OF INTEREST to WOMEN

BABIED TOO LONG

West Side Women Think Men Are Too Good to Them.

A hundred upper West Side women organized a new woman suffrage society yesterday afternoon, with Mrs. Raymond Brown as temporary chairman and Mrs. Herbert Moody as temporary treasurer. The purpose of the society is to study the question of votes for women, and the name will be decided upon later. The first meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Brown, No. 274 West 92d street, yesterday, and in introducing the subject under consideration Mrs. Brown said that the woman suffrage movement was very backward in this country, and that this was largely the fault of the men.

"Our men are so good to us," she said. "They have cared for us and protected us and honored us and babied us so much that we don't realize how much better they are than the laws that they have made. So we have been loath to rouse ourselves from our ease. It is easy to let ourselves be protected and cradled. It is hard to realize that it is not only the working woman who needs the ballot, but that we need it also to protect our homes from disease and death, and that men need our help in the service of our country."

The Rev. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National Woman Suffrage Association, agreed with Mrs. Brown in her estimate of American men.

"It is just because the average American man is so much better than the law," she said, "that we haven't realized and men haven't realized how mean the law will permit a man to be if he wants to."

NOT COLD TO "ANTIS."

Mrs. Gilbert Jones Says Rochester Convention was Cordial.

The report that an anti-suffrage address given by Mrs. Gilbert E. Jones, president of the National League for the Civic Education of Women, before the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs at Rochester last week was "coldly received" by that body was emphatically denied by Mrs. Jones, who has just returned from Rochester, at the office of the league, No. 222 Madison avenue, yesterday.

"I am distressed," she said, "that such a report should have gone abroad, not on my own account but because it is an injustice to the officers and delegates who received me with such great courtesy. My address came at the close of a long and trying session, when the delegates might have been excused for receiving a speech of any kind coldly, but there was no coldness. I did not notice, either, that any one went away to escape hearing me. Afterward I received congratulations from suffragists and anti-suffragists alike."

Mrs. Jones was equally pleased with her reception at the University of Rochester, where she addressed the women students.

"This university was opened to women," she said, "through the efforts of Miss Anthony, and I was glad to have an opportunity to pay a tribute to her both as a woman and as one who fought for woman's rights, but I found a strong anti-suffrage sentiment there. In fact, one of the students said: 'We are mainly anti-suffrage.'"

This address was arranged, Mrs. Jones explained, through the anti-suffrage party at Barnard College. She is much pleased with the results of her stay in Rochester and says it has been the means of bringing many new members to the league.

The league will hold its first public meeting of the season on Friday evening at the Metropolitan Temple. Henry Clews will be the speaker.

HOUSEHOLD TALKS

"If I am out of furniture polish," said a woman who owns some beautiful old oak pieces, "all I do to my chairs, tables and chests is to dust them thoroughly, wash them when washing is needed with vinegar and water and rub them well with a few drops of paraffin oil on a cloth and finally with a clean cloth. This treatment polishes them just enough and keeps the grain showing beautifully."

"For a long time," said a young housekeeper, "our clothes kept coming up from the laundry looking not quite clean, and with gun-colored stains on them here and there. I reasoned with the laundress, but it didn't do any good, so I decided to investigate the laundry. And what do you think I found—simply that Annie hadn't cleaned the tubs properly. You know, we haven't the modern porcelain tubs; we have the zinc tubs which are still found in so many houses, and she use these out with portable wooden tubs. When I found that the laundress in her hurry generally put these tubs away dripping and slimy with soapsuds, I didn't wonder at the stains on our clothes. I always inspect the laundry the day after wash day now."

"Do you inspect the kitchen saucepans?" asked the physician of the mother whose child was ailing. "In more cases than you would imagine illness is caused by lack of care of kitchen utensils. The maid, ignorant or overworked or careless, doesn't take time to go into the corners and crevices of pots and pans—which, by the way, are made with far too many corners. The Chinese are wiser; many of their cooking utensils are round, with no places where fragments of food can catch and decay and breed microbes. I advise you to take a look at the kitchen implements frequently. Inspect the dishcloths, too, and, above all, see that the refrigerator is sweet and clean."

Some white woollen shawls are so delicate that they won't stand washing. They can be cleaned by folding them away with a liberal quantity of potato starch or finely ground rice sprinkled over the surfaces and between the folds. After a few hours it will be found that the starch has absorbed the dirt. If the shawl is very much soiled press it between two damp blankets before treating it with the starch. Gray or light blue shawls may be cleaned with blued starch.

CLOTHES FOR POOR.

Needlework Guild to Distribute Winter Garments.

By Thanksgiving Day, or before, hundreds of men and women and boys and girls who otherwise would have to meet the winter unprovided with comfortable clothing will be fitted out with warm underwear, nightgowns, shoes, stockings, hats and outer garments. For the New York City branch of the Needlework Guild of America is at work in the headquarters at No. 1 Madison avenue, sorting the garments sent in at this season from the different sections of the guild, and getting them packed for the various recipients.

Nearly one hundred institutions, hospitals, missions, settlements and charitable organizations will receive from fifty to half a thousand garments each, and besides this, many private cases will be relieved. Some boy's wool underwear will go to the sick little son of a widow who washes and irons for a living, and has all she can do to feed her children and keep a roof over their heads. Two suits of underwear, shoes, etc., are going to an old paper man who is nobly supporting his superannuated mother-in-law, and has to deprive himself sorely to do it. And so on. These private cases are recommended by responsible people.

It is very easy to belong to the Needlework Guild, which, by the way, was started in England, where it gave out many a garment made by the clever fingers of the young princesses. No dues are charged; to be a member it is necessary only to send in two new garments each year. No old garments are received. One member in New Jersey makes an annual contribution of two pairs of wristlets. Another, an old woman, sends two knitted shawls each year. Others again send boxes and barrels of garments.

Large as is the number in the aggregate, many more are needed. "Some of the institutions to which we can give only fifty or a hundred garments ought to have many more," said Mrs. Harold G. Henderson, the treasurer. "We need, too, more helpers to receive and sort the things and pack them for sending out. You see the work has to be done in such a short time, for we want to get them to the recipients as soon as possible. If only the things sent us were properly arranged and marked—each suit of underwear tied together and labelled with its size—the work of sorting them would be much easier."

The officers of the New York branch are: Honorary president, Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge; president, Miss Grace Bigelow, No. 21 Gramercy Park; vice-president, Miss Caroline W. Stewart; secretary, Mrs. Walter A. Lockwood, Park Avenue Hotel; treasurer, Mrs. Harold G. Henderson, No. 82 Irving Place.

THE TRIBUNE PATTERN.

The princesse dress that shows a modification of the cuirass, or jersey, idea, is one greatly liked. This model includes that feature and also a long panel at the front. It can be made either to clear the ground or in round length, and consequently is adapted both to simple and handsome materials. In the illustration chiffon broadcloth is trimmed with moire velours and combined with a simple lace chemisette, but gowns of this sort are being made from such thinner materials as messaline, crêpe de chine and the like.

NO. 6,498—TISSUE PAPER PATTERN OF PRINCESSE GOWN FOR 10 CENTS.

The quantity of material required for the medium size is 11¾ yards 27, 6 yards 44, or 6½ yards 52 inches wide, with ⅝ yard of silk and ½ yard of all-over lace.

The pattern, No. 6,498, is cut in sizes for a 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inch bust measure, and will be mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents.
