YANKEES CLING TO THEIR LOWLY BERTH

Play Good Ball, but a Double by Willett in the Ninth Spells Ruin.

TWO MEN OUT AT THE TIME

New York Scores Five Runs, but Detroit Tigers Carry Off the Game with Two More.

The remarkable Yankees lost a glowing opportunity to emerge from the darkness of the cellar into the fresh air and sunlight of a glorious fall afternoon when defeat was their sorry portion against the Detroit Tigers at the Polo Grounds yesterday afternoon. The score was 7 to 5.

Victory was hammered out in the ninth inning by the jungle terrors, and the small crowd wended its way homeward a bit downcast, but not disheartened. Down in Boston the St. Louis Browns were taking a few lessons in the finer points of the national game from the Red Sox, so that victory for the Yankees would have shot them into seventh place, clear by four points. As it was, they are still in their old position—last.

Ed Willett, a veteran of several years' standing, was the obstacle in the path of the Yankees. It was his double, a far flung drive to left centre field with two men on base and two out in the ninth inning, that told the tale. Gibson and Louden were on second and first bases, respectively, when Willett drove the ball with terrific force to the fence and the runs which won the game crossed the plate. Willett languished on the paths, for Donie Bush could do nothing more effective than shoot a grounder to Maisel, who got him at first.

Willett was in fairly good form in the box, too, although the Yankees scored a sufficient number of runs to win almost any game. Judged in point of number of hits allowed, Willett was effective, for only half a dozen were made off his delivery. Try as he would, however, he could not prevent the Yankees from bunching a couple in each scoring inning, and what with a stray base on balls, not to mention a fielding slip here and there, five runs clattered over the pan.

Any one dropping in to see the game after a few months' absence might well have asked "Where are the stars of yesterday?" With the exception of Sweeney and Fisher, not a single man who had been with the team since the beginning of the season started the game. Later Fisher and Sweeney left, the former because he cast aspersions on "Sandy" Ferguson's ability to properly judge balls and strikes and Sweeney as the result of an injury suffered in a collision with Cobb at the plate. When Sweeney limped off Reynolds, the recruit from Texas, took his place, and Jack Warhop, who supplanted Fisher, was the sole veteran left.

Whiteman, also from the Lone Star State, played in left field, since Birdie Cree is still a bit under the weather. He handled a brace of chances which came his way and scored two runs as a result of two bases on balls. He failed to get a hit and had the misfortune to smash into a double play, but took a good free swing at the ball and refused to bite at the bad ones. He also showed speed on the bases, stealing second and moving from first to third on a hit to right field that was none too long. Reynolds had little trouble in handling the delivery of Warhop, and he, too, looked good.

Fred Maisel made a wonderful running catch of a foul fly by McKee in the third inning, when the Tigers had the bases full. He ran all the way to the grandstand, clutched the ball and held the runners on their bases. In the next inning he made another great capture of a foul fly, this time from the bat of Paddy Bauman. Jack Knight, by a leaping catch, cut down a hit from Cobb's bat in the eighth inning. There were other plays, too, which called forth the unstinted applause of the crowd.

It was an up-and-down struggle, and the feeling of the "fans" was at fever heat. The Yankees started with a rush, getting a man around in the first inning. Maisel walked, and when Holden singled on a hit and run play, Maisel reached the far turn. Whiteman, cordially received by the crowd, rammed into a double play, but Maisel counted.

Right away the Tigers squared the score. With two out Onslow singled, took second and went to third when Sweeney allowed the fourth ball on Louden to leak through. Willett struck the first blow for his cause right then by lacing to centre and scoring Onslow.

Runs then followed thick and fast, and in couples. The Tigers got two in the third on hits, an error and a hit batsman, but the lead was short lived. In the fourth the Yankees again came up on even terms, driving home a couple of tallies on a pass to Whiteman, his steal of second, McKee's poor throw, and hits by Williams and Gilhooley. To the consternation of the loyal, Jennings urged his team into action, and again the Tigers flashed into the fore. Two more counts were added to their total in the fifth on hits by McKee and Cobb, a well worked double steal and a sacrifice fly.

For New York White drew a pass in the sixth, took third on a hit by Williams and scored when Louden let Crawford's throw get through him. Williams took third and counted on a hit by Knight. Thereafter there was no scoring until the ninth, when the Tigers won.

McKee sprained his ankle sliding into the plate and was forced to leave the game.

PHILLIES IN TIE GAME

Go Ten Innings with the Reds to No Decision.

Cincinnati, Sept. 15.—Cincinnati and Philadelphia played to a tie, at 2 to 2, in ten innings to-day, darkness ending the struggle.

Rowan, a recruit purchased from the Dayton club of the Central League, pitched excellent ball, although he was hit safely in every inning except one, that being the ninth.

Rixey, who started the contest for Philadelphia, was not hit hard, but was wild and was taken out at the beginning of Cincinnati's half of the sixth inning. Alexander succeeded him. The latter was touched up freely, but allowed only one run.

Heinie Groh, once with the Giants, was the bright particular star of the game, both in the field and at bat. He made four hits, one of them a two-bagger.

CHECK FOR THE SENATORS

Go Down for Second Time Before the White Sox.

Washington, Sept. 15.—Chicago won the second game of the series from Washington to-day by a score of 5 to 0.

Although outbatted, the visitors bunched all six of their hits off Groom in the second, third and fourth innings, and these, coupled with an error, were good for five runs and the game.

The Senators could do nothing with Russell when hits meant runs. Shaw, a recruit from York, Penn., relieved Groom with none out in the fourth, and held Chicago to one hit in five innings. Not a ball was batted to the outfield while he was on the mound.

Giants Win, But It Takes a Long Time

Battle Thirteen Innings with the Cubs Before Game Is Stowed Away.

ERROR BY ARCHER HELPS

Bunting Attack Opens Way for Winning Run—Saier Keeps Chicago Up with a Homer.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.]

Chicago, Sept. 15.—After the Chicago Cubs had twice tied the score, at times when two men were out, the Giants, the prospective champions of the National League, rallied and won a bitterly fought battle of the diamond at West Side Park here to-day.

Thirteen innings of give-and-take baseball were played before McGraw's men, with a bunting attack and seizing on a chance given by Archer's error triumphed by a score of 4 to 3.

Vic Saier, the big first sacker of the Cubs, prevented New York from walking off with the game in the regulation nine innings. Vic won his niche in the Chicago hall of fame by smashing a home run into the right field stands and tieing the score in the ninth inning, when two were out and a man on base. Saier, too, scored the run which again tied the score in the twelfth inning, starting with a double and counting on a single by Archer when two were down.

At length the visitors took the lead for the third time, and the Cubs were unable to respond. Fletcher began the thirteenth frame by beating out an infield single, and reached second when George Burns, running on the wings of the wind, arrived safely at first on a neatly placed bunt.

Fletcher wandered so far off second base that Archer sought to catch him napping. Steel-armed Jimmy failed in his purpose, and dismally, too. Instead of nipping the wide-awake New York boy, he threw both low and wide, and when the dust settled to earth Fletcher was on third. A moment later Arthur Shafer drove a long fly to Wilbur Good and on the throw in Fletcher crossed the plate with the run that won the game.

As was the case in yesterday's remarkable game, in which they were shut out, the Giants made fourteen hits. One of these was a freak, for, with two out, Larry Doyle hit Snodgrass with a batted ball. The side was retired automatically, but Doyle received credit for a hit. A single by Shafer that tore its way through Phelan might have been scored either way, for many believe that the third sacker should have handled it cleanly.

Burns, Doyle and Snodgrass led the attack of the Giants with three hits each, while Tesreau had two to his credit. On the whole, Jeff had quite a time of it, for he started a double play which saved his game. For all their crashing attack the New York men seemed to be unable to do their best work at critical times, and many men languished on the paths for the want of a timely hit. Poor base running helped a little, too. Charlie Smith and Jimmy Lavender worked in turn for the Cubs. Smith was found for six hits in eight innings, Lavender for eight in five.

The dark, threatening day was just suited to a pitcher with the speed of Tesreau, so McGraw at once decided to send the bear hunter in pursuit of his natural enemy. Jeff burned them over in fine style, but, as told before, the Bruins managed to get at him in the critical points and carry him far into extra innings before taking the final count.

Only eight hits were made off Jeff's delivery, but three of these were doubles and one Saier's home run in the ninth. The spit ball was working to order, and eight Cubs fell victims on strikes, while never a man was passed. Tesreau, however, found time to hit Schulte.

Fred Snodgrass, in addition to being alive to his task on the offence, spent a profitable day in the outer garden. He was called upon to take care of no fewer than nine chances, and he did it nicely. Larry Doyle and Arthur Fletcher also were in the forefront on the defence, dividing fourteen chances between them.

Tommy Leach was cancelled in the tenth inning for expressing his opinion of Bill Klem's sight. Tommy was called out on strikes, and immediately asked Klem what he did for a living at night. The words grated so upon Bill's tender nature that he advised Leach of the proximity of the clubhouse, and prescribed a short and withal, rapid walk in that direction.

The Giants put two runs over in the first frame. Snodgrass and Doyle singled and both moved up on a sacrifice bunt by Fletcher. Snodgrass then scored on a long fly by Burns. Doyle took third after the catch, and scored on Shafer's wicked drive to Phelan. The Cubs tied the score in the ninth inning. With one out, Schulte was hit with a pitched ball, but was forced by Phelan. Then Saier lifted the ball into the right field stands, and drove Phelan home before him.

The Giants forged into the lead in the twelfth inning, only to have the game squared. For New York, Merkle doubled and scored on an infield hit by Snodgrass, after Tesreau had been retired. For the Bruins, Saier doubled, and counted on Archer's drive. Then came the thirteenth and victory for New York.

GIANTS AND PHILLIES MUST FINISH GAME

Directors of National League Order Game of August 30 Played Out.

PARTLY REVERSE LYNCH

Date for Continuing the Much Talked Of Contest Fixed for October 2, with Same Players in Field.

Cincinnati, Sept. 15.—The board of directors of the National League partly reversed the ruling of President Thomas J. Lynch to-night, and ordered the game played between the New York and Philadelphia clubs on August 30 finished on October 2, with the same men in the field and the same status existing as when Brennan, the umpire, forfeited the game to the Giants because the spectators interfered with the batters by waving hats and papers.

At the time the game was called New York was at bat in the first half of the ninth inning, with one man out, a ball called on Murray, the batter, and the score standing 8 to 6 in favor of Philadelphia. This same situation, with the same men in the field and at the bat, is ordered to be produced again and the game finished.

The finding of the board is as follows:

First, President Lynch is sustained in reversing the decision of the umpire, Brennan, who awarded the game to the New York club illegally, as there is nothing in the rules which gave him the right to do as he did.

Second, we believe that the sportsmanship of the patrons of the Philadelphia club would have asserted itself if the umpire in charge had delayed the game temporarily until the situation could have been thoroughly understood by those present and that portion of the seats on a line with the umpire's vision would have been promptly vacated, thus removing all obstacles to the umpire in charge judging balls and strikes and other plays which might have taken place. We sincerely deplore what happened, and believe if the course outlined above had been pursued the game could have been played to a finish.

Third, the contention of the New York club that the game was not played to completion, as the rules provide is upheld, and we hereby order that it be finished on Thursday, October 2, 1913, at New York, where the Philadelphia club is scheduled to play that day, beginning thirty minutes before the advertised time for starting the first regularly scheduled championship game on that date. The same player of the New York club shall take his place at bat, with the Philadelphia club in the field, with the same players in the line-up, and the rules of the game to apply the same as if the game had been finished on August 30, 1913.

The game of that date shall be stricken from the National League championship standing of 1913. In the event of rain this game shall be completed on Friday, October 3, 1913, or Saturday, October 4, 1913, if possible.

CHARLES H. EBBETS,
AUGUST HERMANN,
CHARLES W. MURPHY,
Directors National League.

The ruling came as a surprise, as it was expected that the board of directors would either sustain President Lynch in full or order the game replayed. A precedent was established by the usual order to have the game finished out with the same players on the field.

The question was asked to-night as to what would happen if Chalmers, who was pitching, should not be able to take his place in the box on October 2, but nobody seemed able to answer it.

For the moment the Giants gained a full game on the Phillies and now lead the league by eight and one-half games instead of seven and one-half games, or nine percentage points.

ANDREWS DRIVES WINNERS

Directum I Wins Pace at Grand Circuit Races at Detroit.

Detroit, Sept. 15.—Large fields, close finishes and two brilliant victories of horses driven by Andrews marked the opening to-day of a five-day Grand Circuit harness meeting here, held in connection with the state fair. No records were broken, but fast time was made in several heats, and in the 2:09 trot thirteen horses, the largest field of the season, faced the starter.

As expected, Directum I, making his debut on a Western track, romped away with the 2:05 pace.

INJURED MANAGER OF BOSTON RED SOX.

BILL CARRIGAN.

Bill Carrigan Breaks a Finger

Boston, Sept. 15.—The Boston Red Sox will be without the assistance of Bill Carrigan, their manager, for the rest of the season, as a result of an accident to-day, when he had the middle finger of his throwing hand broken during the game with St. Louis.

Carrigan will be unable to play out the schedule, and in all probability will not be able to take an active part in the post-season series with the Boston Braves.

The accident happened in the seventh inning. With Covington on third base and one out, Agnew hit to Wagner and was thrown out. Covington dashed for home on the play, and Engle threw to get him at the plate. The ball hit Carrigan's finger and broke it.

NEWARK INDIANS GET ANOTHER HARD BLOW

Make Only Two Hits, So That Providence Wins by a Safe Margin.

The Newark Indians continued their slump yesterday by losing to the Providence Grays at Wiedenmayer's Park by a score of 5 to 2. The victory marked the eighth straight victory for the visitors, and incidentally reduced the lead of the home team to one and a half games, as Rochester defeated Toronto.

Lefty Bailey, who was on the mound for the Grays, was a trifle wild and held the Braves to two hits—a triple and a single—both of which were made by Bob Higgins. Outside of the first and fourth innings Bailey was never in trouble.

ONLY FIVE PLAYERS TO GIANTS BY DRAFT

Yankees Fare Even Worse in Draw and Get Just Two Men from Minors.

LUCK SMILES ON BROWNS

Thirty Would-Be Stars of the Diamond Fall to the Lot of St. Louis and Picking Should Be Good.

Cincinnati, Sept. 15.—One hundred and eight minor league players were elevated to the major leagues by way of the draft route here to-day, when the American League obtained sixty-seven players by draft to the National League's forty-one at the drawing which was made before the National Baseball Commission.

The St. Louis club of the American League was by far the luckiest in the draw, obtaining thirty players, more than one-fourth of the total number obtained by all major league teams.

The Cincinnati team was second with eleven, while the Chicago White Sox got ten, Detroit nine, the Philadelphia Athletics and Boston Braves eight each, Brooklyn seven, Boston Red Sox five, New York Giants five, Chicago Cubs four, Philadelphia Nationals three, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and New York Yankees two each, Washington and St. Louis Cardinals one each.

The drawing of the major league teams for Class AA and Class A players resulted as follows: St. Louis Americans, eight; Detroit Americans and Boston Nationals, six each; Brooklyn and Chicago Nationals, three each; Chicago American and Cleveland American, two each; New York Americans, Washington, Philadelphia and Cincinnati, one each.

Owing to a new rule stipulating that the major league club drawing for players from a minor league club must be selected by lot before the player is the names of the men obtained by the majors from Class A and Class AA leagues will not be officially announced until to-morrow.

Quite a number of the players to be chosen, however, were given out unofficially to-night, among them being: By Detroit, Williams, of Sacramento, and Mains, of Buffalo; by Chicago Americans, Roth, of Baltimore, and Barber, of Lincoln, Neb.; by New York Yankees, Cole, of Columbus, Ohio; by Cleveland, Giddo, from Chattanooga, and Wood, from Sioux City; by Brooklyn
