NOTES of INTEREST FROM LEADING SOCIAL RESORTS

have been entertained often during the week.

The nine wise women of the Congressional Club are to leave the calling custom practically as they found it. What at first seemed a simple undertaking proved an enormous task, and the present code, which is the result of the work of a hundred years of the State Department, was left alone. Several immaterial features were introduced, such as a decision to make the round of calls on diplomats, the Supreme Court, the Cabinet, etc., but once. The plan would certainly save a great deal of time and trouble, except for the reason that only a very few women will adopt it.

One of the most useful things discussed at the Congressional Club, which has assumed the task of regulating the social affairs of the capital, was that of having a folder printed, containing instructions to the new members' wives, telling them what is what in official Washington. The idea is not bad, provided it is carefully done, and a few suggestions as to the proper toilets for various occasions might be added; but a plumed hat or a business suit is only occasionally seen at a fashionable evening reception in Washington nowadays, especially at the White House.

Mrs. Wilson has sufficiently recovered from a rather serious fall to take an interest in the spring gardening at the White House. The result of her talent for landscape gardening will be seen to some effect at the annual egg rolling on Easter Monday.

Miss Margaret Wilson will return from her engagements in New York in time to sing for the blind people at the Congressional Library on Tuesday night. She has favored the blind before, and they not only like her voice and selection of songs, but they feel her tender sympathy.

Mrs. Adelaide Worth Bagley, the mother of Mrs. Josephus Daniels, will be the guest of honor at a unique tea party on Thursday, when her daughter, Mrs. Daniels, will be hostess. Four of the "girls" who attended Oakland Seminary, Norristown, Penn., before the Civil War days will be with Mrs. Bagley, and many features of their life at Oakland will be revived. Mrs. Bagley, who is an accomplished musician, will give selections from a cantata in which she took part, while the memory book of one of the "girls," bearing dozens of familiar names, as well as poems and original lines, will be read.

The Secretary of State and Mrs. Bryan were the guests of honor at a dinner tonight, with Representative Connolly as host. Senator and Mrs. Owen, Senator and Mrs. James, Representative and Mrs. Palmer, Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, Dr. Charles D. Walcott, Representative and Mrs. Brown, Representative and Mrs. Gerry and the Misses Connolly will be among the guests.

PALM BEACH

Dinner and Sailing Parties Fill Last Days of Season.

Palm Beach, March 21.—Society has simmered down during the last week and the gayeties have been confined almost to dinner and luncheon parties and sails on Lake Worth. The largest dinner of the week was given by George C. Boldt, who entertained thirty-six guests at The Breakers in celebration of the twenty-first anniversary of the opening of the Waldorf-Astoria. Most of the sojourners are occupied with plans for Northern journeys, and, with few exceptions, New Yorkers are leaving.

J. Dunbar Wright, the artist-lecturer, is one of those who have lingered. He came here from Miami. He will return to New York the latter part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dunbar Adams and son, Dunbar Adams, who have been occupying The Spray, left Saturday for Hot Springs. Mr. Adams is a charter member and a governor of the Sailfish Club, recently organized. He is one of the most noted anglers at Palm Beach, and with the late Grover Cleveland and Joseph Jefferson he has landed many fine specimens in the Southern streams.

E. Clarence Jones returned to New York this week. Major and Mrs. N. Gray Pendleton, after spending the season at their villa here, will go to their cottage in Atlantic City before returning to Philadelphia. Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Duncan, of New York, are among the late arrivals.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carnegie Phipps left this week for New York in their private car.

Among the guests at the Poinciana are Sir Daniel M. McMillan and Lady McMillan, of Winnipeg.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Brokaw, of New York, after spending several days here, returned to Miami Sunday on their private car.

Louis Clarke, of Philadelphia, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. James King Clarke.

Mrs. Irving M. Chase entertained with a luncheon party Sunday at The Houseboat.

Mrs. J. M. Sears, of Boston, made a fleeting visit here this week.

ST. AUGUSTINE

Splendid Weather Keeps Hotel Guests Out of Doors.

St. Augustine, Fla., March 21.—The last week, though showing no large social events on its schedule, has been one of the most successful of the season from the hotel bookings point of view. The large hostleries have not been able to accommodate the visitors from both North and South who have been pouring in daily.

Numerous small dinners have been enjoyed. Dining at the Ponce de Leon Thursday night were Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Knight, Miss Therese Chapman and Miss Helen Chapman.

Dining with Mr. and Mrs. John Kendricks Bangs, who are Ponce de Leon guests, were General and Mrs. W. N. P. Darrow, Miss Mary Pardee and Mr. Cornell.

Miss Kathleen Chambers, of the Alcazar, entertained at dinner in the grill Wednesday night, her guests being Miss Day, Mr. Carl West, Mr. and Mrs. George Estes, Miss Crutchfield and Miss Hawken.

At the large bridge given at Castle Warden by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harkness, of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ketterlinus, of Philadelphia, those entertained included Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Hanna, Mr. and Mrs. John Hewsonk, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hopkins, General and Mrs. W. N. P. Darrow, General and Mrs. John Brooke, General and Mrs. Hardin, Mr. and Mrs. William Warden, Mrs. S. V. Harkness, Mrs. Albert Lewis, Mrs. George Fletcher, Albert Lewis, Jr., Miss Kennan, Miss Donnell, H. S. A. Steward, Charles Thorne and R. H. York. The handsome prizes were taken by Mrs. Leonard Hanna, Mrs. Alexander B. Coxe, Mrs. W. N. P. Darrow, Mr. and Mrs. Coxe, Miss Kennan, General Brooke, General Hardin and Mr. Thorne.

Mrs. John Prince, children and maid, of New York, are at the Alcazar.

Hotel guests from Brooklyn include Mr. and Mrs. Julian Fairchild and Mrs. Reid.

Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Watkins, of Brooklyn, are recent registrations. Other arrivals include Mr. J. C. Salter, secretary of the Florida East Coast Railway; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mann and Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Emerson, of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Gavin Hadden, of New York, are Ponce de Leon guests.

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Osborne, of Auburn, N. Y., are recent arrivals.

Mrs. W. R. Kenan, of Wilmington, N. C., has joined her daughter, Mrs. Henry M. Flagler, at the Ponce de Leon.

W. H. Beardsley and W. R. Kenan, of New York, are recent arrivals at the Ponce de Leon.

Mrs. William A. White and Miss Conger, of New York are hotel guests.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Kuhm, of Philadelphia, are at the Ponce de Leon and James B. McCoy, of New York, is at the hotel.

Mrs. E. P. Wilbur and Miss Helen Wilbur, of South Bethlehem, Penn., are making their second visit at the Ponce de Leon.

HOT SPRINGS

Dancing Fills the Time of Almost Every Guest.

Hot Springs, Va., March 21.—Society here for the kur and tourists who have come to watch the show of smart people and clothes that is to be seen every year at Hot Springs during March and April have one more diversion this spring in the exhibition of modern dancing, seen every night in the ballroom of the Homestead Hotel. Development in the dance as an art can be seen during the last year. The fancy steps of that season have been replaced by a greater simplicity of movement, with emphasis upon poise and balance, so that the newest steps, correctly danced, suggest æsthetic dances in their poetry and rhythm.

Private dancing lessons and regular morning and afternoon classes were begun in the Homestead this week by the Misses Thomas, of New York, who will be here till the end of April. The half-and-half, which has been created within the last month by Vernon Castle, and the only dance containing five beats to the measure, is the one attracting most attention, while the maxixe and Parisian tango follow.

Among the dancers who nightly fill the ballroom and Japanese room are the Misses Augusta P. and M. Louise Dixon, A. M. Bowa, Julia and Nancy Bates, Grace Battle, Isabel McCarthy, Dorothy Conried, Mrs. Chisholm Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Q. Trowbridge, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard E. Ware, William Brewster and others.

Vice-President and Mrs. Thomas Wiley Marshall, who spent the first part of the week here, have returned to Washington, and will be joined there the last of the month by Mr. and Mrs. William Line Elder, of Indianapolis, whose party they joined while here. During their stay the Vice-President celebrated his sixtieth birthday.

Arrivals at the Homestead this week from New York include Mrs. Chisholm Beach, Mrs. Henry W. Brookfield, Mr. and Mrs. George Evans Kent, Mrs. Charles G. Ayers, Mrs. H. F. White, Miss Grace White, Miss Gertrude White, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Gardner, Mrs. E. K. Robinson, Miss G. L. Robinson, Mrs. E. V. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Logan, James Turner, Mr and Mrs. W. W. Warner, W. N. Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Conried and Miss Dorothy Conried.

ASHEVILLE

Cup Tournament at Golf Club the Feature of the Week.

Asheville, N. C., March 21.—The flood of tourists coming up from Florida and down from New York and other cities, has filled the hotels here to the limit. The middle of March finds Asheville very gay. The weather is fine and golf players are at their favorite pastime all day.

A special event of this week, which afforded much amusement to the guests at the Inn, was a blind handicap bowling tournament. Handsome pieces of Roycroft manufacture were awarded as prizes. Among those taking part in the tournament were Mrs. R. E. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. George Harris, John G. Agar and C. C. Harris, of New York; E. R. Johnson, jr., of Philadelphia; Judge Franz Kuhn, of Detroit, and William Beggs, of Woburn, Mass.

The riding contingent has had exceptionally fine rides this week, as the first sign of spring through the wood has given added charm to the rides. J. W. Phinney, of Boston, who knows all the fine views and vistas of scenery around the mountain paths, has guided a number of parties over long rides this week. One of these parties, composed of Miss Juliet Griffith, of Brooklyn; Miss Mae Riley, of Newton, Mass., and Mrs. Frank Tufley, of Brookline, Mass., rode to the top of Sunset Mountain several times. Among the riders who go out frequently over the bridle paths are John Liggett, Miss Hidden, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Locket, all of New York; Miss Juliet Griffith, of Brooklyn, and Mr. and Mrs. George E. Dunham, of New York.

Conspicuous among the week's arrivals from the East are Mr. and Mrs. George Harvey, of New York, and her daughter, Miss Dorothy Harvey.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Manning, of New York, are other prominent arrivals. The colony of New York guests, which is the largest at the Inn, has been augmented by the arrival of a number, among whom are Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Jacobs, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Wright, J. Livingston, O. Seymour and F. S. Oterhout.

Elmer E. Sperry, of New York, arrived on Tuesday, and E. Clarence Jones comes for a fortnight from Palm Beach soon.

LAKEWOOD

Bal Masque at Kingscote a Most Delightful Affair.

Lakewood, N. J., March 21.—With Easter only three weeks away, Lakewood is making great preparations for the entertainment of the large throng of visitors expected. All the hotels report heavy bookings, and with the polo practice, which starts April 1, and the golf tournament at the Country Club, which will be held April 29, and May 1 and 2, pleasure seekers will not be devoid of sport.

The bal masque by Mrs. Shepherd Knapp de Forest and Miss Ethel Walker at Kingscote last Friday evening was probably one of the most delightful affairs of the early spring season. The Alice in Wonderland idea was carefully carried out in the costumes and decorations. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. E. Layton de Forest, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Andrews, Mrs. Phelps Hoyt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lathrop Pack, Mr. and Mrs. Rollins, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Potts, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Girard Romaine, Miss Madeline Horne, Miss Cornelia Schwartz, Walter Clifford, Sterling Coggeshell, Ralph Alexander, Henry Showden, Lefferts Dashiell, C. O. H. Kayser and Arthur Ruhl.

Saturday afternoon Miss Ethel Walker gave a thé dansant at Kingscote for the members of the younger set. Ralph Alexander rendered several pleasing barytone solos which were well received.

Lawrence Waterbury arrived Friday with a large party of friends whom he is entertaining over the week end at the Spanish Mission House on Private Way. It is expected that Harry Payne Whitney will come to Lakewood upon his arrival from Europe the latter part of next week to get things in readiness for the polo practice.

Philip S. P. Randolph has returned to his Madison avenue cottage with Miss Hannah Randolph and sons after a sojourn in the South.

Mrs. Helen Potter Knight, of Philadelphia, has taken the Glover cottage, in 6th street, for the spring season, arriving last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Tunis G. Bergen entertained the Alliance Française Saturday evening, when Baroness Bonnechaze talked on the subject of Empress Josephine and the last ball of the Tuileries. This was one of the most interesting lectures of the season's programme.

NEWPORT

Series of Flower and Vegetable Shows Rousing Interest.

Newport, March 21.—Those members of the summer colony here who are interested in flowers, vegetables and gardening in general—and there are quite a number of them—are to have at least three opportunities before next fall to exhibit the products of their greenhouses and out-of-door gardens. There are a trio of exhibits already in the course of preparation, and it is to be a great summer for the horticulturist.

First will come the joint exhibition of the Newport Garden Association and the Newport Horticultural Society, in June—this to be an outdoor affair on a large lot of land owned by former Senator George Peabody Wetmore, adjoining his summer estate, on Bellevue avenue, and will be the second annual exhibit of the kind, last year's show being given on the lawns of Mrs. John Nicholas Brown's estate.

Following this, in August, there is to be an added exhibition. This will be under the auspices of the recently organized International Garden Club, and is being brought to this city through the efforts of its president, Mrs. Charles F. Hoffman, who is also an officer and one of the principal factors in the Newport Garden Association, and who, with Mr. Hoffman, has been here this week making an inspection of their summer home, Armsea Hall.

The last show of the year will be in September—the annual fall exhibition of the Newport Horticultural Society, made up principally of the gardeners employed on the summer estates here.

There is to be at least one new addition to the Newport colony this summer. The newcomer will be Mrs. A. H. Bishop, of New York, who, with her children, are arriving some time next month, and they will make this city their home for at least two years, for they have taken a lease of a cottage for that period. Mrs. Bishop has rented Miss E. B. Waring's cottage, Hypothenuse, at the corner of Catherine street and Greenough Place. The last time the place was rented was a couple of seasons ago, when it was used by a portion of the attachés of the German Embassy.

This embassy is again to be headquartered here this summer. The Poplars, on Le Roy avenue, has again been taken by Haniel von Haimhausen, counsellor of the embassy, and this will make his third season here at the same cottage. Last summer the German Ambassador, Count von Bernstoff, spent a month here, taking one of the Pinard cottages for that length of time, and it is understood that he is planning to spend a portion of the late season here this year.

There have been other recent rentals announced within the last few days. Mr. and Mrs. William Payne Thompson, of New York, are to occupy the Blight cottage, on Bellevue avenue, and the Misses Ward, of Boston, who have not been here for several years, have already arrived at the Mason cottage, on Gibbs avenue.

ATLANTIC CITY

Still More Dazzling Hotels for the Famed Boardwalk.

Atlantic City, March 21.—The new Alamac Hotel, formerly Young's, has thrown open its up-to-date and artistic rathskeller to the public; only that the new institution is not called a rathskeller, but the Latz-Keller. The hostlery is conducted by Mack Latz & Co., the Latz being a play upon the name. The new Latz-Keller has a dining room 20x100 feet and with three entrances.

The Boardwalk is to have another new hotel that will cost a half million dollars. It will be erected at Tennessee avenue on the site now occupied by Childs's restaurant, and will contain 1,000 rooms. The new hostlery will be owned by financiers connected with the Boardwalk National Bank, and will be built to resemble the new Hotel McAlpin, in New York. Entrances will be provided from Tennessee avenue, Ocean avenue and the Boardwalk, with the front of the building occupying the entire space between the streets named.

The new hostlery will introduce some innovations to the Boardwalk; for instance, a central court, to be transformed into a conservatory during the winter months; a swimming pool, with both fresh and sea water; Turkish baths, a gymnasium for the special use of guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Wesley are New York visitors spending the week end at the Alamac.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar W. Herman, of New York, have apartments at the Traymore.

Mrs. L. M. Mooney and Miss T. J. Mooney are New York visitors at the Hotel Dennis over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Colgate are New York folk at the St. Charles, accompanied by their sons, Gilbert Colgate, jr., and Robert B. Colgate.

Mrs. Walter E. Woodford, of New York, has leased apartments at the Shelburne for the balance of March.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Rice are New York folk at the Hotel Strand.

NATIONAL GUARD NEWS

Training in Riding for Officers of Coast Artillery.

Mounted officers of the coast artillery have received an opportunity to attend a school of equitation, which is to open on April 1 in the armory of the 1st Squadron Cavalry, at 94th street and Madison avenue. Captain David H. Biddle, Cavalry U. S. A., and Captain Edward Olmsted, aid to Major General O'Ryan, will be the instructors, and mounts and horse equipments through the courtesy of Major Wright, of the squadron, will be furnished free to all the riders. Brigadier General Elmore F. Austin, chief of coast artillery, the officers attached to his headquarters, and the officers of the 8th Regiment will practise on April 1, 8, 15 and 22, and the officers of the 9th Regiment will practise on April 3, 10, 17 and 24. In order to give the coast artillerymen an opportunity for instruction in equitation, the school for infantry and engineer officers, which has proved such a great success, was discontinued one month earlier than originally intended. While it is very rare that officers of coast artillery have to ride horses, it is pointed out that emergency might make it necessary for coast artillery to go into the field as mobile troops, as was done in the case of coast artillerymen of the army some two years ago, when they were sent down to Texas to act as infantrymen. It is considered not so unlikely that some of our coast artillerymen may have to go into the field as infantrymen, and in this event mounted officers would be a necessity.

At the next review of the 7th Regiment, which will be held in April, the machine gun company of the regiment, the formation of which has been authorized by the Governor, will give an exhibition drill. The 7th is the first infantry command to have a machine gun unit, and will be the first to give an exhibition of it. Two Colt automatic guns have been received, mounted on carriages, and Captain Bostwick is busy putting his men through their new paces. It is understood that orders will soon be issued directing each battalion to parade as a unit for drill, instead of having a battalion of two companies, divided in four commands parade, which has been the custom for some years past. The games of the regimental athletic association, to be held next Saturday night, offer a very attractive programme. Recruiting has been quite lively in the regiment, and several companies have secured some very good additions.

It is expected that Governor Glynn will review the 12th Regiment some evening between April 17 and 30. The regiment from January 1 to the present time has enlisted 176 new men. During the next twenty days it is hoped to have the recruiting record at least an even two hundred men.

Brigadier General George R. Dyer, 1st Brigade, will review the 22d Engineers next Wednesday night. Colonel Hotchkin, of the 2d, in 1898 was a major, and after the volunteer command was mustered out in November, 1898, he joined the 12th Regiment of volunteers as a first lieutenant, in December, 1898, serving with it in Cuba, and until it was mustered out in April, 1899.

It is possible a review of the 69th Regiment may be held at short notice, as Colonel Conley is waiting to hear from a prominent public man who is somewhat pressed for time, which will compel hurried arrangements. General Dyer will present gold pins, representing shamrocks, to the men of every company in the regiment, providing their companies organize a rifle team of ten men for an inter-company competition in the armory. Lieutenant T. H. Shanton has been assigned to command Company I, vice Nolan, resigned, and is proving popular with the company. It is thought likely that John J. Phalen, regimental adjutant, may be chosen lieutenant colonel, vice Healy, resigned, and Captain William E. Morris, of Company E, may be chosen Major, vice Reville, resigned.

First Sergeant George B. Young, of Company I, 71st Regiment, has just completed twenty-five years of continuous service, during which he missed only one drill in all that time. He served in the Buffalo railroad strike, the Brooklyn trolley car strike and in Cuba during the war with Spain. He received a serious wound in the head at the battle of San Juan on July 1, 1898. He will shortly be awarded a state decoration for long and faithful service. Following the review of the regiment, on Monday, April 20, by Governor Fielder of New Jersey it is thought likely that Governor Glynn will review. The regiment will parade for divine service at St. George's Church on Sunday, April 26, in the afternoon.

The 23d Regiment will be reviewed next Wednesday night by prominent members of the Chamber of Commerce. Company C will hold a review on April 4, Company M on April 15 and Company A on April 22. The regiment will parade for divine service next Sunday afternoon at the Central Congregational Church, Brooklyn.

Colonel Foote, of the 14th Regiment, will hold his next review on Wednesday night, April 15, and General J. G. Eddy, 2d Brigade, will be the reviewing officer. Another review will be held on May 23. Company M will hold its annual ball next Saturday night.

Only five members of the 1st Squadron Cavalry, Major Wright, were absent at the annual inspection and muster, which was completed a few days ago by army and state officers. The squadron paraded 292 members present out of 297 on the roll. Last year the figures were 274 present and four absent, which is a net gain of nineteen for the muster of 1914. There was one absent in Troop A and four in Troop B. All the other units had 100 per cent present. Troops C and D are the largest troops, each with sixty members.

A net gain of thirty-nine members is shown by the 8th Regiment at its annual muster, just completed. It had 498 officers and men present and thirty-eight absent, while at the muster of 1913 it had 473 present and twenty-four absent. The 31st Company had all its forty-eight members present, the 33d Company, with sixty-two members, was the largest, and the 26th Company, with sixty-one present, was the second largest.

Mounted officers of the 13th Regiment are anxious to be included among those officers to attend the school of equitation under Captain Biddle. Regimental headquarters was notified of the school, the same as the other regiments, but it is understood failed to reply until the schedule for the school was made up. It is considered doubtful that the officers of the 13th can now participate. Captain B. T. Clayton, U. S. A., a former officer of the regiment, and stationed at West Point, will review the regiment on Friday night, April 3.

Veterans of the 47th Regiment will review the active command next Saturday night.

Incidental to the review of the 9th Regiment next Saturday night by the veterans under Captain George M. Pollard a bronze memorial tablet to the memory of those who lost their lives in the blowing up of the Maine at Havana in 1898 will be unveiled. The tablet is made of metal recovered from the Maine, and was presented by the Navy Department.
