THE WEATHER REPORT

Forecasts and Records of the Last Twenty-four Hours.

Official Record and Forecast.—Washington, Jan. 31.—The development of a secondary disturbance over the lower Mississippi Valley Friday and its northeastward movement to the lower lake region resulted in heavy rains over the south and middle Atlantic states and a great diminution in the cold weather that threatened to overspread the middle Atlantic coast states on Saurday. Snow fell on Saurday in Northern Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Northern New England.

It is considerably colder in the south Atlantic and Gulf states and in the extreme Northwest, but in no case is the temperature much below the seasonal average. With the exception of snow in Northern New England and along the lower lakes, fair weather will prevail Sunday and Monday in practically all parts of the country. It will be colder Sunday in New England, and thence southward along the coast to Florida.

In the extreme Northwest temperatures will rise Sunday. Elsewhere seasonal temperatures are probable.

Storm warnings are displayed on the Atlantic coast from Eastport to Hatteras.

Winds for Sunday and Monday will be: North Atlantic, brisk northwest; middle Atlantic, brisk northwest; south Atlantic, fresh west; east Gulf, light to fresh west, becoming variable; west Gulf, moderate south; Michigan, brisk northwest.

Storm in lower St. Lawrence Valley moving northeastward.

Forecast for Special Localities.—Eastern New York, fair and colder to-day; to-morrow fair; brisk northwest winds on the coast.

Western New York, fair to-day and to-morrow, except snow flurries to-day along the lakes; brisk northwest winds.

Southern New England, fair and colder to-day; to-morrow fair; brisk northwest winds on the coast.

Northern New England, clearing and colder to-day; to-morrow fair; shifting winds, becoming brisk northwest.

New Jersey, fair and colder to-day; to-morrow fair; brisk northwest winds on the coast.

Eastern Pennsylvania, fair and colder to-day; to-morrow fair; brisk northwest winds.

Western Pennsylvania, fair to-day and to-morrow, except snow flurries to-day along the lakes; brisk northwest winds.

District of Columbia, fair and colder to-day; to-morrow fair; brisk northwest winds, diminishing.

Maryland, fair and colder to-day; to-morrow fair; brisk northwest winds, diminishing.

Virginia, fair to-day and to-morrow; colder to-day; brisk west to northwest winds.

Delaware, fair and colder to-day; to-morrow fair; brisk northwest winds, diminishing.

West Virginia, fair to-day; to-morrow increasing cloudiness.

TRANSPORTATION.

North German Lloyd Again Leads All Lines

The North German Lloyd landed more passengers, First Cabin, Second Cabin and Steerage, in the Port of New York during 1913 than any other line, repeating its marvellous record of 1912. Here are the official figures as compiled by the United States Landing Agent:

	First Cabin	Second Cabin	Steerage
NORTH GERMAN LLOYD	18,348	35,130	164,536

The North German Lloyd, with all its services, landed the greatest number of passengers in the United States—288,744—on 249 trips, an average of a steamer every thirty-five hours.

The North German Lloyd, in the Northern Service, carried 20 per cent. of all the First Cabin passengers entering New York; 15.[illegible] per cent. of the Second Cabin and 20.98 per cent. of he Steerage passengers, with more than a score of lines competing.
