FINANCIAL MEETINGS.

New York, October 9, 1913.
TO THE STOCKHOLDERS OF RIKER & HEGEMAN CO.:

Notice is hereby given that a special meeting of the stockholders of the Riker & Hegeman Co. will be held at the office of the corporation, No. 162 West Thirty-fourth street in the Borough of Manhattan in the City and State of New York, on the 31st day of October, 1913, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, to act upon a proposition to alter the certificate of incorporation of the corporation so as to include therein other powers or provisions in addition to those now set forth in said certificate of incorporation, such other powers or provisions being the following, that is to say:

Ninth. So long as dividends at the rate of six per cent. per annum, payable quarter-yearly, shall be paid upon the preferred stock in each year, the holders of the preferred stock shall not be entitled to vote for the election of directors of the corporation, nor shall any voting power whatever upon any question be vested in the holders of the preferred stock, except in statutory proceedings (other than for the election of directors) requiring the action of a majority or more of the total outstanding stock of both classes; but in the event that the corporation shall fail to make any such quarter-yearly payment of dividends upon the preferred stock, then the holders of the preferred stock, until such default shall have been cured by the payment of the arrears of dividends, but no longer, shall have and may exercise full voting rights upon the shares of the preferred stock held by them to the same extent as if the foregoing limitation upon such rights had not been established.

A. H. COSDEN, First Vice-President.
W. B. GLENN, Secretary.

STOCK MARKET REVIEW

Prices Decline Sharply in Late Trading—Weak Closing.

No relief was afforded the stock market yesterday by overnight developments of a bullish nature, and prices continued downward following a show of firmness in early trading, with a result of impressive declines in most of the list at the close. One of the influences hurtful to betterment was the apparently critical state of affairs in Mexico, emphasized by the requests of various foreign representatives to their countries that warships be sent to Mexican waters as a protective measure. Another depressing note reflecting conditions abroad was contained in the foreign dispatches that reported British underwriters had decided to postpone all new security issues until the investment market shall show improvement.

In the early trading of the New York Stock Exchange there were signs of some improvement among the leading issues, but the recovery lacked steam and the market soon resolved itself into a state of dulness which was followed in the afternoon by weakness, and toward the close the lowest prices of the day were recorded. Union Pacific sold down to a new low for the present decline and closed 2½ points below its final quotation of Wednesday. United States Steel lost much of its appearance of firmness, and in the final trading showed a decline of 1¼ points.

Reading was down 2⅛ points at the close, Northern Pacific 1⅝, Southern Pacific 1¼, Canadian Pacific was off 2 points and Amalgamated Copper 1⅛ points. In some of the specials losses were even greater, and the weak closing gave little hope of any turn upward during the coming day's business. The principal subject of discussion in the Street aside from the Mexican situation yesterday was the currency problem and ex-Senator Aldrich's arraignment of the administration bill in his speech at the Academy of Political Science banquet. In connection with the question was a report from Chicago that James B. Forgan, president of the First National Bank of Chicago and of the First Trust and Savings Bank, had stated that if the bill in its present form becomes a law he will advise his stockholders to retire from the national banking system.

As these two institutions have a combined capital of $15,000,000, a surplus of $14,645,000 and deposits of $176,000,000, the statement made considerable impression on Wall Street. The local money market lost some of its steadiness and fixed maturities displayed a declining tendency; the volume of business, however, was reported to be on a greatly reduced scale. In call loans renewals were made at 3½ per cent, with an abundant supply of funds, but no demand of importance.
