to place another candidate in nomination, there will be a vacancy for the office on the Republican town ticket to be voted on Tuesday.

NEW-ROCHELLE.

A meeting of the women of New-Rochelle has been called for next Tuesday afternoon in the parlors of St. John's Methodist Episcopal Church. The call is signed by Mrs. Bergholz, Mrs. Richard Lathers, jr., and the wives of the pastors of the churches. The object of the meeting is to organize a woman's auxiliary of the Young Men's Christian Association.

Mrs. Julia E. Romaine, wife of F. Hall Romaine, died on Wednesday. She was forty-seven years old. Burial will be in Woodlawn.

NEW-ROCHELLE A CITY.

THE BILL SIGNED BY THE GOVERNOR—ELECTION ON APRIL 18—CHARTER TAKES EFFECT A WEEK LATER.

The Board of Trade of New-Rochelle yesterday received a telegram from W. J. Youngs, private secretary to Governor Roosevelt, announcing that the Governor had signed the bill making New-Rochelle a city. The charter will take effect on Tuesday, April 25, and does away with the town election which was to have been held on March 28 and for which four tickets were in the field. Instead of the election on March 28, there will be a city election on Tuesday, April 18, and the officers then elected will begin their duties on April 25, with the beginning of the new municipality. The officers to be elected are as follows: A Mayor, two Aldermen from each of the four wards, a police justice at $1,500 a year, a receiver of taxes at $2,000, three assessors at $700 each and four Supervisors and two justices of the peace, the latter to receive fees. The Mayor appoints a city clerk at $2,000, a year, city engineer at $1,800, corporation counsel at $2,500, city treasurer at $1,500, superintendent of streets at $1,500, commissioner of charities at $800 and members of the Sewer, Police, Fire and Health boards, all of whom must be confirmed by the Aldermen. A Board of Education of nine members is also appointed by the Mayor, but without the confirmation of the Aldermen.

Other appointive offices are a health officer at $1,000 a year, a clerk of the Board of Health at $500, a deputy tax receiver at $600, a chief of police at $1,080, a sergeant at $960, ten patrolmen at $900 each, a superintendent of schools at $3,000, a clerk of the Sewer Commissioners at $500, an assistant assessor at $300, and a clerk of the Board of Education at $800, together with a number of minor appointments.

All terms of elective offices are for two years. For the first year, under the charter the Board of Aldermen will consist of eighteen members, owing to a section which permits the ten members now in the Board to hold over until their terms end in 1900. As nine of these are Democrats the Republicans, if they elect every Alderman at the first city election, can only hope to tie the Board. The Republican City Committee yesterday called the ward primaries for April 3 and the city convention for April 5 in Lambden's Hall. At the primaries Aldermen and Supervisors will be nominated, and at the city convention delegates chosen at the primaries will nominate a Mayor, police justice, receiver of taxes, three assessors and five Aldermen-at-large. The Democrats have not yet called their convention.

New-Rochelle is the third and smallest city of Westchester County. Yonkers has an estimated population of 40,000, Mount Vernon 22,000 and New-Rochelle 13,000.

CLAIMANT MUST SATISFY JUDGMENT.

Justice Truax in the Supreme Court yesterday granted two motions made in the suit of Alexander Stewart, who claims to be the heir of A. T. Stewart, to eject ex-Judge Henry Hilton from the Stewart Building. Stewart was called on by counsel for ex-Judge Hilton to disclose his authority for bringing his action, and Justice Truax was also asked to stay his suit until he satisfies the costs in another suit brought by him to recover possession of other portions of the Stewart estate in which he was defeated. Judgment was entered against him, with costs, which he has not paid.

NEW-YORK CITY.

Children in this city left their schools yesterday with particular satisfaction, for they will not have to go back to them all next week. The bylaws of the School Board grant a holiday the entire week in which Good Friday occurs.

The Commissioners of Accounts yesterday reported to the Mayor that they had examined the accounts of the Bureau of Licenses for the Borough of Queens since its establishment, on January 1, 1899, and in that time $255 had been collected, all of which had been accounted for.

Lieutenant Daniel Godfrey's British Guards' Band and the Pipers of the 5th Royal Scots will arrive in New-York this morning at 10:30 o'clock. They will be met upon their arrival at Desbrosses-st. by the 7th Regiment Band and Drum and Fife Corps, and will be escorted by way of Desbrosses-st. to Canal-st., to Broadway, and to the quarters at the Everett House, in Union Square. They will arrive at the Everett House about 11:20 a. m. At night the British Guards' Band and the 7th Regiment Band will give a concert in the 7th Regiment Armory.

Professor Patrick Geddes, of the University of Edinburgh, will address the League for Political Education, No. 23 West Forty-fourth-st., at 11 a. m. to-day, on "Evolution of Peace and War."

Claude Falls Wright will lecture in St. Stephen's Chapel, No. 57 West Forty-sixth-st., to-morrow at 8:15 p. m., on "Education."

The Academy of Political Science will meet on Tuesday at 8:30 p. m. in Room No. 413, Columbia University Library. Worthington C. Ford, formerly Chief of the Bureau of Statistics of the Treasury Department, will read a paper on "Our Trade Policy with Colonies." The paper will be discussed by Professor William Z. Ripley, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

An Easter sale was conducted by the Young Ladies' Society of the Collegiate Church at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Taylor, at Forty-fifth-st. and Madison-ave., yesterday, from 3 to 6 p. m. The tables and rooms were in charge of the Misses Van Kleeck, Mrs. Wilson, Miss Sophia Briggs, Mrs. E. Scudder Johnston, Mrs. Henry L. Harrison, Miss Julian D. Deye, Mrs. Pratt, Miss Bellonia and Miss Elsie Van Kleeck. The proceeds will be devoted to the work of the Girls' Club, at Vermilye Chapel.

The Rev. Dr. Thomas C. Hall will deliver a course of lectures on the Ely Foundation at Union Theological Seminary on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons in April, at 4:30 o'clock. His subject will be "The Social Significance of the Religious Revival in England in the Eighteenth and Nineteenth Centuries."

In the Church of the Divine Paternity special services will be held on Easter Sunday, and the unveiling of the new memorial candelabra and the medallion of Dr. E. H. Chapin will take place.

ESTIMATES OF REALTY VALUES.

AN ILLUSTRATION OF THE WAY EXPERT OPINIONS DIFFER.

An interesting illustration of the difference of opinion which prevails regarding the value of city realty is furnished by the report about to be made to the Supreme Court by the Commission of Estimate and Assessment, appointed in 1897 to determine the amount of damages due property-holders whose parcels were affected by the opening and widening of One-hundred-and-twentieth-st., from Morningside-ave. to Riverside Drive. Several real estate men were called upon by the owners to suggest the amounts they thought to be proper, and their figures, together with those of Thomas C. Smith, the city expert in the proceeding, are given below. The findings by the Commission were nearer to the city expert's figures than to the other amounts named. Five parcels of realty were affected. One-hundred-and-twentieth-st. was open from Morningside to Amsterdam-ave., but the city widened it by taking off forty feet on the south side. The street is now 100 feet wide, the result having been effected by the taking of 16,984 square feet, represented by parcel No. 1, owned by Mary G. Pinckney. On this parcel the damage suggested by the experts was as follows: Frank R. Houghton, $145,550; Thomas C. Smith, city expert, $88,463.

The Commission awarded $112,884.15, the difference being due to consequential damage, the result of making the lots 80 feet in depth, instead of 100 feet.

The street was an open one, 100 feet wide, between Amsterdam-ave. and the Boulevard, as Columbia University had ceded 40 feet on the south side, but it was not open between the Boulevard and Claremont-ave., or between Claremont-ave. and Riverside Drive.

Parcel No. 2, on the west side of the Boulevard, containing 2,616 square feet, and owned by Thomas E. Stewart, was appraised as follows: Edward A. Pearson, $20,650; Charles E. Sculyler, $23,200; Thomas C. Smith, city expert, $14,820.

The Commission awarded $16,742.40.

Parcel No. 3, also lying on the west side of the Boulevard and the east side of Claremont-ave., containing 9,568 square feet, and owned by Barnard College, was appraised as follows: William E. Howe, $176,500; Samuel Goldsticker, $220,000; Thomas C. Smith, $48,043.

The Commission awarded $55,055.97.

Parcel No. 4, on the east side of Claremont-ave., containing 3,271 square feet, owned by Timothy Donovan, was appraised as follows: Timothy Donovan, $45,000; Thomas C. Smith, $15,323.

The Commission awarded $27,224.40.

Parcel No. 5, on the west side of Claremont-ave. and east side of Riverside Drive, containing 20,000 square feet, or eight city lots, owned by the estate of Eli White, was appraised as follows: Samuel Goldsticker, $161,770; Thomas C. Smith, $100,464. The Commission awarded $109,450.

The members of the Commission were John Paul Bocock, Wilber McBride and Edward S. Kaufman. The sessions were held at the Bureau of Street Opening, No. 22 West Broadway. The matter will now be referred to the Supreme Court for final action.

NO CLEW TO JEWELRY THIEF.

Captain McClusky of the Detective Bureau said yesterday morning that he had two men at work on the robbery of the diamonds of Nathaniel S. Prentice, at No. 237 Lexington-ave., on Thursday afternoon. Gems valued at $2,000 were taken by a man, who succeeded in escaping from the house when three servants, the only persons in the house besides the burglar, began to investigate.

SAY THEY SAW KENNEDY.

MORE GRAND HOTEL EMPLOYES IDENTIFY THE DENTIST.

WEAPON USED BY THE MURDERER PRODUCED IN COURT—OBJECTIONS TO ADMITTING THE PRISONER'S CONVERSATION WITH CAPTAIN PRICE.

The trial of Dr. Samuel J. Kennedy, the dentist, charged with killing Miss "Dollie" Reynolds at the Grand Hotel on August 16 last, was continued in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court, before Justice Williams and a jury, yesterday morning. The feature of the opening was the revelations made as to the identity of the veiled woman who had been in attendance on the trial for the last two or three days.

The woman is Mrs. W. S. Logue, the wife of an employe of the Edison Electric Company. She is the woman who occupied the room in the Grand Hotel immediately beneath that in which "Dollie" Reynolds was found murdered.

The first witness called yesterday morning was the room clerk, Paul Roux, who identified photographs of Miss Reynolds. Charles McCurry, the head waiter, told of seeing Miss Reynolds and Dr. Kennedy.

Patrick J. Lanahan, the night elevator boy, said he first saw Miss Reynolds and her escort on the night of the murder at 11:50 o'clock. Her escort, he said, wore a turn-down collar, a dark tie, dark suit, shoes and hat.

"When did you next see the man?" Mr. McIntyre asked impressively, and every ear was strained to hear the answer.

"At twenty-five minutes to 2 o'clock in the morning. He came down the stairs past the clerk's desk, crossed the office and went out the Broadway door, after first pulling his hat over his eyes."

Mr. McIntyre here opened a paper parcel and took out a plain white straw hat, with a narrow black band, which he handed to the witness, and asked him to show him what he meant by pulling his hat over his eyes. Lanahan took the hat and tilted it over his left eye.

"Did you notice a ring on the man's finger as he went out?" continued Mr. McIntyre.

"Yes, he had a ring on, but I couldn't see what kind."

"Did it have a stone in it?"

"Yes, I think it did."

In reply to Mr. McIntyre the witness told of a visit he made in company with a detective to Kennedy's dental office, in Twenty-second-st., to identify him.

"Isn't it a fact," asked Mr. House, "that never before until to-day have you positively identified the defendant as the man you saw in the hotel that night, and as far as you will go to-day?"

Lanahan thought a moment, and said slowly: "I cannot positively identify him, but he looks like the man I saw that night."

"There!" exclaimed Mr. House, impetuously, when he heard the answer, "I knew the boy would tell the truth."

Mr. House then read a lot of evidence taken before the police magistrate when the defendant was first arraigned, when the witness had sworn "that he had seen a man leave the hotel at 2 a. m. on the morning of the murder.

"I will read further," said Mr. House; "you were next asked in the police court: 'Was the man you took up in the elevator the same you saw come down and cross the office at 2 a. m.?' and you replied: 'Yes, the same man I took up was the same man I saw go out.' When you were asked, "Is it the same man?" and you answered, 'He looks like the one, but I can't say positively,' did you so swear?"

"Yes, sir."

"It was true then, and it is true now?"

"Yes, sir."

"And you will not say now that he is positively the man," demanded Mr. House, "will you?"

"I can't say positively, sir, but he looks much like the man," replied Lanahan.

Joseph Greggory, the front clerk of the Grand, came next.

KENNEDY AGAIN POINTED OUT.

"Do you see any person in the court that you saw on the morning of the murder, say between 2 and 3 o'clock?"

"Yes, sir."

"Point him out," asked Mr. McIntyre.

Greggory pointed out Kennedy as the man he had seen. He also said that about a minute elapsed after he first heard Kennedy's footsteps on the stairs before he came out.

Mary Higgins, a chambermaid of the hotel, told of finding the body of the girl. Mr. House began his cross-examination by asking about the adjoining rooms, both toward Broadway and Fifth-ave. He also inquired carefully about the connecting doors and outside windows.

"Is there a fire-escape at these windows?" asked he.

"Yes," she answered, "there is a fire-escape running to the window of Room No. 84, and it also runs along to the window of Room No. 85."

Next Mr. House produced a photograph of the interior of Room No. 84, and questioned Miss Higgins carefully about the connecting doors of the bathroom of Room No. 84. This ended the testimony of Miss Higgins, and Miss Mamie Smith, a second chambermaid, was called. Before she could begin her evidence, however, Mr. McIntyre asked that the defendant be sent with the jury when it went to make a personal inspection of the premises, saying that an inspection made when the defendant was absent would not be legal. The Court said it would consider the matter.

Miss Smith then came back to the stand. All she could tell was that she passed Room No. 84 on the evening of August 15 and saw seated inside a man and a woman. She identified the picture of "Dolly" Reynolds, but as she had not seen the man's face she could not identify him. Other hotel employes also identified Miss Reynolds's picture.

After Mary Brooks, the housekeeper of the hotel, told of finding the body lying between the sofa and table, Mr. McIntyre said:

"I show you People's exhibit No. 17, and ask you if you ever saw it before," and for the first time the iron pipe bludgeon used by the murderer, was shown in court and recognized by the witness.

Mr. Grossman, associated with Messrs. House and Friend in the defence, asked permission to see the club, which was later granted.

OBJECTION TO PRICE'S TESTIMONY.

Margaret Adams, Miss Reynolds's colored maid, and Coroner's Physician O'Hanlon followed in turn. Then Police Captain Price was called, despite the fact it was 5:30 p. m. Captain Price was about to tell what the prisoner had said to him in the police station, but the defence objected. Their client, they contended, was at the time under arrest and duress. The People, argued Mr. Friend, had no right to get a prisoner charged with a grave crime and ply him with questions in order to make him practically testify against himself. He objected strenuously to Captain Price being allowed to tell what Kennedy said in the police station at a time when he had no counsel to advise him.

Mr. McIntyre said the law was against Mr. Friend's position, and for fully a quarter of an hour each endeavored to convince the Court that he had the proper view of the matter. The Court in what little it said appeared to lean toward Mr. McIntyre's side of the case. At last, however, when he saw it was a point the defence had come prepared to fight on, and that it was probably one of the legal issues of the case, the Court decided to let the lawyers have until Monday to study up the law and present him then with their authorities and legal precedents. The case will be resumed at 10 o'clock on Monday morning.

JURISDICTION OF MUNICIPAL COURTS.

THE CONSTITUTIONALITY OF THE ACT EXTENDING IT BEYOND THE COUNTY SUSTAINED.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court yesterday handed down a decision in the case of Robert C. Irwin against the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, in which the constitutionality of the act establishing the Municipal Court of the city of New-York was involved. The action was begun in the Municipal Court for the Eighth Judicial District. It was a suit to recover damages for personal injuries. The case was tried before a jury, which rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff. The company appealed from the judgment, and made a fight to prove that the act is unconstitutional in extending the jurisdiction of the court over more than one county. This was asserted to be a violation of the provisions of Section 18 of Article VI of the Constitution of 1894, and of Section 14 of Article VI. Section 14 limits the jurisdiction of county courts to residents of the county, and Section 18 provides that, while the Legislature may establish inferior courts, such courts shall have no greater jurisdiction than county courts. The Appellate Term, however, affirmed the judgment obtained by Irwin, and now the Appellate Division affirms the judgment of the Appellate Term.

ANGRY THREATS FROM A CROWD.

MOTORMAN'S LAUGH AT A VICTIM CALLS FORTH PROTESTS.

A number of people in the neighborhood of Sixth-ave. and Thirty-seventh-st. hurried indignantly into the street yesterday morning, when a Sixth-ave. car ran down a man who was trying to cross the street. The man received a scalp wound six inches long, and he was taken into a drug store near by and an ambulance sent for.

The injured man is Linwood Howard, twenty-six years old, a colored porter, of No. 165 West Twenty-fourth-st. He was on his way to attend the funeral of his sister, who died in Memphis, Tenn., on Friday, and whose body was brought on here for burial.

The man could not get out of the way of the car, and it struck him with full force. Howard was thrown twenty feet away on the track. Several citizens hurried to Howard and carried him into a drug store. Others ran about the streets looking for a policeman, but one was not found for ten minutes, and then four appeared. The first was Policeman Greeg, of the West Thirtieth-st. station.

A number of indignant people gathered about the car as the man was carried away. Lawrence Rooney, an inspector of the road, asked the motorman how the accident happened.

"He pushed his nose against the car," answered the motorman, with a laugh.

A large crowd had gathered about the car by this time. As the motorman laughed the crowd became more indignant, and one man said:

"Say, if we strung up a couple of you motormen you might not laugh about the people you hurt."

The crowd murmured an angry approval of the man's sentiments and the motorman became frightened. He stole back into the car and closed the door after him as the crowd pressed forward. The Inspector told the motorman to go on with the car. The motorman did so and the crowd fell back. He was not molested.

Howard was removed to the New-York Hospital.
